Jonathan is a co-founder and Managing Partner of Boies Schiller Flexner. His substantial litigation successes for the firm include co-lead counsel for the class action plaintiffs in the In Re Vitamins antitrust litigation, which the presiding judge determined “uncovered the illegal actions of vitamins manufacturers across the globe,” and in which a record antitrust settlement of $1.05 billion was achieved for the class. Who’s Who Legal has recognized Jonathan as one of its most highly regarded individuals, naming him “the real deal” in their listing of the top 10 international commercial litigators. Who’s Who Legal has continued to recognize him as an international leader in litigation through 2019. US Legal 500 has described Mr. Schiller as “one of the premier international arbitration attorneys in the world,” and “A seasoned practitioner with an impressive reputation”. In addition, Chambers USA has “Recognized [Mr. Schiller] as a leading practitioner in the field of international arbitration,” and a “real warrior, who will wade into any battle for you”.

Jonathan was elected a Fellow of the American Bar Foundation “in recognition of professional attainment and distinguished service” and has been a member of the Milan Chamber of Commerce International Arbitration Club of Arbitrators since 1995.

Mr. Schiller is an honored alumnus: He served a nine-year term on Columbia University’s Board of Trustees including a five-year term as Chair of Columbia’s Board of Trustees. In 2019, he was awarded Columbia Law School’s highest honor, the Medal of Excellence. He also received Columbia College’s Alexander Hamilton Medal for “distinguished service and accomplishment” in 2012. In 2006, he received the John Jay Award for “distinguished professional achievement” from Columbia College. Schiller was also named a “Legend of Ivy League Basketball” by the Ivy League in 2017. In 2020, Columbia's Basketball Court in Levien Gymnasium was named the Jonathan D. Schiller Court.
