The Institution, Conciliation and Arbitration Rules are supplemented by explanatory Notes prepared by the Secretariat of the Centre. Though these do not constitute part of the Rules and have no legal force, the Administrative Council considered that they might be useful to the parties to proceedings and should therefore be published together with the texts of the Rules.

Part E of this volume contains two cross-reference tables, which respectively cite:

1. For each paragraph of the Regulations and Rules: any relevant provisions of the Convention and any related and any parallel (similar) provisions that can be found in other parts of the Regulations and Rules;
2. For each paragraph of the Convention: any related or parallel (similar) provisions in that instrument, the relevant explanatory passages in the accompanying report of the Executive Directors of the World Bank, and the Regulations and Rules implementing that paragraph.

<sup>1</sup>The Convention, which entered into force on October 14, 1966, was formulated by the Executive Directors of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and submitted by them to the Governments of the member States of the Bank on March 18, 1965, together with an accompanying report. The Convention and the text of the report appear in document ICSID/2.

<sup>2</sup>By a Resolution adopted on April 30, 1970, the Administrative Council of the Centre added Administrative and Financial Regulation 3 bis, amended paragraph (1) of Regulation 6 and added a new paragraph (4) to Regulation 6. By a Resolution adopted on September 27, 1973, the Administrative Council of the Centre amended paragraph (3) of the Administrative and Financial Regulation 20. By a Resolution adopted on February 28, 1975, the Administrative Council of the Centre amended paragraph (1) of the Administrative and Financial Regulation 13.

ADMINISTRATIVE AND FINANCIAL REGULATIONS

INTRODUCTORY NOTES

A. The Administrative and Financial Regulations of the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes were adopted by the Administrative Council of the Centre pursuant to Article 6(1)(a) of the Convention on the Settlement of Investment Disputes between States and Nationals of Other States. In addition, these Regulations are also designed to implement certain other normative powers or obligations of the Council, such as those established by Convention Articles 7(4) (see Regulation 6(3)), 10(3) (see Regulation 8(1), final sentence), 11 (see Regulations 9-11), 17 (see Regulation 17(1)), 59 (see Regulations 13-15), and 60(1) (see Regulation 13(1)).

B. The Regulations of particular interest to parties to proceedings under the Convention are: 12-15, 21, 23-31 and 34. They are intended to be complementary both to the Convention and to the Institution, Conciliation and Arbitration Rules<sup>1</sup> adopted pursuant to Article 6(1)(b) and (c) of the Convention. The Regulations should similarly be considered as complementary to any ad hoc conciliation or arbitration rules adopted by the parties to a proceeding pursuant to Article 33 or 44 of the Convention.

CHAPTER I

PROCEDURES OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL

Regulation 1

Date and Place of the Annual Meeting

(1) The Annual Meeting of the Administrative Council shall take place in conjunction with the Annual Meeting of the Board of Governors of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (hereinafter referred to as the "Bank"), unless the Council specifies otherwise.

(2) The Secretary-General shall coordinate the arrangements for the Annual Meeting of the Administrative Council with the appropriate officers of the Bank.

Regulation 2

Notice of Meetings

(1) The Secretary-General shall, by any rapid means of communication, give each member notice of the time and place of each meeting of the Administrative Council, which notice shall be dispatched not less than 42 days prior to the date set for such meeting, except that in urgent cases such notice shall be sufficient if dispatched by telegram or cable not less than 10 days prior to the date set for such meeting.

(2) Any meeting of the Administrative Council at which no quorum is present may be adjourned from time to time by a majority of the members present and notice of the adjourned meeting need not be given.

Agenda for Meetings

(1) Under the direction of the Chairman, the Secretary-General shall prepare a brief agenda for each meeting of the Administrative Council and shall transmit such agenda to each member with the notice of such meeting.

(2) Additional subjects may be placed on the agenda for any meeting of the Administrative Council by any member provided that he shall give notice thereof to the Secretary-General not less than seven days prior to the date set for such meeting. In special circumstances the Chairman, or the Secretary-General after consulting the Chairman, may at any time place additional subjects on the agenda for any meeting of the Council. The Secretary-General shall as promptly as possible give each member notice of the addition of any subject to the agenda for any meeting.

(3) The Administrative Council may at any time authorize any subject to be placed on the agenda for any meeting even though the notice required by this Regulation shall not have been given.

Regulation 3 bis<sup>2</sup>

Presiding Officer

(1) The Chairman shall be the Presiding Officer at meetings of the Administrative Council.

(2) If the Chairman is unable to preside over all or part of a meeting of the Council, one of the members of the Administrative Council shall act as temporary Presiding Officer. This member shall be the Representative, Alternate Representative or temporary Alternate Representative of that Contracting State represented at the meeting that stands highest on a list of Contracting States arranged chronologically according to the date of the deposit of instruments of ratification, acceptance or approval of the Convention, starting with the State following the one that had on the last previous occasion provided a temporary Presiding Officer. A temporary Presiding Officer may cast the vote of the State he represents, or he may assign another member of his delegation to do so.

Secretary of the Council

(1) The Secretary-General shall serve as Secretary of the Administrative Council.

(2) Except as otherwise specifically directed by the Administrative Council, the Secretary-General, in consultation with the Chairman, shall have charge of all arrangements for the holding of meetings of the Council.

(3) The Secretary-General shall keep a summary record of the proceedings of the Administrative Council, copies of which shall be provided to all members.

(4) The Secretary-General shall present to each Annual Meeting of the Administrative Council, for its approval pursuant to Article 6(1)(g) of the Convention, the annual report on the operation of the Centre.

Regulation 5
Attendance at Meetings

(1) The Secretary-General and the Deputy Secretaries-General may attend all meetings of the Administrative Council.

(2) The Secretary-General, in consultation with the Chairman, may invite observers to attend any meeting of the Administrative Council.

Regulation 6
Voting

(1)<sup>3</sup> Except as otherwise specifically provided in the Convention, all decisions of the Administrative Council shall be taken by a majority of the votes cast. At any meeting the Presiding Officer may ascertain the sense of the meeting in lieu of a formal vote but he shall require a formal vote upon the request of any member. Whenever a formal vote is required the written text of the motion shall be distributed to the members.

(2) No member of the Administrative Council may vote by proxy or by any other method than in person, but the representative of a Contracting State may designate a temporary alternate to vote for him at any meeting at which the regular alternate is not present.

(3) Whenever, in the judgment of the Chairman, any action must be taken by the Administrative Council which should not be postponed until the next Annual Meeting of the Council and does not warrant the calling of a special meeting, the Secretary-General shall transmit to each member by any rapid means of communication a motion embodying the proposed action with a request for a vote by the members of the Council. Votes shall be cast during a period ending 21 days after such dispatch, unless a longer period is approved by the Chairman. At the expiration of the established period, the Secretary-General shall record the results and notify all members of the Council. If the replies received do not include those of a majority of the members, the motion shall be considered lost.

(4)<sup>4</sup> Whenever at a meeting of the Administrative Council at which all Contracting States are not represented, the votes necessary to adopt a proposed decision by a majority of two-thirds of the members of the Council are not obtained, the Council with the concurrence of the Chairman may decide that the votes of those members of the Council represented at the meeting shall be registered and the votes of the absent members shall be solicited in accordance with paragraph (3) of this Regulation. Votes registered at the meeting may be changed by the member before the expiration of the voting period established pursuant to that paragraph.

<sup>4</sup>Added by amendment adopted on April 30, 1970.

CHAPTER II THE SECRETARIAT

Regulation 7

Election of the Secretary-General and his Deputies

In proposing to the Administrative Council one or more candidates for the office of Secretary-General or any Deputy Secretary-General, the Chairman shall at the same time make proposals with respect to:

- (a) the length of the term of service;
- (b) approval for any of the candidates to hold, if elected, any other employment or to engage in any other occupation;
- (c) the conditions of service, taking into account any proposals made pursuant to paragraph (b)

Acting Secretary-General

(1) If, on the election of a Deputy Secretary-General, there should at any time be more than one Deputy Secretary-General, the Chairman shall immediately after such election propose to the Administrative Council the order in which these Deputies shall act as Secretary-General pursuant to Article 10(3) of the Convention. In the absence of such a decision the order shall be that of seniority in the post of Deputy.

(2) The Secretary-General shall designate the member of the staff of the Centre who shall act for him during his absence or inability to act, if all Deputy Secretaries-General should also be absent or unable to act or if the office of Deputy should be vacant. If there should be a simultaneous vacancy in the offices of Secretary-General and Deputy Secretary-General, the Chairman shall designate the member of the staff who shall act for the Secretary-General.

Regulation 9

Appointment of Staff Members

The Secretary-General shall appoint the members of the staff of the Centre. Appointments may be made directly or by secondment.

Regulation 10

Conditions of Employment

(1) The conditions of service of the members of the staff of the Centre shall be the same as those of the staff of the Bank.

(2) The Secretary-General shall make arrangements with the Bank, within the framework of the general administrative arrangements approved by the Administrative Council pursuant to Article 6(1)(d) of the Convention, for the participation of members of the Secretariat in the Staff Retirement Plan of the Bank as well as in other facilities and contractual arrangements established for the benefit of the staff of the Bank.

Regulation 11

Authority of the Secretary-General

(1) Deputy Secretaries-General and the members of the staff, whether on direct appointment or on secondment, shall act solely under the direction of the Secretary-General.

(2) The Secretary-General shall have authority to dismiss members of the Secretariat and to impose disciplinary measures. In the case of Deputy Secretaries-General dismissal may only be imposed with the concurrence of the Administrative Council.

Regulation 12

Incompatibility of Functions

The Secretary-General, the Deputy Secretaries-General and the members of the staff may not serve on the Panel of Conciliators or of Arbitrators, or as members of any Commission or Tribunal.

CHAPTER III

FINANCIAL PROVISIONS

Direct Costs of Individual Proceedings

(1)<sup>5</sup> Unless otherwise agreed pursuant to Article 60(2) of the Convention, and in addition to receiving reimbursement for any direct expenses reasonably incurred, each member of a Commission, a Tribunal or an ad hoc Committee appointed from the Panel of Arbitrators pursuant to Article 52(3) of the Convention (hereinafter referred to as "Committee") shall receive:

- (a) a fee not exceeding US $350 per day for each day on which he participates in meetings of the body of which he is a member;
- (b) a fee not exceeding US $350 for the equivalent of each eight hour day of other work performed in connection with the proceedings;
- (c) in lieu of the reimbursement of subsistence expenses when away from his normal place of residence, a per diem allowance not exceeding the amount which shall be established from time to time for the Executive Directors of the Bank.

The amounts stated in paragraphs (a) and (b) above may be increased or decreased by the Secretary-General, with the approval of the Chairman, in order to take account of monetary changes and changes in the cost of living but such increase or decrease shall not be made more than once a year, for the first time on or after January 1, 1976.

(2) All payments, including reimbursement of expenses, to the following shall in all cases be made by the Centre and not by or through either party to the proceeding:

- (a) members of Commissions, Tribunals and Committees;
- (b) witnesses and experts summoned at the initiative of a Commission, Tribunal or Committee, and not of one of the parties;
- (c) members of the Secretariat of the Centre, including persons (such as interpreters, translators, reporters or secretaries) especially engaged by the Centre for a particular proceeding;
- (d) the host of any proceeding held away from the seat of the Centre pursuant to Article 63 of the Convention.

(3) In order to enable the Centre to make the payments provided for in paragraph (2), as well as to incur other direct expenses in connection with a proceeding (other than expenses covered by Regulation 14)

- (a) the parties shall make advance payments to the Centre as follows:
  - (i) initially as soon as a Commission, Tribunal or Committee has been constituted and thereafter before the beginning of each calendar quarter, the Secretary-General shall, in consultation with the President of the body in question and as far as possible the parties, estimate the expenses that will be incurred by the Centre during the following calendar quarter (or the balance of the current quarter in the case of the initial estimate) and request the parties to make an advance payment of this amount;
  - (ii) if at any time the Secretary-General determines, after consultation with the President of the body in question and as far as possible the parties, that the advances made by the parties will not cover a revised estimate of expenses for the applicable period, he shall request the parties to make a supplementary advance payment;
- (b) the Centre shall not be required to provide any service in connection with a proceeding or to pay the fees, allowances or expenses of the members of any Commission, Tribunal or Committee, unless sufficient advance payments shall previously have been made;
- (c) as soon as possible after the end of each calendar quarter the Secretary-General shall ascertain the actual expenses incurred and commitments entered into by the Centre with regard to each proceeding and shall appropriately charge or credit the parties, taking into account the advance payments by them;
- (d) in connection with every conciliation proceeding, and in connection with every arbitration proceeding unless a different division is provided for in the Arbitration Rules or is decided by the parties or the Tribunal, each party shall pay one half of each advance or supplemental charge, without prejudice to the final decision on the payment of the cost of an arbitration proceeding to be made by the Tribunal pursuant to Article 61(2) of the Convention. All advances and charges shall be payable, at the place and in the currencies specified by the Secretary-General, as soon as a request for payment is made by him. If the amounts requested are not paid in full within 30 days, then the Secretary-General shall inform both parties of the default and give an opportunity to either of them to make the required payment. At any time 15 days after such information is sent by the Secretary-General, he may move that the Commission, Tribunal or Committee stay the proceeding, if by the date of such motion any part of the required payment is still outstanding. If any proceeding is stayed for non-payment for a consecutive period in excess of six months, the Secretary-General may, after notice to and as far as possible in consultation with the parties, move that the competent body discontinue the proceeding.

Special Services to Parties

(1) The Centre shall only perform any special service for a party in connection with a proceeding (for example, the provision of translations or copies) if the party shall in advance have deposited an amount sufficient to cover the charge for such service.

(2) Charges for special services shall normally be based on a schedule of fees to be promulgated from time to time by the Secretary-General and communicated by him to all Contracting States as well as to the parties to all pending proceedings.

Regulation 15

Fee for Lodging Requests

(1) The party or parties (if a request is made jointly) wishing to institute a conciliation or arbitration proceeding shall pay the Centre a fee of US $100, which is not refundable even if the Secretary-General refuses registration.

(2) The party or parties (if a request is made jointly) requesting a supplementary decision to or the rectification, interpretation, revision or annulment of an arbitral award shall pay the Centre a fee of US $50.

(3) The party or parties (if a request is made jointly) requesting the resubmission of a dispute to a new Tribunal after the annulment of an arbitral award shall pay the Centre a fee of US $50.

Regulation 16

The Budget

(1) The fiscal year of the Centre shall run from July 1 of each year to June 30 of the following year.

(2) Before the end of each fiscal year the Secretary-General shall prepare and submit, for adoption by the Administrative Council at its next Annual Meeting and in accordance with Article 6(1)(f) of the Convention, a budget for the following fiscal year. This budget is to indicate the expected expenditures of the Centre (excepting those to be incurred on a reimbursable basis) and the expected revenues (excepting reimbursements)

(3) If, during the course of a fiscal year, the Secretary-General determines that the expected expenditures will exceed those authorized in the budget, or if he should wish to incur expenditures not previously authorized, he shall, in consultation with the Chairman, prepare a supplementary budget, which he shall submit to the Administrative Council for adoption, either at the Annual Meeting or at any other meeting, or in accordance with Regulation 6(3)

(4) The adoption of a budget constitutes authority for the Secretary-General to make expenditures and incur obligations for the purposes and within the limits specified in the budget. Unless otherwise provided by the Administrative Council, the Secretary-General may exceed the amount specified for any given budget item, provided that the total amount of the budget is not exceeded.

(5) Pending the adoption of the budget by the Administrative Council, the Secretary-General may incur expenditures for the purposes and within the limits specified in the budget he submitted to the Council, up to one quarter of the amount authorized to be expended in the previous fiscal year but in no event exceeding the amount that the Bank has agreed to make available for the current fiscal year.

Assessment of Contributions

(1) Any excess of expected expenditures over expected revenues shall be assessed on the Contracting States. Each State that is not a member of the Bank shall be assessed a fraction of the total assessment equal to the fraction of the budget of the International Court of Justice that it would have to bear if that budget were divided only among the Contracting States in proportion to the then current scale of contributions applicable to the budget of the Court; the balance of the total assessment shall be divided among the Contracting States that are members of the Bank in proportion to their respective subscriptions to the capital stock of the Bank. The assessments shall be calculated by the Secretary-General immediately after the adoption of the annual budget, on the basis of the then current membership of the Centre, and shall be promptly communicated to all Contracting States. The assessments shall be payable as soon as they are thus communicated.

(2) On the adoption of a supplementary budget, the Secretary-General shall immediately calculate supplementary assessments, which shall be payable as soon as they are communicated to the Contracting States.

(3) A State which is party to the Convention during any part of a fiscal year shall be assessed for the entire fiscal year. If a State becomes a party to the Convention after the assessments for a given fiscal year have been calculated, its assessment shall be calculated by the application of the same appropriate factor as was applied in calculating the original assessments, and no recalculation of the assessments of the other Contracting States shall be made.

(4) If, after the close of a fiscal year, it is determined that there is a cash surplus, such surplus shall, unless the Administrative Council otherwise decides, be credited to the Contracting States in proportion to the assessed contributions they had paid for that fiscal year. These credits shall be made with respect to the assessments for the fiscal year commencing two years after the end of the fiscal year to which the surplus pertains.

Regulation 18

Audits

The Secretary-General shall have an audit of the accounts of the Centre made once each year and on the basis of this audit submit a financial statement to the Administrative Council for consideration at the Annual Meeting.

CHAPTER IV GENERAL FUNCTIONS OF THE SECRETARIAT

Regulation 19

List of Contracting States

The Secretary-General shall maintain a list, which he shall transmit from time to time to all Contracting States and on request to any State or person, of the Contracting States (including former Contracting States, showing the date on which their notice of denunciation was received by the depositary), indicating for each:

- (a) the date on which the Convention entered into force with respect to it;
- (b) any territories excluded pursuant to Article 70 of the Convention and the dates on which the notice of exclusion and any modification of such notice were received by the depositary;
- (c) any designation, pursuant to Article 25(1) of the Convention, of constituent subdivisions or agencies to whose investment disputes the jurisdiction of the Centre extends;
- (d) any notification, pursuant to Article 25(3) of the Convention, that no approval by the State is required for the consent by a constituent subdivision or agency to the jurisdiction of the Centre;
- (e) any notification, pursuant to Article 25(4) of the Convention, of the class or classes of disputes which the State would or would not consider submitting to the jurisdiction of the Centre;
- (f) the competent court or other authority for the recognition and enforcement of arbitral awards, designated pursuant to Article 54(2) of the Convention;
- (g) any legislative or other measures taken, pursuant to Article 69 of the Convention, for making its provisions effective in the territories of the State and communicated by the State to the Centre.

Establishment of Panels

(1) Whenever a Contracting State has the right to make one or more designations to the Panel of Conciliators or of Arbitrators, the Secretary-General shall invite the State to make such designations.

(2) Each designation made by a Contracting State or by the Chairman shall indicate the name, address and nationality of the designee, and include a statement of his qualifications, with particular reference to his competence in the fields of law, commerce, industry and finance.

(3)<sup>6</sup> As soon as the Secretary-General is notified of a designation, he shall inform the designee thereof, indicating to him the designating authority and the terminal date of the period of designation, and requesting confirmation that the designee is willing to serve.

(4) The Secretary-General shall maintain lists, which he shall transmit from time to time to all Contracting States and on request to any State or person, of the members of the Panels of Conciliators and of Arbitrators, indicating for each member:

- (a) his address;
- (b) his nationality;
- (c) the terminal date of the current designation;
- (d) the designating authority;
- (e) his qualifications.

Regulation 21

Publication

(1) The Secretary-General shall appropriately publish information about the operation of the Centre, including the registration of all requests for conciliation or arbitration and in due course an indication of the date and method of the termination of each proceeding.

(2) If both parties to a proceeding consent to the publication of:

- (a) reports of Conciliation Commissions;
- (b) arbitral awards; or
- (c) the minutes and other records of proceedings, the Secretary-General shall arrange for the publication thereof, in an appropriate form with a view to furthering the development of international law in relation to investments.

Regulation 22

Schedule of Charges for Documents

The Secretary-General shall promulgate schedules of charges for the transmission, on request, of the lists referred to in Regulations 19 and 20(4), and for the sale of any publications of the Centre.

CHAPTER V
FUNCTIONS WITH RESPECT TO INDIVIDUAL PROCEEDINGS

Regulation 23
The Registers

(1) The Secretary-General shall maintain, in accordance with rules to be promulgated by him, separate Registers for requests for conciliation and requests for arbitration. In these he shall enter all significant data concerning the institution, conduct and disposition of each proceeding, including in particular the method of constitution and the membership of each Commission, Tribunal and Committee. On the Arbitration Register he shall also enter, with respect to each award, all significant data concerning any request for the supplementation, rectification, interpretation, revision or annulment of the award, and any stay of enforcement.

(2) The Registers shall be open for inspection by any person. The Secretary-General shall promulgate rules concerning access to the Registers, and a schedule of charges for the provision of certified and uncertified extracts therefrom.

Regulation 24
Means of Communication

(1) During the pendency of any proceeding the Secretary-General shall be the official channel of written communications among the parties, the Commission, Tribunal or Committee, and the Chairman of the Administrative Council, except that:

- (a) the parties may communicate directly with each other unless the communication is one required by the Convention or the Institution, Conciliation or Arbitration Rules (hereinafter referred to as the "Rules");
- (b) the members of any Commission, Tribunal or Committee shall communicate directly with each other.

(2) Instruments and documents shall be introduced into the proceeding by transmitting them to the Secretary-General, who shall retain the original for the files of the Centre and arrange for appropriate distribution of copies. If the instrument or document does not meet the applicable requirements, the Secretary-General:

- (a) shall inform the party submitting it of the deficiency, and of any consequent action the Secretary-General is taking;
- (b) may, if the deficiency is merely a formal one, accept it subject to subsequent correction;
- (c) may, if the deficiency consists merely of an insufficiency in the number of copies or the lack of required translations, provide the necessary copies or translations at the cost of the party concerned, assessed in accordance with Regulation 14.

Regulation 25

Secretary

The Secretary-General shall appoint a Secretary for each Commission, Tribunal and Committee. The Secretary may be drawn from among the Secretariat of the Centre, and shall in any case, while serving in that capacity, be considered as a member of its staff. He shall:

- (a) represent the Secretary-General and may perform all functions assigned to the latter by these Regulations or the Rules with regard to individual proceedings or assigned to the latter by the Convention, and delegated by him to the Secretary;
- (b) be the channel through which the parties may request particular services from the Centre;
- (c) attend all hearings by the Commission, Tribunal or Committee and keep and sign the minutes;
- (d) perform other functions with respect to the proceeding at the request of the President of the Commission, Tribunal or Committee, or at the direction of the Secretary-General;
- (e) direct any other staff members of the Centre assigned to the proceeding.

Place of Proceedings

(1) The Secretary-General shall make arrangements for the holding of conciliation and arbitration proceedings at the seat of the Centre or shall, at the request of the parties and as provided in Article 63 of the Convention, make or supervise arrangements if proceedings are held elsewhere.

(2) The Secretary-General shall assist a Commission or Tribunal, at its request, in visiting any place connected with a dispute or in conducting inquiries there.

Regulation 27

Other Assistance

(1) The Secretary-General shall provide such other assistance as may be required in connection with all meetings of Commissions, Tribunals and Committees, in particular in making translations and interpretations from one official language of the Centre into another.

(2) The Secretary-General may also provide, by use of the staff and equipment of the Centre or of persons employed and equipment acquired on a short-time basis, other services required for the conduct of proceedings, such as the duplication and translation of documents, or interpretations from and to a language other than an official language of the Centre.

Regulation 28

Depositary Functions

(1) The Secretary-General shall deposit in the archives of the Centre and shall make arrangements for the permanent retention of the original text:

- (a) of the request and of all instruments and documents filed or prepared in connection with any proceeding, including the minutes of any hearing;
- (b) of any report by a Commission or of any award or decision by a Tribunal or Committee.

(2) Subject to the Rules and to the agreement of the parties to particular proceedings, and upon payment of any charges in accordance with a schedule to be promulgated by the Secretary-General, he shall make available to the parties certified copies of reports and awards (reflecting thereon any supplementary decision, rectification, interpretation, revision or annulment duly made, and any stay of enforcement while it is in effect), as well as of other instruments, documents and minutes.

CHAPTER VI SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO PROCEEDINGS

Time Limits

(1) All time limits, specified in the Convention or the Rules or fixed by a Commission, Tribunal, Committee or the Secretary-General, shall be computed from the date on which the limit is announced in the presence of the parties or their representatives or on which the Secretary-General dispatches the pertinent notification or instrument (which date shall be marked on it) The day of such announcement or dispatch shall be excluded from the calculation.

(2) A time limit shall be satisfied if a notification or instrument dispatched by a party is delivered at the seat of the Centre, or to the Secretary of the competent Commission, Tribunal or Committee that is meeting away from the seat of the Centre, before the close of business on the indicated date or, if that day is a Saturday, a Sunday, a public holiday observed at the place of delivery or a day on which for any reason regular mail delivery is restricted at the place of delivery, then before the close of business on the next subsequent day on which regular mail service is available.

Supporting Documentation

(1) Documentation filed in support of any request, pleading, application, written observation or other instrument introduced into a proceeding shall consist of one original and of the number of additional copies specified in paragraph (2) The original shall, unless otherwise agreed by the parties or ordered by the competent Commission, Tribunal or Committee, consist of the complete document or of a copy or extract duly certified by a public official, except if the party is unable to obtain such document or certified copy or extract (in which case the reason for such inability must be stated)

(2) The number of additional copies of any document shall be equal to the number of additional copies required of the instrument to which the documentation relates, except that no such copies are required if the document has been published and is readily available. Each additional copy shall be certified by the party presenting it to be a true and complete copy of the original, except that if the document is lengthy and relevant only in part, it is sufficient if it is certified to be a true and complete extract of the relevant parts, which must be precisely specified.

(3) Each original and additional copy of a document which is not in a language approved for the proceeding in question, shall, unless otherwise ordered by the competent Commission, Tribunal or Committee, be accompanied by a certified translation into such a language. However, if the document is lengthy and relevant only in part, it is sufficient if only the relevant parts, which must be precisely specified, are translated, provided that the competent body may require a fuller or a complete translation.

(4) Whenever an extract of an original document is presented pursuant to paragraph (1) or a partial copy or translation pursuant to paragraph (2) or (3), each such extract, copy and translation shall be accompanied by a statement that the omission of the remainder of the text does not render the portion presented misleading.

CHAPTER VII IMMUNITIES AND PRIVILEGES

Regulation 31 Certificates of Official Travel

The Secretary-General may issue certificates to members of Commissions, Tribunals or Committees, to officers and employees of the Secretariat and to the parties, agents, counsel, advocates, witnesses and experts appearing in proceedings, indicating that they are traveling in connection with a proceeding under the Convention.

Regulation 32 Waiver of Immunities

- (1) The Secretary-General may waive the immunity of:
  - (a) the Centre;
  - (b) members of the staff of the Centre.
- (2) The Chairman of the Council may waive the immunity of:
  - (a) the Secretary-General or any Deputy Secretary-General;
  - (b) members of a Commission, Tribunal or Committee;
  - (c) the parties, agents, counsel, advocates, witnesses or experts appearing in a proceeding, if a recommendation for such waiver is made by the Commission, Tribunal or Committee concerned.

- (3) The Administrative Council may waive the immunity of:
- (a) the Chairman and members of the Council;
  - (b) the parties, agents, counsel, advocates, witnesses or experts appearing in a proceeding, even if no recommendation for such a waiver is made by the Commission, Tribunal or Committee concerned;
  - (c) the Centre or any person mentioned in paragraph (1) or (2)

CHAPTER VIII MISCELLANEOUS

Regulation 33

Communications with Contracting States

Unless another channel of communications is specified by the State concerned, all communications required by the Convention or these Regulations to be sent to Contracting States shall be addressed to the State's representative on the Administrative Council.

Regulation 34

Official Languages

(1) The initial official languages of the Centre shall be English and French. Spanish will be added as an official language as soon as a Spanish-speaking State becomes a party to the Convention.

(2) The texts of these Regulations in each official language shall be equally authentic.

RULES OF PROCEDURE FOR THE INSTITUTION OF CONCILIATION AND ARBITRATION PROCEEDINGS
(INSTITUTION RULES)

INTRODUCTORY NOTES

A. The Rules of Procedure for the Institution of Conciliation and Arbitration Proceedings (hereinafter, and in accordance with Rule 9(2), the "Institution Rules") of the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes were adopted by the Administrative Council of the Centre pursuant to Article 6(1)(b) of the Convention on the Settlement of Investment Disputes between States and Nationals of Other States.

B. These Rules are supplemented by the Administrative and Financial Regulations of the Centre<sup>1</sup>, in particular by Regulations 15(1), 21(1), 23, 24, 30 and 34.

C. These Rules are restricted in scope to the period of time from the filing of a request to the dispatch of the notice of registration. All transactions subsequent to that time are to be regulated in accordance with the Conciliation and the Arbitration Rules<sup>2</sup>

Rule 1

The Request

(1) Any Contracting State or any national of a Contracting State wishing to institute conciliation or arbitration proceedings under the Convention shall address a request to that effect in writing to the Secretary-General at the seat of the Centre. The request shall indicate whether it relates to a conciliation or an arbitration proceeding. It shall be drawn up in an official language of the Centre, shall be dated, and shall be signed by the requesting party.

(2) The request may be made jointly by the parties to the dispute.

NOTES

A. The first sentence of Rule 1(1) reproduces the substance of Articles 28(1) and 36(1) of the Convention. Neither the Convention nor the Rule specify any time-limit within which a request must be made.

B. The "seat" of the Centre is provided for in Article 2 of the Convention.

C. The Convention deals separately—though in identical terms—with requests for conciliation and for arbitration. This, of course, does not prevent the submission of a dispute first to conciliation and, if the parties cannot be reconciled, then to arbitration (cf. Article 35 of the Convention), and indeed the parties may agree to do so in advance. But in such cases a separate request is required at each stage.

D. The official languages of the Centre are specified in Administrative and Financial Regulation 34(1), and the request must be drawn up in one of these languages. However, this provision does not prejudice the language (or languages) in which the subsequent phases of the proceeding will take place. This question is dealt with in Conciliation Rule 21 and in Arbitration Rule 21.

E. It is clear that, except if the request is filed by a natural person, it is not possible to have the signature affixed "by" the party, and therefore the final sentence of Rule 1(1) should be read as permitting signature "for" a juridical person by a qualified officer thereof.

Rule 2
Contents of the Request

(1) The request shall:

- (a) designate precisely each party to the dispute and state the address of each;
- (b) state, if one of the parties is a constituent subdivision or agency of a Contracting State, that it has been designated to the Centre by that State pursuant to Article 25(1) of the Convention;
- (c) indicate the date of consent and the instruments in which it is recorded, including, if one party is a constituent subdivision or agency of a Contracting State, similar data on the approval of such consent by that State unless it had notified the Centre that no such approval is required;
- (d) indicate with respect to the party that is a national of a Contracting State:
  - (i) its nationality on the date of consent; and
  - (ii) if the party is a natural person:
    - (A) his nationality on the date of the request; and
    - (B) that he did not have the nationality of the Contracting State party to the dispute either on the date of consent or on the date of the request; or
  - (iii) if the party is a juridical person which on the date of consent had the nationality of the Contracting State party to the dispute, the agreement of the parties that it should be treated as a national of another Contracting State for the purposes of the Convention; and
- (e) contain information concerning the issues in dispute indicating that there is, between the parties, a legal dispute arising directly out of an investment.

(2) The information required by subparagraphs (1)(c) and (1)(d)(iii) shall be supported by documentation.

(3) "Date of consent" means the date on which the parties to the dispute consented in writing to submit it to the Centre; if both parties did not act on the same day, it means the date on which the second party acted.

NOTES

A. This Rule is based on Articles 28(2) and 36(2) of the Convention, and must be read in the light of Article 25(1), (2) and (3).

B. Under the Convention, the request must contain "information" concerning the identity of the parties, the issues in dispute and the consent of both parties to submission to the Centre. These three elements relate to "jurisdiction" in the sense in which that term is used in Article 25(1) of the Convention—"a convenient expression to mean the limits within which the provisions of the Convention will apply and the facilities of the Centre will be available" (see paragraph 22 of the Report of the IBRD Executive Directors accompanying the Convention—hereinafter the "Report").

C. Each Conciliation Commission and Arbitral Tribunal is, pursuant to Articles 32(1) and 41(1) of the Convention, the judge of its own competence. It is that body, therefore, which determines in substance the issue of jurisdiction, and the parties may, through evidence or argument, develop or refute the relevant "information" contained in the request. However, the Convention vests in the Secretary-General the power to "screen" requests before they are considered by the Commission or Tribunal in order to prevent proceedings in disputes that are "manifestly outside the jurisdiction of the Centre" Basically he is given this power—as the Report says (see paragraph 20)—"with a view to avoiding the embarrassment to a party (particularly a State) which might result from the institution of proceedings against it in a dispute which it had not consented to submit to the Centre, as well as the possibility that the machinery of the Centre would be set in motion in cases which for other reasons were obviously outside the jurisdiction of the Centre" The screening is exercised "on the basis of the information contained in the request" (Articles 28(3) and 36(3) of the Convention). Hence the information concerning the three elements of jurisdiction need not "prove" that the Centre has jurisdiction, but need only show "in accordance with the rules of procedure for the institution of conciliation and arbitration proceedings" (i.e., the present Rules) that the dispute is not "manifestly outside the jurisdiction of the Centre" (see Articles 28(2) and (3), and 36(2) and (3) of the Convention).

D. In the light of these provisions of the Convention, Rule 2(1) requires information concerning the three elements of jurisdiction. Except with respect to consent and the possibility of an agreement that a juridical person should be treated as a national of another Contracting State, the Rule does not require that the request be accompanied by documentary evidence. Provided the requesting party is confident that the information it furnishes shows that the dispute is not manifestly outside the Centre's jurisdiction, it may choose to develop such information at a later stage. Indeed, at this stage of the proceeding, the requesting party may find it difficult to furnish evidence (e.g., regarding the nationality of the other party), which may subsequently be solved through inspection of documents (cf. Article 43 of the Convention).

E. Rule 2(1)(a) deals with the identity of the parties in the strict sense of the term. Thus, the request must "designate precisely" the Contracting State (or its subdivision or agency) party to the dispute and the natural or juridical person that is the other party. Their respective addresses are also required, for until they have specified another address or designated agents authorized to accept service on their behalf (see Conciliation Rule 18(1) and Arbitration Rule 18(1)) the Secretary-General will use these addresses for his communications with the parties (see Rule 7(b), below).

F. Rule 2(1)(c) relates to the element of "consent", which "is the cornerstone of the jurisdiction of the Centre" (Report, paragraph 23). Consent must exist when the Centre is seized with the dispute (ibid., paragraph 24), and information concerning the consent by both parties must be given in the request (Articles 28(2) and 36(2) of the Convention). The mere fact that a request is made is not adequate "information" concerning consent. If the requesting party had not previously recorded its consent, then the request should record that that party gives its consent thereby; equally, both parties may record their consent in a joint request. The "screening" of the request by the Secretary-General (see Note C, above) is primarily concerned with the issue of consent. In view of the fundamental importance of this jurisdictional element, Rule 2(2) requires that the relevant information be supported by documentation (e.g., the text of a compromissory clause in an agreement). Furthermore, it is required that, where consent is stated to be given by a subdivision or agency of a Contracting State, the request must indicate whether that State had approved the consent or had notified the Centre that no such approval is required (see Article 25(3) of the Convention). In the former contingency, the State's approval must be supported by documentation; in the latter none is required, since the Secretary-General is of course aware of all notifications to the Centre.

G. Rule 2(1)(b) and (d) deals with the identity of the parties in a wider sense—as an element of jurisdiction (see Note B) one of the parties must be a Contracting State or a properly designated (see Article 25(1) of the Convention) subdivision or agency, the other a "national of another Contracting State"

H. To comply with Article 25(1) and (2) of the Convention it is, however, not enough to show that one of the parties is such a national. In order to be eligible, a natural person must have such a nationality both on the date on which the parties consented to submit the dispute to the jurisdiction of the Centre as well as on the date of registration of the request. Evidently, it is not possible to furnish in the request information concerning a date later than that on which the request is made; consequently Rule 2(1)(d)(ii) requires information as to nationality "on the date of the request" (cf. Rule 1(1)). In the relatively short time-interval between the filing of a request and its registration, it is unlikely that nationality will change; if it does, either party can raise a challenge before the competent Commission or Tribunal.

I. Article 25(2)(a) of the Convention excludes from the jurisdiction of the Centre disputes between a Contracting State and a natural person who is one of its nationals, and such ineligibility cannot be cured even if that State consents (see Report, paragraph 29). Therefore Rule 2(1)(d)(ii)(B) requires a denial of such nationality on both the date of consent and the date of the request (as to the latter, see also the final sentences of Note H, above).

J. For a juridical person the only date relevant for nationality is that on which the parties consented to the jurisdiction of the Centre. Moreover, such a person—even if it had the nationality of the State party to the dispute on that date—is deemed to come within Article 25(1) of the Convention if, because of foreign control, the parties have (as permitted by Article 25(2)(b)) agreed to treat it "as a national of another Contracting State" for the purposes of the Convention. Rule 2(1)(d)(iii) requires the furnishing of data on any such agreement, and Rule 2(2) requires that this be supported by documentation.

K. Rule 2(1)(e) requires that the request contain "information concerning the issues in dispute" No evidence on this subject need be submitted at this stage; the information given can be developed by the requesting party in subsequent phases of the proceeding. On the other hand, the details furnished must show clearly that there is, in the view of the requesting party, a "legal dispute arising directly out of an investment" (Article 25(1) of the Convention), as otherwise the dispute would be outside the jurisdiction of the Centre ratione materiae. It is from this point of view that the Secretary-General "screens" the information given, and the Conciliation Commission or Arbitral Tribunal may examine such information if there is an objection to its jurisdiction (see Articles 32(2) and 41(2) of the Convention; see also Conciliation Rule 30 and Arbitration Rule 41).

L. Documentation in support of information contained in the request is required only with respect to the points covered in Rule 2(2); however, the requesting party is free to supply documentation on any other point covered by the request. In any case such documentation, in accordance with Rule 4(2), must conform to Administrative and Financial Regulation 30, which specifies the form of original documents, the number of copies, the possibility of submitting extracts and the possible requirement to submit translations.

M. The "date of consent", defined by Rule 2(3), is important for several aspects of paragraph (1) of this Rule and for the application of the Convention itself. In particular, the requirements with respect to nationality must in any case be met (by both natural and juridical persons) on that date; pursuant to Articles 33 and 44 of the Convention, the Conciliation and Arbitration Rules apply to a given proceeding in the form "in effect on the date on which the parties consented" to the proceeding; finally if a State was a Contracting State on the "date of consent", its subsequent denunciation of the Convention does not affect any rights or obligations arising out of such consent (see Article 72 of the Convention), nor can such rights be affected even by a subsequent amendment of the Convention (see Article 66(2)). The contingency foreseen in the Rule, that the consent of both parties may not have been given on the same day, relates both to the possibility of a particular instrument being signed on different days by the two parties, and that the consent is not expressed in a single instrument (see Report, paragraph 24).

Optional Information in the Request

The request may in addition set forth any provisions agreed by the parties regarding the number of conciliators or arbitrators and the method of their appointment, as well as any other provisions agreed concerning the settlement of the dispute.

NOTES

A. The contents of the request need not be limited to the information required by Article 28(2) or 36(2) of the Convention, to which Rule 2 relates. The requesting party may also include in it various agreed provisions relating to the settlement of the dispute, e.g., such as are contained in a compromis.

B. Under Articles 29(1) and 37(1) of the Convention, the Conciliation Commission or Arbitral Tribunal must be constituted "as soon as possible after registration of a request"; if not constituted within 90 days from the dispatch of the registration notice (or such other period as the parties may agree), the Chairman of the Administrative Council is, at the request of either party, required to take steps to ensure its constitution (Articles 30 and 38). Hence there is need for speedy action once the request is made. Accordingly, this Rule provides the possibility for the first step to be taken at the time the request is filed by placing on record any agreement reached on the method of constituting the Commission or Tribunal. This will facilitate a determination of the points on which agreement needs still to be reached (in accordance with procedures specified in Conciliation Rule 2 and in Arbitration Rule 2) or, if all points are already settled, enable the parties to proceed immediately with the appointment of conciliators or arbitrators.

C. Furthermore, this Rule authorizes the parties to communicate in the request "any other provisions agreed concerning the settlement of the dispute"—e.g., the place and language of the proceeding, the type and number of pleadings, etc. This, too, will expedite the proceeding, for one of the first tasks of the Commission or Tribunal will be to ascertain the views of the parties as regards questions of procedure (see Conciliation Rule 20 and Arbitration Rule 20). This Rule gives the requesting party (or both parties if the request is joint) the opportunity of placing its views before the body concerned as soon as the latter is constituted. This is particularly appropriate where the request represents a compromis.

D. The requesting party may in addition use the request to designate agents, counsel or advocates and to indicate the extent of their authority (see Conciliation Rule 18 and Arbitration Rule 18).

Rule 4

Copies of the Request

(1) The request shall be accompanied by five additional signed copies. The Secretary-General may require such further copies as he may deem necessary.

(2) Any documentation submitted with the request shall conform to the requirements of Administrative and Financial Regulation 30.

NOTES

A. In addition to the original, which must be deposited in the archives of the Centre (see Administrative and Financial Regulation 28(1)(a)) five copies of the request are required to be filed, as one is needed for the other party (see Rule 5(2), below), one for the Secretary-General or for the Secretary whom he appoints for the proceeding (see Regulation 25), and in general three for the conciliators or arbitrators (see Articles 29(2)(b) and 37(2)(b) of the Convention). As the number of the latter may be greater, the Secretary-General is empowered to require further copies.

B. This Rule applies to the request procedure only. The number of copies required of pleadings, etc., is governed by Conciliation Rule 25(2) and Arbitration Rule 22.

C. Certain information contained in the request must be supported by documentation (see Rule 2(2)). In addition, other parts of the information required by Rule 2(1) may be so supported (see Note L to Rule 2) and so may any other information voluntarily submitted pursuant to Rule 3. Rule 4(2) applies to documentation submitted for any of these purposes.

D. Administrative and Financial Regulation 30, to which reference is made in this Rule, establishes requirements for the form of original documentation (including the possibility of substituting certified copies or extracts), for the number of copies to be filed, and for the languages to be used. With respect to the latter, Regulation 30(3) requires that a document which is not in a language approved for the proceeding in question be accompanied by a certified translation into such a language. Since at this stage of the proceeding the only permissible languages are the official languages of the Centre (see Rule 1(1)), the documents or translations must be filed in one of these languages. This requirement is established for the same reason as applies to the request itself—i.e., to facilitate the work of the Secretary-General in “screening” the request.

Rule 5

Acknowledgement of the Request

- (1) On receiving a request the Secretary-General shall:
  - (a) send an acknowledgement to the requesting party;
  - (b) unless the request is accompanied by the fee for lodging a request, inform the requesting party of the requirement that the fee prescribed by Administrative and Financial Regulation 15(1) be paid;
  - (c) take no other action with respect to the request until he has received payment of the prescribed fee.
- (2) As soon as he has received the fee for lodging the request, the Secretary-General shall transmit a copy of the request and of the accompanying documentation to the other party.

NOTES

A. Where international machinery for conciliation or arbitration open to individuals exists, it is generally accepted that the party initiating the proceedings should pay a fee, charge or deposit for costs before the machinery is set in motion.

B. The “fee for lodging a request” is a “charge payable for the use of the facilities of the Centre” (see Article 59 of the Convention); it is therefore distinct from the “fees” or “expenses” of the members of a Conciliation Commission or Arbitral Tribunal (see Article 60(1) of the Convention). Though the Convention provides that in conciliation proceedings “charges” shall be borne equally by the parties and in arbitration proceedings shall be apportioned by the Tribunal (see Article 61 of the Convention), this relates only to the retrospective adjustment of the burden. The Centre is therefore not precluded from requiring the requesting party to pay a charge when proceedings are instituted at the party’s request. If the request is made jointly (see Rule 1(2)), Administrative and Financial Regulation 15(1) provides for the fee to be paid by the parties, without indicating a formula for division; this will presumably be settled between them at the time they agree to take joint action in approaching the Centre.

C. The lodging fee is stated as a uniform lump sum (set at US $100 in Administrative and Financial Regulation 15(1)) for the use of the Centre’s facilities within the framework of the request procedure—no more. This does not include the use of special facilities—such as duplicating or translation services (see Administrative and Financial Regulation 27(2))—for which reimbursement pro tanto must be made (Regulation 14(1)). The fee will not be recoverable even if registration is refused (see Regulation 15(1)) or the request is withdrawn (see Note E to Rule 8, below).

D. As the request can only be registered after “screening” by the Secretary-General, Rule 5(1)(a) provides for immediate acknowledgement to the requesting party.

E. Pursuant to Articles 28(1) and 36(1) of the Convention, Rule 5(2) requires the Secretary-General to send a copy of the request and of all accompanying documentation to the other party as soon as the lodging fee has been paid. This conforms to a basic rule of international procedure, i.e., that a copy of every document produced by one party should be communicated to the other party. At the same time, it provides the parties an opportunity of settling their dispute inter se before the proceeding actually begins.

Rule 6

Registration of the Request

(1) The Secretary-General shall, subject to Rule 5(1)(c), as soon as possible, either:

- (a) register the request in the Conciliation or the Arbitration Register and on the same day notify the parties of the registration; or
- (b) if he finds, on the basis of the information contained in the request, that the dispute is manifestly outside the jurisdiction of the Centre, notify the parties of his refusal to register the request and of the reasons therefor.

(2) A proceeding under the Convention shall be deemed to have been instituted on the date of the registration of the request.

NOTES

A. This Rule largely repeats the requirements of Articles 28(3) and 36(3) of the Convention. The establishment of a Conciliation Register and an Arbitration Register is provided in Administrative and Financial Regulation 23(1).

B. The principal considerations underlying the exercise by the Secretary-General of his power to “screen” requests are set out in Note C to Rule 2. This power is to be exercised “on the basis of the information contained in the request” (see Articles 28(3) and 36(3) of the Convention). Thus, it is limited in two respects: First, the Secretary-General cannot refuse registration for reasons other than those based on such information (or contained in the supporting documentation); and, second, he cannot, except as provided in Rule 2(2), require more than “information” (e.g., full proof or legal arguments in support).

C. The Secretary-General must refuse to register a request where it shows per se that the dispute is “manifestly outside the jurisdiction of the Centre” (see Articles 28(3) and 36(3) of the Convention)—e.g., if the information itself, as given, discloses, for example: that neither party is a Contracting State or a duly designated subdivision or agency of one; or that neither party is a national of a Contracting State; or that a party which is a natural person has the nationality of the Contracting State party to the dispute; or that consent was given orally. In all such cases it is manifest—i.e., beyond reasonable doubt whatever evidence or argument might be produced subsequently—that the Centre has no jurisdiction.

D. The date of the institution of the proceeding, specified in Rule 6(2), may become important for various purposes: Certain time limits, relevant either to the proceeding itself or to other transactions or proceedings between the parties before other forums, may begin to run from that date. Though the 90-day period within which the Conciliation Commission or Arbitral Tribunal must, in principle, be constituted, runs from the date of the dispatch of the registration notice (Articles 30 and 38 of the Convention), Rule 6(1)(a) requires that this date be the same as the date of registration.

Notice of Registration

The notice of registration of a request shall:

- (a) record that the request is registered and indicate the date of the registration and of the dispatch of that notice;

- (b) notify each party that all communications and notices in connection with the proceeding will be sent to the address stated in the request, unless another address is indicated to the Centre;
- (c) unless such information has already been provided, invite the parties to communicate to the Secretary-General any provisions agreed by them regarding the number and the method of appointment of the conciliators or arbitrators;
- (d) invite the parties to proceed, as soon as possible, to constitute a Conciliation Commission in accordance with Articles 29 to 31 of the Convention, or an Arbitral Tribunal in accordance with Articles 37 to 40; and
- (e) be accompanied by a list of the members of the Panel of Conciliators or of Arbitrators of the Centre.

NOTES

A. Though Articles 28(3) and 36(3) of the Convention require that the registration of a request be notified forthwith to the parties, the Convention does not indicate how this shall be done. This Rule is designed to specify the contents of the notice of registration. Of course this list of required contents does not preclude the Secretary-General from simultaneously informing the parties, by cable, of the registration and of the dispatch of the formal notices.

B. The dates of registration and of the dispatch of the notifications (which are combined pursuant to Rule 6(1)(a)) are significant under, respectively, Articles 25(2)(a), 29(1) and 37(1), and Articles 30 and 38 of the Convention.

C. Rule 7(b) does not require the parties to notify to the Secretary-General a special address with respect to the proceeding, but merely states the consequence if no such address is notified. Provision is made in Conciliation Rule 18 and in Arbitration Rule 18 for the appointment of agents, counsel and advocates, one of whom normally will be specified as the addressee of all communications from the Centre in connection with a proceeding. The parties may therefore inform the Secretary-General of such appointment either in response to the notice of registration or even earlier, since the requesting party can do so in the request itself and the other party can do so in response to the Secretary-General's transmission to it of the request.

D. Under Articles 29(1) and 37(1) of the Convention, the Commission or Tribunal must be constituted "as soon as possible after registration of a request" Since after 90 days (unless the parties agree on a different limit) either party may require the Chairman of the Administrative Council to complete the constitution of the Commission or Tribunal (see Articles 29(2)(b) and 30, and 37(2)(b) and 38 of the Convention), it is desirable that the parties start their efforts toward such constitution as soon as possible after the registration of the request. Therefore, subparagraphs (c)-(e) of this Rule seek to initiate quickly the operation of the relevant provisions of the Convention; their application is provided for in Chapter I of the Conciliation and of the Arbitration Rules.

E. Rule 3 provides that the request may include the provisions, if any, agreed by the parties regarding the constitution of the Commission or Tribunal as well as any other provisions agreed for the settlement of the dispute; this is particularly apposite where the request represents a compromis. If, however, the parties have not supplied such information, Rule 7(c) seeks to ensure that any provision regarding the constitution of the Commission or Tribunal will be notified to the Centre as early as possible. Should the parties not respond to the invitation at this time (or should they not yet have reached any agreement), they must submit this information pursuant to Conciliation Rule 1(2) or Arbitration Rule 1(2).

Withdrawal of the Request

The requesting party may, by written notice to the Secretary-General, withdraw the request before it has been registered. The Secretary-General shall promptly notify the other party, unless, pursuant to Rule 5(1)(c), the request had not been transmitted to it.

NOTES

A. This Rule is based on the consideration that it is desirable to facilitate the voluntary withdrawal of a request, if either the parties have reached a settlement or if the requesting party becomes convinced of the unlikelihood of prevailing in the proceeding.

B. If, in accordance with Rule 1(2), the request had been made jointly, then it can only be withdrawn by the joint action of the parties.

C. It should be noted that the withdrawal of the request by a single requesting party cannot constitute the withdrawal by that party of its consent to settle the dispute by a proceeding under the Convention for, once the consent of both parties has been given, Article 25(1) of the Convention (see also Article 72) prohibits both of them from withdrawing such consent unilaterally. Consequently, the other party cannot be injured by the withdrawal of a request at this early stage, since it is always in a position to reinstitute the proceeding by its own request on the basis of the existing consents.

D. This Rule covers only the right of withdrawal before registration. After registration, "discontinuance" (which may be moved by either party) is governed by the Conciliation and the Arbitration Rules (see, e.g., Arbitration Rules 43-45). Since after registration both parties are required to take certain steps, i.e., to proceed with the constitution of a Commission or Tribunal, discontinuance at that stage should require the concurrence of the other party.

E. If the request is withdrawn before the lodging fee has been paid, then the other party will not yet have been informed of the filing of the request and need therefore not be informed of its withdrawal. If the fee has been paid, both the filing and later the withdrawal must be notified to the other party pursuant to Rules 5(2) and 8; in accordance with Administrative and Financial Regulation 15(1), the lodging fee will not be refunded even if the request is withdrawn.

Rule 9

Final Provisions

(1) The texts of these Rules in each official language of the Centre shall be equally authentic.

(2) These Rules may be cited as the "Institution Rules" of the Centre.

(3) The headings are for convenience of reference only and are not part of these Rules.

NOTES

A. The official languages of the Centre are specified in Administrative and Financial Regulation 34(1). At present these are English and French, but Spanish will be added automatically as soon as a Spanish-speaking State becomes a party to the Convention.

B. Whenever a new official language is added the Secretary-General will prepare the text of these Rules in that language for the approval of the Administrative Council.

RULES OF PROCEDURE FOR CONCILIATION PROCEEDINGS (CONCILIATION RULES)

INTRODUCTORY NOTES

A. The Rules of Procedure for Conciliation Proceedings (hereinafter, and in accordance with Rule 35(2), the "Conciliation Rules") of the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes were adopted by the Administrative Council of the Centre pursuant to Article 6(1)(c) of the Convention on the Settlement of Investment Disputes between States and Nationals of Other States.

B. These Rules are supplemented by the Administrative and Financial Regulations of the Centre<sup>1</sup>, in particular by Regulations 13, 14, 21, 23-31 and 34(1).

C. These Rules cover the period of time from the dispatch of the notice of registration of a request for conciliation until a report is drawn up. The transactions previous to that time are to be regulated in accordance with the Institution Rules<sup>2</sup>

D. Unlike the Administrative and Financial Regulations and the Institution Rules, from whose provisions the parties can only derogate to the extent permitted by a particular Regulation or Rule, Article 33 of the Convention provides that the Conciliation Rules (except those that merely reproduce binding provisions of the Convention) apply only to the extent that the parties do not otherwise agree. Moreover, as a safeguard against amendments that might not suit the parties, these Rules apply in the form "in effect on the date on which the parties consented to conciliation"; however, if any such amendments are helpful, nothing prevents the parties from accepting, by mutual accord, the Rules in their amended form. Finally, whenever the parties do not agree on some procedural point that is also not, or is only inadequately covered by these Rules, then the Commission has a residual power to decide the question (Article 33 of the Convention); that provision is, in fact, only declaratory of the inherent power of any conciliation commission to formulate its own rules of procedure in the event of a lacuna.

E. To sum up, subject to those Articles of the Convention from which the parties may not depart, there are three possibilities: The parties may agree on their own rules for the conduct of the case. If they do not, these Rules will apply in the form existing on the "date of consent" (see Institution Rule 2(3) and Note M thereto). Where the Rules do not cover a procedural question that arises, or the parties have agreed that the existing Rules should not apply but have not agreed on a substitute, the Commission will decide the question.

CHAPTER I

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE COMMISSION

Rule 1

General Obligations

(1) Upon notification of the registration of the request for conciliation, the parties shall, with all possible dispatch, proceed to constitute a Commission, with due regard to Section 2 of Chapter III of the Convention.

(2) Unless such information is provided in the request, the parties shall communicate to the Secretary-General as soon as possible any provisions agreed by them regarding the number of conciliators and the method of their appointment.

NOTES

A. The rules relating to the method of the constitution of the Commission differ according to whether, at the time of the registration of the request, the parties are, or fail to be, in agreement on "the number of conciliators and the method of their appointment". If such an agreement exists, it may be embodied in the instrument under which the dispute has arisen, or in an ad hoc instrument; in either case, the present Rule applies immediately. However, if at the time of the registration of the request the parties are not in agreement, Rule 2(1) should be used first to assist them in reaching an accord; if they fail, Rule 2(3) applies.

B. The Convention leaves the parties considerable freedom regarding the constitution of the Commission. However, it does state certain conditions, which they must observe regardless of any agreement between them:

- (i) the number of conciliators must be uneven (Article 29(2)(a)); and
- (ii) conciliators appointed from outside the Panel of Conciliators must possess the qualities required for those serving on that Panel (Article 31(2)).

All this is recalled by the reference, in paragraph (1) of this Rule, to Section 2 of Chapter III of the Convention.

C. Subject to these restrictions, the parties may agree to have recourse to a sole conciliator (e.g., if their dispute is restricted to a specific point of interpretation of an instrument); or they may choose a Commission consisting of three conciliators—the number singled out by the Convention for the eventuality that no agreement is reached (see Article 29(2)(b)); or they may select the figure five or any other uneven number.

D. Again, as regards the method of appointment the parties are free. They may decide to appoint the conciliators themselves (as foreseen, for instance, in Article 29(2)(b) of the Convention) or to delegate this task, or part of it, to others—e.g., to the Chairman of the Administrative Council or even to the conciliators they themselves have appointed; such delegation may be unconditional or may apply only if the parties fail within a specified period to make the appointments themselves. They may, but need not, agree to restrict the selection of conciliators to the Panel of Conciliators (cf. Article 31(1) of the Convention). Unlike with respect to arbitration proceedings (see Article 39 of the Convention), there are no obligatory restrictions or requirements relating to the nationality of conciliators, though the parties may agree to impose some.

E. In view of this variety of solutions that the parties may adopt, this Rule, which merely expresses their main procedural obligations once they have agreed, must necessarily be couched in very general terms. Thus Article 29(1) of the Convention requires that the Commission shall be constituted "as soon as possible after registration of a request", and accordingly, paragraph (1) of this Rule enjoins the parties to proceed "with all possible dispatch" (see also Institution Rule 7(d)).

F Paragraph (2) sets out a concomitant duty of the parties. While Institution Rule 3 permits the requesting party (or the parties jointly) to set forth in the request itself any agreement regarding the number of conciliators and the method of their appointment, and Institution Rule 7(c) requires the Secretary-General to invite the parties to provide him with this information if they had not previously done so, the present Rule enjoins them to do so "as soon as possible"

G. Although the Convention itself establishes only few requirements with respect to the persons who may be appointed as conciliators, it should be noted that Administrative and Financial Regulation 12 provides, inter alia, that the Secretary-General, the Deputy Secretaries-General and members of the staff of the Centre may not serve on any Commission.

Rule 2

Method of Constituting the Commission in the Absence of Previous Agreement

(1) If the parties, at the time of the registration of the request for conciliation, have not agreed upon the number of conciliators and the method of their appointment, they shall, unless they agree otherwise, follow the following procedure:

- (a) the requesting party shall, within 10 days after the registration of the request, propose to the other party the appointment of a sole conciliator or of a specified uneven number of conciliators and specify the method proposed for their appointment;

- (b) within 20 days after receipt of the proposals made by the requesting party, the other party shall:
  - (i) accept such proposals; or
  - (ii) make other proposals regarding the number of conciliators and the method of their appointment;
- (c) within 20 days after receipt of the reply containing any such other proposals, the requesting party shall notify the other party whether it accepts or rejects such proposals.

(2) The communications provided for in paragraph (1) shall be made or promptly confirmed in writing and shall either be transmitted through the Secretary-General or directly between the parties with a copy to the Secretary-General. The parties shall promptly notify the Secretary-General of the contents of any agreement reached.

(3) At any time 60 days after the registration of the request, if no agreement on another procedure is reached, either party may inform the Secretary-General that it chooses the formula provided for in Article 29(2)(b) of the Convention. The Secretary-General shall thereupon promptly inform the other party that the Commission is to be constituted in accordance with that Article.

NOTES

A. The Convention visualizes the process of formation of the Commission by the parties in two stages, the first concerned with determining the number of conciliators and the method of their appointment and the second with their actual appointment. The first stage may have been completed at the time of the registration of the request, though the Convention does not require this as a precondition for registration. As soon as this stage is completed—be it before or after the registration—the provisions of Rule 1 apply.

B. It is desirable to give the parties an opportunity of reaching agreement on the form and method of the constitution of the Commission, if they had not done so by the time of the registration of the request. The purpose of this Rule is to provide a procedure therefor. However, the parties are free to agree to follow any other procedure to this end. In view of the wide choice of substantive solutions that they may adopt (see Notes C and D to Rule 1), they may, for instance, agree on a procedure according each party two (instead of merely one) opportunities of formulating proposals and, for that purpose, extend the 90-day time limit established in Article 30 of the Convention (as well as the several time limits stated in this Rule).

C. Since Article 30 of the Convention allows a total of 90 days from the dispatch of the notice of registration to the completion of the constitution of the Commission (though the parties may by agreement set either a longer or shorter interval), it is desirable that the first stage (determination of the method of constituting the Commission) be completed well before this entire period has elapsed. Consequently, certain time limits have been set in paragraph (1) of this Rule, and paragraph (3) provides that if within 60 days no agreement on composition can be reached, then either party may unilaterally require the establishment of a Commission in accordance with the formula in Article 29(2)(b) of the Convention.

D. Clearly, it is for the party that filed the request for conciliation to be prepared to take the initiative, and subparagraph (1)(a) requires that party to do so almost immediately after it is notified of the registration of its request. While the requesting party takes the initiative, the principle of the equality of the parties requires that the other party should have an opportunity of making its views bear fully on the process of the formation of the Commission. Therefore, if it does not desire to accept the proposals made by the requesting party, it may formulate its own—but it must act within 20 days.

E. The requirement in paragraph (2), that all communications pursuant to paragraph (1) pass through or at least be communicated to the Secretary-General, reflects the general policy on "Means of Communication" expressed in Administrative and Financial Regulation 24(1). In addition, if agreement is reached, its terms must be communicated by the parties to the Secretary-General, a requirement which corresponds to that already stated in Rule 1(2).

F. Though the parties have a wide choice of solutions regarding the constitution of the Commission, the task of forming it may prove laborious. However, the Convention contains adequate safeguards against complete frustration should the parties be unable to agree or fail to cooperate (cf. paragraph 35 of the Report of the IBRD Executive Directors accompanying the Convention—hereinafter the "Report"). Thus, if no agreement is reached (under the procedure provided in paragraph (1) or otherwise) concerning the constitution of the Commission, the latter will automatically consist of three members appointed as provided in Article 29(2)(b) of the Convention. Paragraph (3) of this Rule provides that either party may terminate the attempt to reach agreement on a formula other than that provided in the Convention, if at least 60 days have elapsed since the dispatch of the notice of registration; however, once an agreement has been reached, neither party may withdraw from it by invoking this Rule. The parties may of course agree to substitute some other time limit or conditions for the 60 days stated in this paragraph.

Rule 3

Appointment of Conciliators to Commission Constituted in Accordance with Convention Article 29(2)(b)

- (1) If the Commission is to be constituted in accordance with Article 29(2)(b) of the Convention:
- (a) the party taking action under Rule 2(3) or otherwise the requesting party shall, in a communication to the other party:
    - (i) name two persons, identifying one of them as the conciliator appointed by it and the other as the conciliator proposed to be the President of the Commission; and
    - (ii) invite the other party to concur in the appointment of the conciliator proposed to be the President of the Commission and to appoint another conciliator;
  - (b) promptly upon receipt of this communication the other party shall, in its reply:
    - (i) name a person as the conciliator appointed by it; and
    - (ii) concur in the appointment of the conciliator proposed to be the President of the Commission or name another person as the conciliator proposed to be President;
  - (c) promptly upon receipt of the reply containing such a proposal, the initiating party shall notify the other party whether it concurs in the appointment of the conciliator proposed by that party to be the President of the Commission.
- (2) The communications provided for in this Rule shall be made or promptly confirmed in writing and shall either be transmitted through the Secretary-General or directly between the parties with a copy to the Secretary-General.

NOTES

A. This Rule applies whenever a Commission is to be constituted by the parties "in accordance with Article 29(2)(b)", i.e., either because they have specifically agreed to adopt that formula or because the parties have failed to agree on any other formula and one of them has chosen to invoke Rule 2(3).

B. The stated procedure is largely self-explanatory. In conformity with the principle of the equality of the parties, it provides each of them with an opportunity of naming one candidate for appointment as third conciliator. Of course, the parties may agree that each should have the possibility of reiterating this nominating procedure. They may provide for this if they are hopeful about the outcome of their efforts and may even, to this end, extend the 90-day limit mentioned in Article 30 of the Convention. Alternatively, where the parties "agree that they will not agree", they may, by mutual accord, reduce this period and request, possibly jointly, the Chairman of the Administrative Council to intervene.

C. No time limits are established for the steps provided for by this Rule. However, the parties must (unless they agree to extend the 90-day limit in Article 30 of the Convention) act promptly, for otherwise either of them can require the Chairman to intervene in the appointment of the conciliators. Of course, if a party acts promptly to appoint its conciliator, the other party cannot, through its own delay followed by a request to the Chairman pursuant to Article 30, prevent the diligent party from making at least that appointment to the Commission that that party can make by itself.

D. The requirement in paragraph (2), that all communications pursuant to this Rule pass through or at least be communicated to the Secretary-General, reflects the general policy on "Means of Communication" expressed in Administrative and Financial Regulation 24(1).

E. In view of the variety of formulae that the parties may agree to with respect to the constitution of a Commission, it is not practical to establish any detailed rules regarding the appointment procedure applicable if the Commission is to be constituted in accordance with a formula other than that set forth in Article 29(2)(b) of the Convention. Therefore no such rules have been included here. Of course, the parties are always free to follow, to the extent applicable, the provisions of Rule 3 in making appointments to a Commission differently constituted.

Appointment of Conciliators by the Chairman of the Administrative Council

(1) If the Commission shall not have been constituted within 90 days after notice of the registration of the request for conciliation has been dispatched by the Secretary-General, or such other period as the parties may agree, either party may, through the Secretary-General, address a request in writing to the Chairman of the Administrative Council to appoint the conciliator or conciliators not yet appointed and, unless the President of the Commission shall already have been designated or is to be designated later, to designate a conciliator to be the President of the Commission. The Secretary-General shall forthwith send a copy of that request to the other party.

(2) The Chairman shall comply—with due regard to Article 31(1) of the Convention—with that request within 30 days after its receipt, or such longer period as the parties may agree. Before he proceeds to make appointments or a designation, he shall consult both parties as far as possible.

(3) The Secretary-General shall promptly notify the parties of any appointment or designation made by the Chairman.

NOTES

A. Article 29(1) of the Convention requires the Commission to be constituted "as soon as possible after registration of a request", and Article 30 assumes that, in principle, the parties will succeed in their task within 90 days "after notice of registration of the request has been dispatched by the Secretary-General" After this period, each party may request the Chairman of the Administrative Council to intervene and see to it that the Commission is constituted. Since this basic safeguard against the frustration of the proceeding is provided by the Convention in the interest of the parties, they may, by agreement, extend or reduce the 90-day period.

B. The request to the Chairman to intervene must be made through the Secretary-General (cf. Administrative and Financial Regulation 24(1)). Either party may make such a request, or both may do so jointly. It goes without saying that any request to the Chairman to act under Article 30 of the Convention will have to be accompanied by precise information on the appointments already made and the agreement, if any, between the parties regarding the constitution of the Commission (see also Rules 1(2), 2(2) and 5(1)).

C. From that information the Chairman should be able to determine the number of conciliators to be appointed by him. Thus, the parties may have agreed on a sole conciliator but have failed in their endeavor to appoint him; or, in accordance with the procedure provided for in Rule 3(1), each may have appointed a conciliator, but both could not agree on the third conciliator; or, in pursuing the procedure under that Rule, the initiating party may have appointed one conciliator but have failed to elicit any response by the other party; etc. Thus, the Chairman may have to appoint one, two or more conciliators.

D. If the parties have not agreed on any other formula for the constitution of the Commission, then pursuant to Article 29(2)(b) of the Convention, the Chairman must apply the formula in that Article.

E. The principal object of a request pursuant to Article 30 of the Convention is that the Chairman should "appoint the conciliator or conciliators not yet appointed" But, if the Commission is to consist of more than one conciliator, the Chairman may also have to specify ("designate") which conciliator is to be the President of the Commission, unless the President has already been designated. This could occur, for example, if the parties have agreed that the President shall be elected by the conciliators themselves and they fail to do so.

F. Under paragraph (2) the Chairman must make his appointments within 30 days after the receipt of the request. Again, this period—introduced in the interest of the parties—may be extended by agreement between them. Where in the light of the information at his disposal the Chairman is hopeful, provided his time is extended, of being able to make appointments agreeable to the parties, he might himself make a suggestion to them to this effect.

G. The Chairman should be aided in his task by the consultations which he must hold with "both parties as far as possible"—bearing in mind the 30-day time limit. In the process of such consultations he may ascertain their views and desires. Consultations may be held jointly, or separately with each party; they may be oral, or the parties may state their positions and views in writing. It is the duty of the Chairman to press for these consultations, but whether they take place or not, this obligation does not fetter his power to make such appointments as he deems proper.

H. When acting under Article 30 of the Convention and in accordance with this Rule, the Chairman must make all appointments from the Panel of Conciliators. However, unlike with respect to arbitration proceedings (see Article 38 of the Convention), the Chairman is not precluded from appointing a national of the Contracting State party to the dispute or of the Contracting State whose national is party thereto.

I. Once an appointment has been made by the Chairman pursuant to paragraph (2), the Secretary-General must promptly notify the parties thereof. At the same time he must, pursuant to Rule 5(2), seek confirmation that the person concerned accepts his appointment.

Rule 5

Acceptance of Appointments

(1) The party or parties concerned shall notify the Secretary-General of the appointment of each conciliator and indicate the method of his appointment.

(2) As soon as the Secretary-General has been informed by a party or the Chairman of the Administrative Council of the appointment of a conciliator, he shall seek an acceptance from the appointee.

(3) If a conciliator fails to accept his appointment within 15 days, the Secretary-General shall promptly notify the parties, and if appropriate the Chairman, and invite them to proceed to the appointment of another conciliator in accordance with the method followed for the previous appointment.

NOTES

A. The purpose of paragraph (1) is to ensure that the Centre is kept informed of appointments for which the parties are, directly or indirectly, responsible. Yet it is not easy to define the duty of each party with precision, for a conciliator may be appointed by:

- (a) a party by itself;
- (b) both parties jointly—for instance, as a sole conciliator or as the third conciliator provided for in Article 29(2)(b) of the Convention;
- (c) a person or body outside the dispute—e.g., by the Chairman of the Administrative Council.

B. The expression “appointment” contains an element of ambiguity. Nobody is under an obligation to serve as conciliator solely because he has been “appointed”—not even a person included in the Panel of Conciliators, as he has only agreed that he is “willing to serve thereon” (see Article 12 of the Convention). He may well refuse to accept an appointment in a specific case. While it may be presumed that in practice a party, or both parties, or the Chairman of the Administrative Council or any other outside body responsible for the appointment will first informally inquire whether a person under consideration is willing to serve as conciliator in the specific dispute (in this connection, attention is called to Article 60(2) of the Convention concerning the possibility of an agreement on the fees of the conciliators) before they appoint him, it is necessary to obtain from each conciliator formal confirmation that he accepts his appointment. Only after the conciliator has thus signified his acceptance can he be considered as effectively appointed. Because of this, paragraph (2) requires the Secretary-General to seek an “acceptance” from each appointee.

C. If a person appointed fails to accept, the authority that made the original appointment should be given the opportunity of selecting another conciliator. Accordingly, under paragraph (3) the Secretary-General must promptly notify the parties (and possibly the Chairman) of such an event; in addition, in view of the short time limit specified in Article 30 of the Convention, this paragraph establishes a presumption that a person who does not respond at all within 15 days (a time limit which the parties can of course agree to extend) to the Secretary-General’s inquiry, is unwilling to accept the appointment. In order to assure speed, no particular form is specified for the acceptance. It thus may be given orally, by telephone or cable—in any way satisfactory to the Secretary-General; Rule 6(2) provides for the later signature of a formal declaration.

D. While in general the party or other authority that made the original appointment is given an opportunity of making a new one if the first appointee fails to accept, if in the meantime the time limit established by or in accordance with Article 30 of the Convention has elapsed, either party can instead require the Chairman to make the new appointment in order to complete the constitution of the Commission.

Constitution of the Commission

(1) The Commission shall be deemed to be constituted and the proceeding to have begun on the date the Secretary-General notifies the parties that all the conciliators have accepted their appointment.

(2) Before or at the first session of the Commission, each conciliator shall sign a declaration in the following form:

“To the best of my knowledge there is no reason why I should not serve on the Conciliation Commission constituted by the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes with respect to a dispute between
and

“I shall keep confidential all information coming to my knowledge as a result of my participation in this proceeding, as well as the contents of any report drawn up by the Commission.

“I shall not accept any instruction or compensation with regard to the proceeding from any source except as provided in the Convention on the Settlement of Investment Disputes and in the Regulations and Rules made pursuant thereto.”

Any conciliator failing to sign such a declaration by the end of the first session of the Commission shall be deemed to have resigned.

NOTES

A. It is useful to specify unambiguously the time when a Commission is deemed to be constituted, and this is accomplished by paragraph (1). Since the date is one on which the Secretary-General dispatches a notification to the parties (a date which he must mark on the notification—see Administrative and Financial Regulation 29(1)), there can be no doubt about it.

B. It is also useful to specify unambiguously when the proceeding is deemed to have begun. Since Article 56(1) of the Convention appears to relate that date closely with that of the constitution of the Commission, paragraph (1) combines these two dates. Thus it is clear that it is from that time on that the composition of a Commission must remain unchanged (see Rule 7).

C. Since each conciliator is given only 15 days to accept his appointment (Rule 5(3)), he may not be able to do so in a formal writing. However, paragraph (2) of this Rule requires each conciliator to file, early in the proceeding, a declaration attesting his willingness to be bound by certain basic and essential obligations.

D. If a conciliator fails to file the requested declaration in due time, he shall be deemed to have resigned within the meaning of Rule 8(2), and he will have to be replaced as provided in Rule 11.

Replacement of Conciliators

At any time before the Commission is constituted, each party may replace any conciliator appointed by it and the parties may by common consent agree to replace any conciliator. The procedure of such replacement shall be in accordance with Rules 1, 5 and 6.

NOTES

A. Since Article 56(1) of the Convention provides that after “a Commission has been constituted and proceedings have begun, its composition shall remain unchanged”, the present Rule applies only before these specified events. No “replacement” can be permitted afterwards, though the composition of the Commission might be changed due to the death, disability, resignation or disqualification of a conciliator (see Rules 6(2) and 8-11).

B. Rule 6(1) specifies that the Commission shall be deemed to be constituted and proceedings to have begun at the time when the Secretary-General notifies the parties of the acceptance by all conciliators of their appointments. Thus, then, is the date up to which the parties are free to replace a conciliator.

C. Since the parties are, except as otherwise specifically provided in the Convention, in complete control of the proceeding, they can by their joint consent replace any conciliator—whether he was appointed by one of the parties, by both parties, by an outside authority at the request of the parties, or by the Chairman of the Administrative Council acting pursuant to Article 30 of the Convention or otherwise.

Incapacity or Resignation of Conciliators

(1) A conciliator who becomes incapacitated shall, as soon as possible, notify thereof the other members of the Commission and the Secretary-General.

(2) A conciliator may resign by submitting his resignation to the other members of the Commission and the Secretary-General. If the conciliator was appointed by one of the parties, the Commission shall promptly consider the reasons for his resignation and decide whether it consents thereto. The Commission shall promptly notify the Secretary-General of its decision.

NOTES

A. Article 56(1) of the Convention provides that, after the Commission has been constituted and proceedings have begun (see Rule 6(1)), the composition of the Commission shall remain unchanged. The only exceptions allowed are the filling of vacancies created by death, incapacity, resignation or disqualification.

B. In view of the fact that the work of a Commission may be carried out in many different ways—through frequent or infrequent, long or short sessions, or even largely through correspondence—it is not feasible to give a general definition of incapacity. If a conciliator finds that over an extended period (measured relative to the speed of work of the Commission) he is unable to participate, he should either, pursuant to paragraph (1) of this Rule, declare himself incapacitated or, pursuant to paragraph (2), resign.

C. Resignation presupposes, as a rule, an explanation by the resigning conciliator. While paragraph (2) does not specify any “permissible” grounds for resignation, a conciliator is expected to do so if, for instance, he may have an interest in the result of the dispute. In fact, in view of the qualities he is required to possess, a candidate is unlikely to accept an appointment as conciliator where his personal interest is involved and, if he realizes such involvement after the appointment, he may be trusted to resign. It therefore seems unnecessary to particularize grounds for resignation.

D. While no person can be prevented from resigning as conciliator, the Convention in Article 56(3) (and this Rule in paragraph (2)) requires that if such a conciliator was appointed by one of the parties the Commission must decide whether it “consents” to the resignation. If the Commission fails to do so, the consequence is not that the conciliator must continue to serve, but rather that his replacement will be appointed by the Chairman of the Administrative Council and not by the party that had made the original appointment (Rule 11(2)(a)). The intention of this provision is to lessen the possibility of a party inducing a conciliator appointed by it to resign, so as either to enable his replacement by a more tractable person or merely to delay the proceeding.

E. Notification of an incapacity or the submission of a resignation creates a vacancy on the Commission, whose consequences are dealt with in Rules 10-12. It should also be noted that Rule 6(2) provides that the failure of a conciliator to submit the written declaration provided for therein shall be deemed to constitute a resignation; paragraph (2) of this Rule, as well as Rules 10-12 therefore apply to such a resignation and the consequent vacancy.

Disqualification of Conciliators

(1) A party proposing the disqualification of a conciliator pursuant to Article 57 of the Convention shall promptly, and in any event before the Commission first recommends terms of settlement of the dispute to the parties or when the proceeding is closed (whichever occurs earlier), file its proposal with the Secretary-General, stating its reasons therefor.

(2) The Secretary-General shall forthwith:

(a) transmit the proposal to the members of the Commission and, if it relates to a sole conciliator or to a majority of the members of the Commission, to the Chairman of the Administrative Council; and

(b) notify the other party of the proposal.

(3) The conciliator to whom the proposal relates may, without delay, furnish explanations to the Commission or the Chairman, as the case may be.

(4) Unless the proposal relates to a majority of the members of the Commission, the other members shall promptly consider and vote on the proposal in the absence of the conciliator concerned. If those members are equally divided, they shall, through the Secretary-General, promptly notify the Chairman of the proposal, of any explanation furnished by the conciliator concerned and of their failure to reach a decision.

(5) Whenever the Chairman has to decide on a proposal to disqualify a conciliator, he shall take that decision within 30 days after he has received the proposal.

(6) The proceeding shall be suspended until a decision has been taken on the proposal.

NOTES

A. Under Article 57 of the Convention, a party may propose the disqualification of a conciliator on account of any fact indicating a manifest lack of the qualities required by Article 14(1).

B. A proposal to disqualify a conciliator must be filed promptly, and in any event before the Commission first recommends terms of settlement (Rule 22(2)), or before it closes the proceeding (see Rule 31) if it does so before any recommendation is made. Promptness must be measured relative to the time when the proposing party first learns of the grounds for possible disqualification.

C. In accordance with Article 58 of the Convention, a decision on disqualification is normally taken "by the other members of the Commission", and never by the Commission itself. Consequently, paragraph (4) of this Rule provides that the decision shall be taken in the absence of the conciliator concerned (but cf. Rule 8(2)). Article 58 also provides that a decision on disqualification must be made by a simple majority vote of the other members—in case of equal division the decision being referred to the Chairman of the Administrative Council.

D. The Chairman may be called upon to decide whether a proposal for a disqualification is well-founded, if it concerns a sole conciliator or a majority of the conciliators, or when the votes of the other conciliators are equally divided (see Note C). In all these cases he must make his decision within 30 days after he receives the proposal.

E. Paragraph (6) provides that as long as the constitution of the Commission is in doubt because of a disqualification proposal, the proceeding must be suspended. If the proposal is rejected, the proceeding can then continue; if it is accepted, a vacancy is automatically created and Rule 10 applies.

Rule 10

Procedure during a Vacancy on the Commission

(1) The Secretary-General shall forthwith notify the parties and, if necessary, the Chairman of the Administrative Council of the disqualification, death, incapacity or resignation of a conciliator and of the consent, if any, of the Commission to a resignation.

(2) Upon the notification by the Secretary-General of a vacancy on the Commission, the proceeding shall be or remain suspended until the vacancy has been filled.

NOTES

- A. A vacancy may be created on the Commission by:
- (a) the death of a conciliator;
  - (b) the incapacity of a conciliator, which he must notify to the other members of the Commission and to the Secretary-General (Rule 8(1));
  - (c) the resignation of a conciliator in accordance with Rule 8(2);
  - (d) the failure of a conciliator to sign the required declaration in due time (Rule 6(2));
  - (e) a positive decision on a proposal to disqualify a conciliator (Rule 9).
- B. The Secretary-General's notification of a vacancy, required by paragraph (1) of this Rule, has a dual effect:
- (a) it requires the suspension of the proceeding (paragraph (2) of this Rule)—which can later only be resumed in accordance with Rule 12;
  - (b) it sets in motion the machinery for filling the vacancy (Rule 11).
- C. Even though the normal quorum requirement for sittings of the Commission is a mere majority (Rule 14(2)), and decisions are taken by a mere majority of the votes of all the members (Rule 16(1)), it would be improper to proceed with the conciliation while the membership of the Commission is incomplete.

Filling Vacancies on the Commission

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2), a vacancy resulting from the disqualification, death, incapacity or resignation of a conciliator shall be promptly filled by the same method by which his appointment had been made.

(2) In addition to filling vacancies relating to conciliators appointed by him, the Chairman of the Administrative Council shall appoint a person from the Panel of Conciliators:

- (a) to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation, without the consent of the Commission, of a conciliator appointed by a party; or
- (b) at the request of either party, to fill any other vacancy, if no new appointment is made and accepted within 30 days of the notification of the vacancy by the Secretary-General.

(3) The procedure for filling a vacancy shall be in accordance with Rules 1, 4(2), 4(3), 5 and, mutatis mutandis, 6(2)

NOTES

A. This Rule applies whenever there is a vacancy on the Commission, for any of the reasons listed in Note A to Rule 10.

B. The general rule is that the new appointment shall be made in the same way as the original one (i.e., the one by which the conciliator was appointed whose removal from the Commission created the vacancy). Thus if the original appointment had been made by one of the parties, that party should (subject to paragraph (2)(a) of this Rule) make the new appointment; if the conciliator had been appointed jointly, there should be a new joint appointment; if the conciliator had been appointed by a third party, or by the Chairman pursuant to Article 30 of the Convention, the new appointment should be made in the same way.

C. To guard against undue delay, a 30-day limit is stated in paragraph (2)(b), which operates in a similar manner as the 90-day limit in Article 30 of the Convention. Of course the parties are free to shorten or lengthen this period by their joint agreement. The Chairman himself, if he must make an appointment, has 30 days to do so pursuant to Rule 4(2), which is incorporated into this Rule by paragraph (3) hereto.

D. Paragraph (3) provides that, except as specifically stated otherwise in this Rule, appointments to fill a vacancy must conform in substance and procedure to the Rules relating to original appointments.

Rule 12

Resumption of Proceeding after Filling a Vacancy

As soon as a vacancy on the Commission has been filled, the proceeding shall continue from the point it had reached at the time the vacancy occurred. The newly appointed conciliator may, however, require that any hearings be repeated in whole or in part.

NOTES

A. This Rule applies whenever a vacancy on the Commission has occurred for any of the reasons listed in Note A to Rule 10, and has been filled in accordance with Rule 11.

B. This Rule specifies how the proceeding shall continue once a conciliator has been replaced. It is obviously undesirable and unnecessary that the entire proceeding start afresh, since the new conciliator is able to read the written statements (Rule 25). On the other hand, he ought to be in the position to require that any part of the hearings (Rules 27 and 28(1) and (2)) be repeated.

CHAPTER II

WORKING OF THE COMMISSION

Rule 13

Sessions of the Commission

(1) The Commission shall meet for its first session within 60 days after its constitution or such other period as the parties may agree. The dates of that session shall be fixed by the President of the Commission after consultation with its members and the Secretary-General, and with the parties as far as possible. If, upon its constitution, the Commission has no President, such dates shall be fixed by the Secretary-General after consultation with the members of the Commission, and with the parties as far as possible.

(2) Subsequent sessions shall be convened by the President within time limits determined by the Commission. The dates of such sessions shall be fixed by the President of the Commission after consultation with its members and the Secretary-General, and with the parties as far as possible.

(3) The Commission shall meet at the seat of the Centre or at such other place as may have been agreed by the parties in accordance with Article 63 of the Convention. If the parties agree that the proceeding shall be held at a place other than the Centre or an institution with which the Centre has made the necessary arrangements, they shall consult with the Secretary-General and request the approval of the Commission. Failing such approval, the Commission shall meet at the seat of the Centre.

(4) The Secretary-General shall notify the members of the Commission and the parties of the dates and place of the sessions of the Commission in good time.

NOTES

A. As used in these Rules, a "session" of the Commission refers to one or more "sittings" (see Rule 14) which are held without any extensive pauses and usually in the same place.

B. Paragraph (1) provides that the first session should, in principle, commence within 60 days after the constitution of the Commission (Rule 6(1)). This limit is provided in conformity with the general principle of non-frustration of proceedings underlying the Convention (see Report, paragraph 35) and of the avoidance of undue delays. As a rule, it should enable the President of the Commission to undertake meanwhile the preliminary consultation regarding the procedural framework for the proceeding (see Rule 20). However, should the preparation of the case require extension of the 60-day period or the parties wish to reduce it, this limit may be altered by agreement between them. Such a different period may indeed be already stated in the request, in accordance with Institution Rule 3.

C. Time limits for subsequent sessions are determined by the Commission which, once the proceeding has begun, is the best judge of the prospects for its progress. Of course, where appropriate, the Commission may dispose of the case in a single session, continuing de die in diem until concluded.

D. Within these time limits the power to fix the actual dates of each session rests with the President of the Commission (see paragraphs (1) and (2)), as does the power to fix the date and hour of sittings (Rule 14(3)). He should, however, consult its other members and—in view of the physical arrangements involved—the Secretary-General. He should also, in order to suit the convenience of the parties, consult them "as far as possible" before fixing the dates. If one of the parties fails to cooperate and does not appear or present its case, Article 34(2) (final sentence) of the Convention and Rule 31(3) apply.

E. If the parties agreed that the President of the Commission be elected by its members, the Commission will have no President upon its constitution. In such cases the dates of the first session must be fixed by the Secretary-General.

F. Paragraph (3) concerns the place at which the Commission shall meet. This place may be, under Articles 62 and 63 of the Convention:

- (a) the seat of the Centre (defined in Article 2 of the Convention);
- (b) the seat of any institution with which the Centre has made the necessary arrangements (Article 63(a) of the Convention singles out the Permanent Court of Arbitration as an example of such an institution); or
- (c) any other place agreed by the parties (in which case Article 63(b) of the Convention requires them to obtain the approval of the Commission, and also to consult with the Secretary-General—who is charged by Administrative and Financial Regulation 26(1) with making or supervising the necessary arrangements).

In addition, Rule 22(3)(c) provides for special visits and local inquiries by the Commission.

G. The phrase "in good time" in paragraph (4) must be construed in relation to the geographical location of the parties and their means of communication, and also to the time limits provided for the session. In the course of the preliminary consultation (see Rule 20) the parties may agree what the period of notice should be.

Rule 14
Sittings of the Commission

- (1) The President of the Commission shall conduct its hearings and preside at its deliberations.
- (2) Except as the parties otherwise agree, the presence of a majority of the members of the Commission shall be required at its sittings.
- (3) The President of the Commission shall fix the date and hour of its sittings.

NOTES

A. This Rule deals with the powers of the President of the Commission in relation to its "sittings" and the quorum required for their validity. The "sittings", which are part of a "session" (see Rule 13 and Note A thereto), consist either of "hearings" (see Rule 27) or of "deliberations" (see Rule 15).

B. If a Commission is constituted in accordance with Article 29(2)(b) of the Convention, the "third" conciliator acts as its President. If formed otherwise, the presidency is determined by the terms agreed by the parties for its constitution (see also Note E to Rule 4). They themselves may decide who shall be President, or they may leave the decision to the members of the Commission after it has been constituted. Thus it may happen that the Commission will have no President upon its constitution and this possibility is foreseen in Rule 13(1); in addition, Rule 17 makes provision for the contingency that the President may be unable to act.

C. Paragraph (2) provides that ordinarily only a simple majority of the Commission is required at its sittings. This Rule is designed to avoid the rigid requirement of the unremitting attendance of all members of the Commission on all occasions, and also makes it more difficult for a minority of the conciliators to delay or frustrate the proceeding through their deliberate absence. However, the parties may agree to change this Rule if they so desire—in this connection they may, but need not, also change Rule 16(1), which provides that the decisions of the Commission shall be taken by a majority of the votes of all its members.

Rule 15
Deliberations of the Commission

- (1) The deliberations of the Commission shall take place in private and remain secret.
- (2) Only members of the Commission shall take part in its deliberations. No other person shall be admitted unless the Commission decides otherwise.

NOTES

A. Paragraph (1) is designed to assure the independence of the conciliators, by allowing them not to make public—directly or indirectly—what their individual arguments in the course of the deliberations were, and how they voted. This strengthens the collective character of the Commission.

B. Paragraph (2) restricts attendance at the deliberations of the Commission. The Rule is flexible: It permits but does not require the Commission to request the attendance at its deliberations of the Secretary-General (or of the Secretary appointed by him for the proceeding pursuant to Administrative and Financial Regulation 25). The Secretary-General may assist in the efficient development of the proceeding but, of course, will not take part in the deliberations.

C. In addition, the Commission may decide to admit other persons—which it might do if it requires interpreters, translators or secretarial staff.

Rule 16

Decisions of the Commission

(1) Decisions of the Commission shall be taken by a majority of the votes of all its members. Abstention shall count as a negative vote.

(2) Except as otherwise provided by these Rules or decided by the Commission, it may take any decision by correspondence among its members, provided that all of them are consulted. Decisions so taken shall be certified by the President of the Commission.

NOTES

A. The first sentence of paragraph (1) is intended to apply to all decisions of the Commission—whether they relate to the adoption of recommendations, to the drawing up of the report, or to procedural orders. However, since this Rule is not based on the Convention (cf. Article 48(1) relating to arbitration proceedings), the parties may agree to change this provision, either with respect to all types of decisions or certain categories only.

B. The second sentence of paragraph (1) merely elucidates the phrase “majority of the votes of all its members”, by providing that abstention shall be deemed a negative vote. This Rule does not require that all the conciliators be present when each decision is taken; this depends on the quorum requirements agreed by the parties (see Rule 14(2) and Note C thereto); however, by the same reasoning on which the first sentence is based, absentees and other non-participants are counted as casting, in effect, negative votes. It should also be recalled that the report need not necessarily be signed by all members of the Commission (see Rule 33(3)).

C. Paragraph (2) provides a convenient mechanism for the Commission to make decisions, without the expense and loss of time of a meeting. The Rule is not restricted to particular types of decisions, though it is expected that it will probably be used more frequently for procedural than for substantive matters. Of course, this Rule, too, can be altered by agreement of the parties or by a majority of the Commission. It should also be noted that this paragraph does not change the voting rule stated in paragraph (1), which (as indicated in Note B), is in any case independent of the number of members of the Commission actually participating in a decision.

Incapacity of the President

If at any time the President of the Commission should be unable to act, his functions shall be performed by one of the other members of the Commission, acting in the order in which the Secretary-General had received the notice of their acceptance of their appointment to the Commission.

NOTES

A. These Rules assign a number of functions to the President of the Commission, some of which he is to perform at sittings of that body (see, e.g., Rules 14(1) and 28(2)), while others will usually be performed outside of a meeting (see, e.g., Rules 13(1) and (2) and 20(1)). Since the Rules do not require all members of the Commission to be present to constitute a quorum (Rule 14(2)), it is in the former situation desirable to provide for the possibility of some other member of the Commission substituting for the President; this may also be necessary whenever the resignation or disqualification of the President is being considered pursuant to Rules 8(2) or 9(4). The same is also true with respect to the actions to be taken outside of a meeting, in which connection it will be recalled (see Rule 16(1) and Note A thereto) that decisions can be taken by a mere majority and thus do not require the participation of the President. In the absence of a provision providing for such substitution, a proceeding might have to be halted completely during a disability of the President.

B. This Rule generally applies only to the incapacity of an existing President, and not in the event of a vacancy in that office. If the vacancy exists because no President has yet been elected, Rules 13(1) and 25(1) cover the principal lacuna (but see Note C to Rule 20), except that this Rule should be applied at the initial sitting(s) until the election is accomplished. Since under other circumstances a vacancy in this office can only arise if the conciliator who served as President is somehow removed from the Commission (by any of the methods listed in Note A to Rule 10), no provision for a substitution of functions need be made since in that event the proceeding must be suspended pursuant to Rule 10(2).

C. The parties may of course agree to a different order of succession than that provided for in this Rule.

Representation of the Parties

(1) Each party may be represented or assisted by agents, counsel or advocates whose names and authority shall be notified by that party to the Secretary-General, who shall promptly inform the Commission and the other party.

(2) For the purposes of these Rules, the expression "party" includes, where the context so admits, an agent, counsel or advocate authorized to represent that party.

NOTES

A. In disputes between States, the parties are represented before international tribunals by "agents", usually "assisted" by "counsel". The general management and control of the case is in the hands of the agent who acts as intermediary between the party and the Commission and is the official and full representative of the government. In some standing intergovernmental tribunals open to individuals, the latter must be represented by "counsel" and States by "agents". On the other hand, some international arbitral or administrative tribunals permit individuals and, in certain cases, even States or intergovernmental organizations to appear "in person". Accordingly, Rule 18 permits, but does not require, representation by "agents" or "counsel" or "advocates" (cf. Article 22 of the Convention). This will probably result in States being represented by agents, though it is not unthinkable that an "agency" of a Contracting State (cf. Article 25(1) of the Convention) might appear "in person" through one of its officers rather than through an outside "agent" (e.g., a diplomatic or economic representative of the government).

B. It is not mandatory that a party select a lawyer to act on its behalf, though self-interest should ensure that the parties will select representatives of acknowledged competence in the law. The terms "agent", "counsel" and "advocate" do not imply any specific legal or other qualifications and cover attorneys, avocats, barristers, solicitors, teachers of law, and other persons with appropriate legal or administrative training and experience. Hence, no party can object to a lack of professional qualifications of the opponent's representative.

C. It is not intended—as in disputes between States—to draw a distinction between the authority of an "agent" on the one hand and that of a "counsel" or "advocate" on the other.

The party concerned must render it clear by the terms of its designation whether it is "represented" or solely "assisted" by an agent, counsel or advocate and what the scope of the authority of each such person is. Similarly, if a party desires that all communications and notices in connection with the proceeding be sent to a particular person, it must so inform the Secretary-General (see Institution Rule 7(b) and Note C thereto).

GENERAL PROCEDURAL PROVISIONS

Procedural Orders

The Commission shall make the orders required for the conduct of the proceeding.

NOTES

A. While the parties, acting in concert, may exercise a large measure of control over the conduct of the proceeding (see Introductory Note D), it is still necessary that the Commission itself make the specific orders for the conduct of the proceeding, whether these be based on the Convention, on the agreement of the parties, on these Rules, or, failing any of these sources, on a decision of the Commission itself (see Article 33 of the Convention and Introductory Note E).

B. Rule 20 indicates the method by which the agreement and the individual views for the parties with respect to procedural points are to be ascertained by the Commission. Of course, the parties can communicate any agreement they may have reached on procedural points at the very earliest stage of the proceeding (see Institution Rule 3).

C. The Commission's procedural orders are normally made by a majority of the votes of all its members (see Rule 16(1) and Note A thereto).

Rule 20

Preliminary Procedural Consultation

(1) As early as possible after the constitution of a Commission, its President shall endeavor to ascertain the views of the parties regarding questions of procedure. For this purpose he may request the parties to meet him. He shall, in particular, seek their views on the following matters:

- (a) the number of members of the Commission required to constitute a quorum at its sittings;
- (b) the language or languages to be used in the proceeding;
- (c) the evidence, oral or written, which each party intends to produce or to request the Commission to call for, and the written statements which each party intends to file, as well as the time limits within which such evidence should be produced and such statements filed; and
- (d) the number of copies desired by each party of instruments filed by the other.

(2) In the conduct of the proceeding the Commission shall apply any agreement between the parties on procedural matters, except as otherwise provided in the Convention or the Administrative and Financial Regulations.

NOTES

A. This Rule is designed to enable the Commission—particularly by means of preliminary consultations by its President—to create, in cooperation with the parties, a concrete procedural framework within which it can issue the requisite orders under Rule 19. Since the Convention allows the parties extensive powers to settle procedural questions by agreement (see especially Article 33 and Introductory Note D), the Commission should spare no effort to seek cooperation with the parties, as well as between the parties, lest the conciliation be hindered by extensive procedural arguments. It may, for example, adopt the practice of the President of the International Court of Justice in discussing procedural points with the parties from time to time, in a kind of informal pre-trial conference.

B. In making its orders, the Commission should be guided, in the first place, by information furnished by the parties from the beginning (see Institution Rule 3) or as a result of the preliminary inquiry by its President (paragraph (1) of this Rule). However, in addition, the Commission must throughout the proceeding, as and when procedural issues arise, explore the views of the parties and—subject to the provisions of the Convention—seek to give effect to any agreement between the parties. Thus, this principle—an emanation of the consensual character of all proceedings under the Convention (cf. Report, paragraph 39)—applies not only to the matters listed in paragraph (1), but also to the place of the proceeding, to the arrangements for hearings, and to the method of examining witnesses and experts (see Rules 13(3), 27 and 28), etc.

C. The preliminary inquiry by the President should be carried out as early as possible after the constitution of the Commission (see Rule 6(1)). If, upon its constitution, the Commission has no President, he must undertake it upon his designation or election (see Note B to Rule 17). The President determines the mode of the inquiry. He may call on the parties to express their views in writing and/or ask them or their representatives to meet him for this purpose.

D. The items listed in paragraph (1) are covered more specifically by the following Rules:

- (a) Quorum requirement—Rule 14(2);
- (b) Procedural languages—Rule 21;
- (c) Written statements and evidence—Rules 25(1) and 28;
- (d) Numbers of copies of instruments to be filed—Rule 25(2).

Rule 21 Procedural Languages

(1) The parties may agree on the use of one or two languages to be used in the proceeding, provided that, if they agree on any language that is not an official language of the Centre, the Commission, after consultation with the Secretary-General, gives its approval. If the parties do not agree on any such procedural language, each of them may select one of the official languages for this purpose.

(2) If the parties agree on one procedural language, or both parties select the same, that language shall be used for all instruments, at the hearings and for the minutes, as well as for the orders, the recommendations and the report of the Commission.

(3) If the parties agree on two procedural languages, or each party selects a different one, any instrument may be filed in either such language. Statements made before the Commission or by one of its members in one procedural language shall, unless the Commission decides to dispense therewith, be interpreted into the other procedural language. The orders and recommendations shall be made, the report of the Commission rendered and the minutes kept in both procedural languages, both versions being equally authentic.

(4) Notwithstanding paragraphs (2) and (3), the Commission may authorize the use of a language other than a procedural language for a specified part of the proceeding. In such event it shall determine to what extent translation and interpretation into and from the procedural languages is required.

(5) If a party uses a language other than an official language of the Centre, it shall be wholly responsible for the arrangements for and the special expenses incurred by any translation and interpretation into and from that language.

NOTES

A. This Rule deals with the language regime for the settlement of a specific dispute (as to the language of the request for conciliation, see, however, Institution Rule 1(1)). The official languages of the Centre are specified in Administrative and Financial Regulation 34(1), and the availability of its translation and interpretation facilities is dealt with in Regulation 27

B. In conformity with the consensual character of all proceedings under the Convention, paragraph (1) leaves the linguistic regime of the proceeding to the determination of the parties. It may be expected that they will be guided by considerations of expediency and economy of time and cost, taking into account the linguistic attainments of all participants in the proceeding (including the members of the Commission), the documentary material, the facilities of the Centre as well as their own resources. The President of the Commission will explore the extent of their agreement in the course of the preliminary consultation undertaken in accordance with Rule 20(1)(b).

C. Whether one or two procedural languages are agreed to by the parties or selected by them separately, paragraphs (2)-(4) generally allow the Commission considerable discretion. Thus, even where there are two procedural languages, the Commission may, under paragraph (3), dispense with interpretation at hearings. And, more importantly, it may authorize, under paragraph (4), the use of any language for a specified part of the proceeding; the Commission might find this power useful where one language can be adequately used as the procedural language provided the use of another language is admitted for a limited part of the proceeding. The Commission can also avail itself of this power if any party, witness or expert declares that he is unable to depose in any of the procedural languages.

D. By Administrative and Financial Regulation 27(1) the Centre undertakes to furnish any necessary interpretation and translation from one official language of the Centre into another. While under Regulation 27(2) the Centre may also provide, if feasible, such services in relation to other languages, the Centre is not bound to do so. It is for this reason that paragraph (5) of the present Rule emphasizes the primary responsibility of the party using a nonofficial language both to make the arrangements for and to cover the expenses incurred in using such a language—whether it does so pursuant to paragraph (1) (in which case presumably both parties would share the burden of these arrangements pursuant to the first sentence of Article 61(1) of the Convention), or with the ad hoc approval of the Commission pursuant to paragraph (4) (in which case the second sentence of Article 61(1) would apply).

E. The language requirements relating to "supporting documentation" (see Rule 26) are set forth in Administrative and Financial Regulation 30(3).

CHAPTER IV CONCILIATION PROCEDURES

Rule 22

Functions of the Commission

(1) In order to clarify the issues in dispute between the parties, the Commission shall hear the parties and shall endeavor to obtain any information that might serve this end. The parties shall be associated with its work as closely as possible.

(2) In order to bring about agreement between the parties, the Commission may, from time to time at any stage of the proceeding, make—orally or in writing—recommendations to the parties. It may recommend that the parties accept specific terms of settlement or that they refrain, while it seeks to bring about agreement between them, from specific acts that might aggravate the dispute; it shall point out to the parties the arguments in favor of its recommendations. It may fix time limits within which each party shall inform the Commission of its decision concerning the recommendations made.

(3) The Commission, in order to obtain information that might enable it to discharge its functions, may at any stage of the proceeding:

- (a) request from either party oral explanations, documents and other information;
- (b) request evidence from other persons; and
- (c) with the consent of the party concerned, visit any place connected with the dispute or conduct inquiries there, provided that the parties may participate in any such visits and inquiries.

NOTES

A. This Rule elaborates the main functions of a Conciliation Commission as these are expressed in Article 34(1) of the Convention. Under the Convention, conciliation proceedings bear a certain resemblance to arbitration (cf. Articles 28-33 with Articles 36-38, 40-41 and 44). More generally, they both are based on a full, conscientious and impartial examination of the issues in dispute, carried out in cooperation with the parties; both are "contentious" proceedings. Therefore paragraph (1) of this Rule requires that the parties be heard. Indeed, without a continuing discussion of the dispute between the Commission and the parties, the proceeding must come to an end (on default, see the final sentence of Article 34(2) of the Convention, Rule 31(3) and Note D thereto). On the other hand, paragraph (1) does not prevent the Commission, at agreed stages of the proceeding, from hearing each party separately.

B. However, the analogy between the two types of proceedings should not be carried too far, since the task of an Arbitral Tribunal is to adjudicate the dispute and to render an award binding on the parties. The duty of a Commission, on the other hand, is to examine the issues and to persuade the parties to accept its recommendations; true, the latter must receive the “most serious consideration” of the parties (Article 34(1) of the Convention), but they are not bound to accept them.

C. Under paragraph (2), the Commission may make its recommendations not only after its examination of the issues is completed, but “at any stage of the proceeding” (as to closure, see Rule 31). Hence it may begin its work with an effort to conciliate the parties or it may make such an effort while it is clarifying the issues. Moreover, it may repeat its efforts “from time to time” To add further flexibility to its efforts, the Commission may make its recommendations orally, though usually it will record them in its minutes (see Rule 29(1)(i) and (2)).

D. The procedure does not—as does arbitration—fall into separate written and oral phases. At the beginning, the Commission will have cognizance of the request (see Rule 24) and of the written statements that the parties are expected to file pursuant to Rule 25(1). It may then receive documents and further written statements or may hear witnesses and experts—guiding itself by the procedural exploration undertaken by its President pursuant to Rule 20(1). But such statements or evidence may be supplied subsequently, “at any stage of the proceeding”, either at the request of the Commission (see paragraph (3)) or at the discretion of the party concerned (see Rules 25(1) and 28(1)). Their sequence is solely determined by the course of the discussions before the Commission and the twofold nature of its functions.

E. Under paragraph (3) the Commission may, on its own initiative and at any stage of the proceeding, request oral explanations from either party; the party may, of course, respond by supplying its explanations in writing. Further, the Commission may ask for documents; request that witnesses or experts give evidence before it; and, subject to consent, visit any place connected with the dispute and make inquiries there. It has, of course, no power of compulsion; but the parties have a duty to cooperate in good faith with the Commission and a failure to do so may prejudice the prospects of conciliation.

Cooperation of the Parties

(1) The parties shall cooperate in good faith with the Commission and, in particular, at its request furnish all relevant documents, information and explanations as well as use the means at their disposal to enable the Commission to hear witnesses and experts whom it desires to call. The parties shall also facilitate visits to and inquiries at any place connected with the dispute that the Commission desires to undertake.

(2) The parties shall comply with any time limits agreed with or fixed by the Commission.

NOTES

A. This Rule elaborates in some detail the obligation of the parties to “cooperate in good faith with the Commission” (see Article 34(1) of the Convention). Clearly, in order to enable the Commission to become acquainted with, and understand accurately the issues in dispute, the parties must, in the first instance, supply to it the relevant documents, information and explanations; they must also facilitate the work of the Commission by enabling it to hear such witnesses or experts as it may desire and to visit any place connected with the dispute, etc. The Commission itself has no legal powers to compel attendance or to carry out visits; nor, for that matter, does it have the funds therefor. Though the investor who is party to the dispute has no legal powers of compulsion and the powers of the State party to the dispute may be limited in practice or under its own law, their actual possibilities of persuading a witness or expert to appear may well be substantial. It is in this sense that the phrase: “use the means at their disposal”, should be interpreted.

B. The Commission should not procrastinate; nor should the parties. Therefore paragraph (2) requires them to comply with the time limits agreed with or fixed by the Commission (see Rules 22(2), 25(1), 26(2) and 28(1)). They should not be tempted, for motives extraneous to the dispute or contrary to good faith, to maintain the semblance of cooperation by procrastinating—seeking thereby to evade the responsibility for a breakdown of the conciliation effort. In particular they should, when recommendations are addressed to them by the Commission and a time limit is fixed for the response (Rule 22(2)), inform the Commission of their decision within such limit.

Rule 24

Transmission of the Request

As soon as the Commission is constituted, the Secretary-General shall transmit to each member a copy of the request by which the proceeding was initiated, of the supporting documentation, of the notice of registration and of any communication received from either party in response thereto.

NOTES

A. The request by which the conciliation proceeding was instituted also forms part of the written procedure in the dispute and consequently should be transmitted to the Commission as soon as the latter is constituted (as to that time, see Rule 6(1)).

B. The request and the supporting documentation may be needed by the Commission if it must make any decision on the Centre's jurisdiction or its own competence, pursuant to Article 32 of the Convention (Rule 30). In addition, the request may contain other procedural or substantive provisions agreed by the parties concerning the settlement of their dispute (see Institution Rule 3). It may therefore be of importance to the Commission in formulating its orders for the conduct of the proceeding (see Rules 19 and 20(2)).

Written Statements

(1) Upon the constitution of the Commission, its President shall invite each party to file, within 30 days or such longer time limit as he may fix, a written statement of its position. If, upon its constitution, the Commission has no President, such invitation shall be issued and any such longer time limit shall be fixed by the Secretary-General. At any stage of the proceeding, within such time limits as the Commission shall fix, either party may file such other written statements as it deems useful and relevant.

(2) Except as otherwise provided by the Commission after consultation with the parties and the Secretary-General, every written statement or other instrument shall be filed in the form of a signed original accompanied by additional copies whose number shall be two more than the number of members of the Commission.

NOTES

A. Although the Commission will receive some information about the dispute from the copy of the request for conciliation which each conciliator receives as soon as the Commission has been constituted (see Rule 24), it cannot obtain from that source any information about the “respondent’s” position—unless the request had been a joint one (see Institution Rule 1(2)); moreover, the initiating party may not have included in the request any materials bearing on the merit of the dispute except to the extent that these relate to the prima facie jurisdiction of the Centre. Thus, in order to start the proceeding as rapidly as possible, it is desirable that the parties should file, at the very beginning of the proceeding, any statement they may wish to make concerning their position; of course the initiating party may choose instead to refer the Commission to the material it had submitted in its request. To ensure that this will be done as early as possible, it is provided that the President of the Commission, and if none has yet been selected (see Note E to Rule 13) then the Secretary-General, should issue the necessary invitation even before the Commission has been convened for its first session.

B. A written statement may contain explanations, summaries of facts, new information, or arguments or comments on the other party’s views or on the Commission’s recommendations. It is not a “pleading” in the technical sense of the term. Statements may be filed “at any stage of the proceeding” (as to closure see Rule 31), though special provisions apply to the initial statements (see the first sentence of paragraph (1)).

C. While paragraph (2) does not apply to the original request for conciliation (which is governed by Institution Rule 4(1)), it applies to every other instrument filed in the proceeding. The consultations on the basis of which the Commission may make decisions under paragraph (2) should be conducted by its President pursuant to Rule 20(1)(d). The number of copies of supporting documents is regulated by Rule 26 and through it by Administrative and Financial Regulation 30(2), so as to be generally equal to the number of required copies of the instrument to which the documentation relates. The relevant linguistic requirements are stated in Rule 21(2) and (3).

D. Pursuant to Administrative and Financial Regulation 24(2), all written statements are “filed” by transmitting them to the Secretary-General. Regulation 28(1)(a) provides that the original of every instrument filed in a proceeding is to be deposited in the archives of the Centre for permanent retention.

Supporting Documentation

(1) Every written statement or other instrument filed by a party may be accompanied by supporting documentation, in such form and number of copies as required by Administrative and Financial Regulation 30.

(2) Supporting documentation shall ordinarily be filed together with the instrument to which it relates, and in any case within the time limit fixed for the filing of such instrument.

NOTES

A. These Rules distinguish between “instruments” (e.g., written statements, etc.) by which a party expresses or argues its various claims, motions and positions, and “supporting documentation” which consists of written (including pictorial) evidentiary material introduced in support of an instrument. In principle, therefore, documentation should never be introduced without relating it to a particular instrument (and consequently paragraph (2) of this Rule indicates that preferably it should be filed together with such instrument).

B. Administrative and Financial Regulation 30, to which reference is made in this Rule, establishes requirements for the form of original documentation (including the possibility of substituting certified copies or extracts), for the number of copies to be filed, and for the languages to be used.

Hearings

(1) The hearings of the Commission shall take place in private and, except as the parties otherwise agree, shall remain secret.

(2) The Commission shall decide, with the consent of the parties, which other persons besides the parties, their agents, counsel and advocates, witnesses and experts during their testimony, and officers of the Commission may attend the hearings.

NOTES

A. "Hearings" take place at "sittings" of the Commission, which constitute part of a "session" (see Note A to Rule 13 and Note A to Rule 14); they are conducted under the control of the President of the Commission (see Rule 14(1)). The parties may appear "in person" or through representatives (see Rule 18). The provisions relating to witnesses and experts are set forth in Rule 28. The language regime of the hearings is governed by Rule 21.

B. The hearings permit the oral development of the arguments of the parties, the presentation of oral evidence (i.e., by witnesses and experts), and, what is more important, an opportunity for the Commission to explore informally with the parties the possibilities of settling the dispute. To preserve flexibility and adequate discretion for the Commission, these Rules contain no specific guidance as to their conduct. Should the arrangement of the hearings present complex or controversial problems, these may be discussed by the President of the Commission with the parties in the preliminary consultation (Rule 20(1)).

C. The nature of conciliation proceedings requires that, as a rule, they should be held in private and remain secret; this Rule is formulated accordingly. As to the right of the Secretary appointed for the proceeding to be present, see Administrative and Financial Regulation 25(c). The Commission may require any expert or witness to absent himself from the hearing when not giving testimony.

Witnesses and Experts

(1) Each party may, at any stage of the proceeding, request that the Commission hear the witnesses and experts whose evidence the party considers relevant. The Commission shall fix a time limit within which such hearing shall take place.

(2) Witnesses and experts shall, as a rule, be examined before the Commission by the parties under the control of its President. Questions may also be put to them by any member of the Commission.

(3) If a witness or expert is unable to appear before it, the Commission, in agreement with the parties, may make appropriate arrangements for the evidence to be given in a written deposition or to be taken by examination elsewhere. The parties may participate in any such examination, and minutes shall be kept in accordance with Rule 29, mutatis mutandis.

NOTES

A. Each party has the right, at any stage of the proceeding (as to closure, see Rule 31), to introduce evidence by witnesses and experts. It suffices that the party itself should consider such evidence as relevant. Arrangements for the presentation of such evidence may be settled in the preliminary procedural consultation undertaken in accordance with Rule 20(1), but each party retains the right to introduce such evidence throughout the proceeding.

B. The cost of presenting evidence by witnesses and experts is part of the expenses which the party "incurs in connection with the proceedings" and is borne by it (see Article 61(1) of the Convention).

C. Under paragraph (2), witnesses and experts depose as a rule "before the Commission"; only if they are "unable to appear" should other arrangements be made (see paragraph (3)). They are examined by or on behalf of the parties (cf. Rule 18(2)), but all members of the Commission may put questions. The examination takes place under the control of the President of the Commission (cf. Rule 14(1)).

D. If a witness or expert is unable to appear before the Commission, the latter may agree with the parties on arrangements for such evidence to be given either in a written deposition or to be taken elsewhere. The latter alternative is sufficiently flexible to enable the Commission to appoint one of its members or some other person or body as a "commissioner" before whom the examination is to take place, and also to enable it to appoint an examiner. Both parties have the right to be present and to take part in any examination.

Minutes

(1) The Secretary-General shall keep minutes of all hearings. Subject to paragraph (2), these shall include:

- (a) the place, date and time of the hearing;
- (b) the names of the members of the Commission present;
- (c) the designation of each party present;
- (d) the names of the agents, counsel and advocates present;
- (e) the names, descriptions and addresses of the witnesses and experts heard;
- (f) a summary record of the evidence produced;
- (g) a summary record of the statements made by the parties;
- (h) a summary record of questions put to the parties by the members of the Commission, as well as of the replies thereto; and
- (i) any order or recommendation made or announced by the Commission.

(2) The Commission may, in agreement with the parties, decide that the minutes of a hearing shall omit part or all of the items (f)-(i) referred to in paragraph (1).

(3) The minutes of the hearing shall be signed by the President of the Commission and the Secretary-General. These minutes alone shall be authentic. They shall not be published without the consent of the parties.

NOTES

A. The functions of the Secretary-General under paragraphs (1) and (3) of this Rule will ordinarily be performed by the Secretary he is to appoint for the proceeding pursuant to Administrative and Financial Regulation 25.

B. For reasons of economy, but principally to attain a measure of informality, this Rule does not require either a shorthand record or the electronic recording of a hearing, and indeed paragraph (2) permits the record to be contracted drastically. On the other hand, the possibility is not excluded of including in the minutes, at the request of the party concerned, a verbatim record of any statement.

C. The provisions of this Rule also apply, mutatis mutandis, to the special examination of witnesses and experts pursuant to Rule 28(3), and may similarly be applied to visits and inquiries by the Commission pursuant to Rule 22(3)(c).

CHAPTER V

TERMINATION OF THE PROCEEDING

Rule 30

Objections to Jurisdiction

(1) Any objection that the dispute is not within the jurisdiction of the Centre or, for other reasons, is not within the competence of the Commission shall be made as early as possible. A party shall file the objection with the Secretary-General no later than in its first written statement or at the first hearing if that occurs earlier, unless the facts on which the objection is based are unknown to the party at that time.

(2) The Commission may on its own initiative consider, at any stage of the proceeding, whether the dispute before it is within the jurisdiction of the Centre and within its own competence.

(3) Upon the formal raising of an objection, the proceeding on the merits shall be suspended. The Commission shall obtain the views of the parties on the objection.

(4) The Commission may deal with the objection as a preliminary question or join it to the merits of the dispute. If the Commission overrules the objection or joins it to the merits, it shall resume consideration of the latter without delay.

(5) If the Commission decides that the dispute is not within the jurisdiction of the Centre or not within its own competence, it shall close the proceeding and draw up a report to that effect, in which it shall state its reasons.

NOTES

A. Under the Convention, the Commission is "the judge of its own competence" (Article 32(1)) and must also decide objections to the jurisdiction of the Centre (Article 32(2)) (as to the meaning of the phrase "jurisdiction of the Centre", see Report, paragraph 22). The Commission is not bound to assume jurisdiction merely because the Secretary-General, by registering a request for conciliation, has implicitly acknowledged that, in his view, the dispute in question is not "manifestly outside the jurisdiction of the Centre" (see Article 28(3) of the Convention and Institution Rule 6(1)). Therefore, in spite of the registration, the Commission may decide that the dispute is not within the jurisdiction of the Centre, or for other reasons is not within its jurisdiction.

B. An objection to the jurisdiction of the Centre or to the competence of the Commission (for the sake of brevity, in these Notes referred to as "objections to jurisdiction") will usually be raised by one of the parties (as foreseen in paragraph (1) of this Rule). However, it may also be raised by the Commission on its own initiative (paragraph (2)). In either case, the procedure followed is similar, and both parties must have an opportunity to present their observations (paragraph (3)).

C. Paragraph (1) requires that any objection to jurisdiction be made "as early as possible". The earliest that this can be done is of course immediately after the institution of the proceeding (i.e., after registration of the request—see Institution Rule 6) since the Secretary-General himself is not authorized under Article 28(3) of the Convention to take account of any material not contained in the request itself. In any case, an objection to jurisdiction cannot be considered by the Secretary-General even after registration, but will be taken up as the first order of business of the Commission upon its constitution. On the other hand, the facts on which an objection may be based may not be known to the party concerned at the time the proceeding is instituted. A State may, for instance, not know that, at the time of registration, the other party had been its national (cf. Article 25(2)(a) of the Convention). Hence, while an objection to jurisdiction should be made “as early as possible”, the specific limits laid down in paragraph (1) do not apply if “the facts on which the objection is based are unknown to the party at that time”.

D. Whenever an objection to jurisdiction is raised, either by one of the parties or by the Commission itself, the proceeding on the merits must be suspended and both parties must be given an opportunity to indicate their views. Thereafter, the Commission has, under paragraph (4), three possibilities: It may deal with the objection as a preliminary question and, if it deems it well-founded, end the proceeding. It may overrule the objection and resume conciliation on the merits. Finally it may join the objection to the merits—a course it is likely to adopt where the facts on which the objection is based are closely connected with the merits.

E. If the Commission finds an objection to jurisdiction to be well founded, paragraph (5) requires it to express this decision in a report. Such a report should conform to Article 34(2) of the Convention and to Rules 32-34, and Article 35 of the Convention would apply to it.

F. Objections to jurisdiction, as well as any observations filed by the parties, should conform to the requirements established for all instruments filed in the proceeding, in particular those specified in Rules 21, 25(2) and 26 and in Administrative and Financial Regulations 24 and 30.

Closure of the Proceeding

(1) If the parties reach agreement on the issues in dispute, the Commission shall close the proceeding and draw up its report noting the issues in dispute and recording that the parties have reached agreement. At the request of the parties, the report shall record the detailed terms and conditions of their agreement.

(2) If at any stage of the proceeding it appears to the Commission that there is no likelihood of agreement between the parties, the Commission shall, after notice to the parties, close the proceeding and draw up its report noting the submission of the dispute to conciliation and recording the failure of the parties to reach agreement.

(3) If one party fails to appear or participate in the proceeding, the Commission shall, after notice to the parties, close the proceeding and draw up its report noting the submission of the dispute to conciliation and recording the failure of that party to appear or participate.

NOTES

A. Closure of the proceeding means that the parties no longer have access to the Commission and that all that remains for the Commission to do is to draw up its report (see Rules 32 and 33).

B. Three alternatives are expressly provided in Article 34(2) of the Convention, which are respectively reflected in paragraphs (1), (2) and (3) of this Rule. As to closure of the proceeding for lack of jurisdiction, see Article 32 of the Convention and Rule 30(5). (See also Administrative and Financial Regulation 13(3)(d) (final sentence) concerning the Secretary-General's power to move a discontinuance for long continued nonpayment of charges, and Institution Rule 8 concerning the right of unilateral withdrawal before registration of the request.)

C. Article 34(2) of the Convention does not foresee that the terms of settlement of a dispute are to be recorded in the Commission's report. Therefore paragraph (1) provides that this should only be done "at the request of the parties"—i.e., of both parties.

D. Paragraph (3) provides for the closure of the proceeding if either party fails to appear or to participate. In this conciliation differs from arbitration, since in the latter type of proceeding a party cannot, by default, prevent a Tribunal from rendering an award (see Article 45(2) of the Convention). However, the very nature of conciliation requires the participation, indeed the active cooperation of both parties (see the final sentence of Article 34(1) of the Convention and Rule 23), and without it the work of the Commission must be terminated.

Rule 32

Preparation of the Report

The report of the Commission shall be drawn up and signed within 30 days from the closure of the proceeding.

NOTES

A. The closure of the proceeding is provided for in Rules 30(5) and 31.

B. Since it is not required that all conciliators sign the report or that those who do must sign at the same time (see Rule 33(3)), the 30-day limit is intended to refer to the last signature to be affixed.

The Report

(1) The report shall be in writing and shall contain, in addition to the material specified in paragraph (2) and in Rule 31:

- (a) a precise designation of each party;
- (b) a statement that the Commission was established under the Convention, and a description of the method of its constitution;
- (c) the names of the members of the Commission, and an identification of the appointing authority of each;
- (d) the names of the agents, counsel and advocates of the parties;
- (e) the dates and place of the sittings of the Commission; and
- (f) a summary of the proceeding.

(2) The report shall also record any agreement of the parties, pursuant to Article 35 of the Convention, concerning the use in other proceedings of the views expressed or statements or admissions or offers of settlement made in the proceeding before the Commission or of the report or any recommendation made by the Commission.

(3) The report shall be signed by the members of the Commission; the date of each signature shall be indicated. The fact that a member refuses to sign the report shall be recorded therein.

NOTES

A. This Rule is designed to implement primarily Article 34(2) of the Convention and to some extent Article 35.

B. Since, unless the parties agree otherwise, the report of a Conciliation Commission has no binding force or effect, the formalities regarding these reports and the requirements as to their contents are not as rigid as those relating to the enforceable awards of an Arbitral Tribunal. In general, the reports will therefore only contain a formal account of the proceeding (see paragraph (1) and Rule 31(1)-(3)). However, pursuant to Rule 31(1), the parties may request that the report record the detailed terms and conditions of their agreement, and Rule 30(5) requires the Commission to state its reasons if it closes the proceeding because it has decided it lacks jurisdiction.

C. Paragraph (2) relates to the possibility, foreseen by Article 35 of the Convention, that the parties may agree to permit the use in other proceedings of all or of certain parts of the transactions that related to the conciliation. It is of course not necessary that such an agreement (which may have preceded the request for conciliation or may, on the other hand, only be reached after the report had been communicated to the parties) be reflected in the report—but its inclusion therein may be of probative value.

Rule 34

Communication of the Report

(1) Upon signature by the last conciliator to sign, the Secretary-General shall promptly:

- (a) authenticate the original text of the report and deposit it in the archives of the Centre; and
- (b) dispatch a certified copy to each party, indicating the date of dispatch on the original text and on all copies.

(2) The Secretary-General shall, upon request, make available to a party additional certified copies of the report.

(3) The Centre shall not publish the report without the consent of the parties.

NOTES

A. The Secretary-General's functions pursuant to paragraphs (1) and (2) are in consonance with Administrative and Financial Regulation 28.

B. In order to avoid the inconvenience and additional expense that might be caused if the Commission were required to reconvene merely to read the report, these Rules do not require that the report be delivered at a sitting of the Commission. Nor need it be signed on the same date by all members of the Commission who wish to do so. If, because of their locations, members sign on different dates, the Secretary-General's responsibility for prompt action under paragraph (1) must be measured relative to the date on which the last signature is added.

C. Unlike the provision relating to awards (see Article 48(5) of the Convention), the Convention contains no prohibition against the publication of the report of a Commission. However, the policy considerations are similar (cf. also Article 35) and consequently such a prohibition is stated in paragraph (3) of this Rule—but in this connection attention is called to Administrative and Financial Regulation 21(2).

CHAPTER VI
GENERAL PROVISIONS

Rule 35

Final Provisions

- (1) The texts of these Rules in each official language of the Centre shall be equally authentic.
- (2) These Rules may be cited as the "Conciliation Rules" of the Centre.
- (3) The headings of the Chapters and Rules are for convenience of reference only and are not part of these Rules.

NOTES

A. The official languages of the Centre are specified in Administrative and Financial Regulation 34(1). At present these are English and French, but Spanish will be added automatically as soon as a Spanish-speaking State becomes a party to the Convention.

B. Whenever a new official language is added the Secretary-General will prepare a text of these Rules in that language for the approval of the Administrative Council.

RULES OF PROCEDURE FOR ARBITRATION PROCEEDINGS (ARBITRATION RULES)

INTRODUCTORY NOTES

A. The Rules of Procedure for Arbitration Proceedings (hereinafter, and in accordance with Rule 56(2), the "Arbitration Rules") of the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes were adopted by the Administrative Council of the Centre pursuant to Article 6(1)(c) of the Convention on the Settlement of Investment Disputes between States and Nationals of Other States.

B. These Rules are supplemented by the Administrative and Financial Regulations of the Centre<sup>1</sup>, in particular by Regulations 13, 14, 15(2) and (3), 21, 23-31 and 34(1).

C. These Rules cover the period of time from the dispatch of the notice of registration of a request for arbitration until an award is rendered and all challenges possible to it under the Convention have been exhausted. The transactions previous to that time are to be regulated in accordance with the Institution Rules<sup>2</sup>.

D. Unlike the Administrative and Financial Regulations and the Institution Rules, from whose provisions the parties can only derogate to the extent permitted by a particular Regulation or Rule, Article 44 of the Convention provides that the Arbitration Rules (except those that merely reproduce binding provisions of the Convention) apply only to the extent that the parties do not otherwise agree. Moreover, as a safeguard against amendments that might not suit the parties, these Rules apply in the form "in effect on the date on which the parties consented to arbitration"; however, if any such amendments are helpful, nothing prevents the parties from accepting, by mutual accord, the Rules in their amended form. Finally, whenever the parties do not agree on some procedural point that is also not, or is only inadequately covered by these Rules, then the Tribunal has a residual power to decide the question (Article 44 of the Convention): that provision is, in fact, only declaratory of the inherent power of any arbitral tribunal to formulate its own rules of procedure in the event of a lacuna.

E. To sum up, subject to those Articles of the Convention from which the parties may not depart, there are three possibilities: The parties may agree on their own rules for the conduct of the case. If they do not, these Rules will apply in the form existing on the "date of consent" (see Institution Rule 2(3) and Note M thereto). Where the Rules do not cover a procedural question that arises, or the parties have agreed that the existing Rule should not apply but have not agreed on a substitute, the Tribunal will decide the question.

CHAPTER I

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE TRIBUNAL

Rule 1

General Obligations

(1) Upon notification of the registration of the request for arbitration, the parties shall, with all possible dispatch, proceed to constitute a Tribunal, with due regard to Section 2 of Chapter IV of the Convention.

(2) Unless such information is provided in the request, the parties shall communicate to the Secretary-General as soon as possible any provisions agreed by them regarding the number of arbitrators and the method of their appointment.

(3) Except if each member of the Tribunal is appointed by agreement of the parties, nationals of the State party to the dispute or of the State whose national is a party to the dispute may be appointed by a party only if appointment by the other party to the dispute of the same number of arbitrators of either of these nationalities would not result in a majority of arbitrators of these nationalities.

(4) No person who had previously acted as a conciliator or arbitrator in any proceeding for the settlement of the dispute may be appointed as a member of the Tribunal.

NOTES

A. The rules relating to the method of the constitution of the Tribunal differ according to whether, at the time of the registration of the request, the parties are, or fail to be, in agreement on "the number of arbitrators and the method of their appointment". If such an agreement exists, it may be embodied in a compromissory clause in the instrument under which the dispute has arisen, or in an ad hoc compromis; in either case, the present Rule applies immediately. However, if at the time of the registration of the request the parties are not in agreement, Rule 2(1) should be used first to assist them in reaching an accord; if they fail, Rule 2(3) applies.

B. The Convention leaves the parties considerable freedom regarding the constitution of the Tribunal. However, it does state certain conditions, which they must observe regardless of any agreement between them:

- (i) the number of arbitrators must be uneven (Article 37(2)(a));
- (ii) the majority of the arbitrators must be nationals of States other than the Contracting State party to the dispute and the State whose national is a party to it, unless each and every arbitrator is appointed by agreement of both parties (Article 39); and
- (iii) arbitrators appointed from outside the Panel of Arbitrators must possess the qualities required for those serving on that Panel (Article 40(2)).

All this is recalled by the reference, in paragraph (1) of this Rule, to Section 2 of Chapter IV of the Convention.

C. Subject to these restrictions, the parties may agree to have recourse to a sole arbitrator (e.g., if their dispute is restricted to a specific point of interpretation of a legal instrument); or they may choose a Tribunal consisting of three arbitrators—the number singled out by the Convention for the eventuality that no agreement is reached (see Article 37(2)(b)); or they may select the figure five or any other uneven number.

D. Again, as regards the method of appointment the parties are free. They may decide to appoint the arbitrators themselves (as foreseen, for instance, in Article 37(2)(b) of the Convention) or to delegate this task, or part of it, to others—e.g., to the Chairman of the Administrative Council or even to the arbitrators they themselves have appointed; such delegation may be unconditional or may apply only if the parties fail within a specified period to make the appointments themselves. They may, but need not, agree to restrict the selection of arbitrators to the Panel of Arbitrators (cf. Article 40(1) of the Convention).

E. In view of this variety of solutions that the parties may adopt, this Rule, which merely expresses their main procedural obligations once they have agreed, must necessarily be couched in very general terms. Thus Article 37(1) of the Convention requires that the Tribunal shall be constituted "as soon as possible after registration of a request", and accordingly, paragraph (1) of this Rule enjoins the parties to proceed "with all possible dispatch" (see also Institution Rule 7(d)).

F. Paragraph (2) sets out a concomitant duty of the parties. While Institution Rule 3 permits the requesting party (or the parties jointly) to set forth in the request itself any agreement regarding the number of arbitrators and the method of their appointment, and Institution Rule 7(c) requires the Secretary-General to invite the parties to provide him with this information if they had not previously done so, the present Rule enjoins them to do so "as soon as possible".

G. Paragraph (3) is designed to ensure the fair application of Article 39 of the Convention. That provision does not absolutely prohibit the appointment by either party of one of its nationals or a national of the State of which that party is a national as arbitrator; however, if the Tribunal is to consist of three arbitrators, such an appointment by the party acting first would block the other party from making a similar appointment, for in that case the majority of the arbitrators could not be "nationals of States other than the Contracting State party to the dispute and the Contracting State whose national is a party to the dispute" as required by Article 39 of the Convention. Thus, as compared to the party acting first, the other party would be put at a disadvantage through no fault of its own. As was noted in paragraph 36 of the Report of the IBRD Executive Directors accompanying the Convention (hereinafter the "Report"), the rule laid down in Article 39 "is likely to have the effect of excluding persons having these nationalities from serving on a Tribunal composed of not more than three members" However, where the number of arbitrators is larger, the effect of the restriction is less severe; thus if the Tribunal is composed of five members, the Convention and consequently paragraph (3) of this Rule permits the appointment by either party of one, but prohibits the appointment of two, arbitrators of the specified nationalities.

H. Paragraphs (3) and (4) are formulated so as to express general restrictions, applicable to the appointment of arbitrators whether agreement on the constitution of the Tribunal precedes the registration of the request (as foreseen in Rule 1) or is only reached by the procedure suggested in Rule 2, or follows the automatic formula on which Rule 3 is based. In that latter case, Rule 1(3) is implemented by means of the more specific limitations stated in Rule 3(1)(a)(i) and (b)(i).

I. If a dispute first submitted to conciliation, under the auspices of the Centre or otherwise, is not settled thereby, the next step may be arbitration (see Note C to Institution Rule 1); or arbitration under the Convention may follow on some other, inconclusive, arbitration proceeding. Paragraph (4) of this Rule is based on the general principle that no person should twice take part in an impartial investigation of the same dispute. As stated, this restriction would apply only if the previous proceeding had actually taken place. It is applicable to appointments made by anyone, for example: by the parties, by the Chairman of the Administrative Council, or by the other arbitrators acting pursuant to a power to co-opt additional members. However, the parties may by agreement waive it.

J. Administrative and Financial Regulation 12 provides, inter alia, that the Secretary-General, the Deputy Secretaries-General and members of the staff of the Centre may not serve on any Tribunal.

Rule 2

Method of Constituting the Tribunal in the Absence of Previous Agreement

(1) If the parties, at the time of the registration of the request for arbitration, have not agreed upon the number of arbitrators and the method of their appointment, they shall, unless they agree otherwise, follow the following procedure:

- (a) the requesting party shall, within 10 days after the registration of the request, propose to the other party the appointment of a sole arbitrator or of a specified uneven number of arbitrators and specify the method proposed for their appointment;
- (b) within 20 days after receipt of the proposals made by the requesting party, the other party shall:
  - (i) accept such proposals; or
  - (ii) make other proposals regarding the number of arbitrators and the method of their appointment;
- (c) within 20 days after receipt of the reply containing any such other proposals, the requesting party shall notify the other party whether it accepts or rejects such proposals.

(2) The communications provided for in paragraph (1) shall be made or promptly confirmed in writing and shall either be transmitted through the Secretary-General or directly between the parties with a copy to the Secretary-General. The parties shall promptly notify the Secretary-General of the contents of any agreement reached.

(3) At any time 60 days after the registration of the request, if no agreement on another procedure is reached, either party may inform the Secretary-General that it chooses the formula provided for in Article 37(2)(b) of the Convention. The Secretary-General shall thereupon promptly inform the other party that the Tribunal is to be constituted in accordance with that Article.

NOTES

A. The Convention visualizes the process of formation of the Tribunal by the parties in two stages, the first concerned with determining the number of arbitrators and the method of their appointment and the second with their actual appointment. The first stage may have been completed at the time of the registration of the request, though the Convention does not require this as a precondition for registration. As soon as this stage is completed—be it before or after the registration—the provisions of Rule 1 apply.

B. It is desirable to give the parties an opportunity of reaching agreement on the form and method of the constitution of the Tribunal, if they had not done so by the time of the registration of the request. The purpose of this Rule is to provide a procedure therefor. However, the parties are free to agree to follow any other procedure to this end. In view of the wide choice of substantive solutions that they may adopt (see Notes C and D to Rule 1), they may, for instance, agree on a procedure according each party two (instead of merely one) opportunities of formulating proposals and, for that purpose, extend the 90-day time limit established in Article 38 of the Convention (as well as the several time limits stated in this Rule).

C. Since Article 38 of the Convention allows a total of 90 days from the dispatch of the notice of registration to the completion of the constitution of the Tribunal (though the parties may by agreement set either a longer or shorter interval), it is desirable that the first stage (determination of the method of constituting the Tribunal) be completed well before this entire period has elapsed. Consequently, certain time limits have been set in paragraph (1) of this Rule, and paragraph (3) provides that if within 60 days no agreement on composition can be reached, then either party may unilaterally require the establishment of a Tribunal in accordance with the formula in Article 37(2)(b) of the Convention.

D. Clearly, it is for the party that filed the request for arbitration to be prepared to take the initiative, and subparagraph (1)(a) requires that party to do so almost immediately after it is notified of the registration of its request. While the requesting party takes the initiative, the principle of the equality of the parties requires that the other party should have an opportunity of making its views bear fully on the process of the formation of the Tribunal. Therefore, if it does not desire to accept the proposals made by the requesting party, it may formulate its own—but it must act within 20 days.

E. The requirement in paragraph (2), that all communications pursuant to paragraph (1) pass through or at least be communicated to the Secretary-General, reflects the general policy on "Means of Communication" expressed in Administrative and Financial Regulation 24(1). In addition, if agreement is reached, its terms must be communicated by the parties to the Secretary-General, a requirement which corresponds to that already stated in Rule 1(2).

F. Though the parties have a wide choice of solutions regarding the constitution of the Tribunal, the task of forming it may prove laborious. However, the Convention contains adequate safeguards against complete frustration should the parties be unable to agree or fail to cooperate (cf. Report, paragraph 35). Thus, if no agreement is reached (under the procedure provided in paragraph (1) or otherwise) concerning the constitution of the Tribunal, the latter will automatically consist of three members appointed as provided in Article 37(2)(b) of the Convention. Paragraph (3) of this Rule provides that either party may terminate the attempt to reach agreement on a formula other than that provided in the Convention, if at least 60 days have elapsed since the dispatch of the notice of registration; however, once an agreement has been reached, neither party may withdraw from it by invoking this Rule. The parties may of course agree to substitute some other time limit or conditions for the 60 days stated in this paragraph.

Rule 3

Appointment of Arbitrators to Tribunal Constituted in Accordance with Convention Article 37(2)(b)

- (1) If the Tribunal is to be constituted in accordance with Article 37(2)(b) of the Convention:
- (a) the party taking action under Rule 2(3) or otherwise the requesting party shall, in a communication to the other party:
    - (i) name two persons, identifying one of them, who shall not have the same nationality as nor be a national of either party, as the arbitrator appointed by it, and the other as the arbitrator proposed to be the President of the Tribunal; and
    - (ii) invite the other party to concur in the appointment of the arbitrator proposed to be the President of the Tribunal and to appoint another arbitrator;
  - (b) promptly upon receipt of this communication the other party shall, in its reply:
    - (i) name a person as the arbitrator appointed by it, who shall not have the same nationality as nor be a national of either party; and
    - (ii) concur in the appointment of the arbitrator proposed to be the President of the Tribunal or name another person as the arbitrator proposed to be President;
  - (c) promptly upon receipt of the reply containing such a proposal, the initiating party shall notify the other party whether it concurs in the appointment of the arbitrator proposed by that party to be the President of the Tribunal.
- (2) The communications provided for in this Rule shall be made or promptly confirmed in writing and shall either be transmitted through the Secretary-General or directly between the parties with a copy to the Secretary-General.

NOTES

A. This Rule applies whenever a Tribunal is to be constituted by the parties "in accordance with Article 37(2)(b)", i.e., either because they have specifically agreed to adopt that formula or because the parties have failed to agree on any other formula and one of them has chosen to invoke Rule 2(3).

B. The stated procedure is largely self-explanatory. In conformity with the principle of the equality of the parties, it provides each of them with an opportunity of naming one candidate for appointment as third arbitrator. Of course, the parties may agree that each should have the possibility of reiterating this nominating procedure. They may provide for this if they are hopeful about the outcome of their efforts and may even, to this end, extend the 90-day limit mentioned in Article 38 of the Convention. Alternatively, where the parties "agree that they will not agree", they may, by mutual accord, reduce this period and request, possibly jointly, the Chairman of the Administrative Council to intervene.

C. For the reasons given in Note G to Rule 1, subparagraphs (1)(a)(i) and (1)(b)(i) prohibit the appointment by either party of an arbitrator who has the nationality of the State party to the dispute or the same nationality as the other party—but this restriction does not apply with respect to the person proposed, by either party, to be the jointly appointed President of the Tribunal.

D. No time limits are established for the steps provided for by this Rule. However, the parties must (unless they agree to extend the 90-day limit in Article 38 of the Convention) act promptly, for otherwise either of them can require the Chairman to intervene in the appointment of the arbitrators. Of course, if a party acts promptly to appoint its arbitrator, the other party cannot, through its own delay followed by a request to the Chairman pursuant to Article 38, prevent the diligent party from making at least that appointment to the Tribunal that that party can make by itself.

E. The requirement in paragraph (2), that all communications pursuant to this Rule pass through or at least be communicated to the Secretary-General, reflects the general policy on "Means of Communication" expressed in Administrative and Financial Regulation 24(1).

F. In view of the variety of formulae that the parties may agree to with respect to the constitution of a Tribunal, it is not practical to establish any detailed rules regarding the appointment procedure applicable if the Tribunal is to be constituted in accordance with a formula other than that set forth in Article 37(2)(b) of the Convention. Therefore, except for Rule 1(3) (which is based on Article 39 of the Convention) and 1(4), no such rules have been included here. Of course, the parties are always free to follow, to the extent applicable, the provisions of Rule 3 in making appointments to a Tribunal differently constituted.

Appointment of Arbitrators by the Chairman of the Administrative Council

(1) If the Tribunal shall not have been constituted within 90 days after notice of the registration of the request for arbitration has been dispatched by the Secretary-General, or such other period as the parties may agree, either party may, through the Secretary-General, address a request in writing to the Chairman of the Administrative Council to appoint the arbitrator or arbitrators not yet appointed and, unless the President of the Tribunal shall already have been designated or is to be designated later, to designate an arbitrator to be the President of the Tribunal. The Secretary-General shall forthwith send a copy of that request to the other party.

(2) The Chairman shall comply—with due regard to Articles 38 and 40(1) of the Convention—with that request within 30 days after its receipt, or such longer period as the parties may agree. Before he proceeds to make appointments or a designation, he shall consult both parties as far as possible.

(3) The Secretary-General shall promptly notify the parties of any appointment or designation made by the Chairman.

NOTES

A. Article 37(1) of the Convention requires the Tribunal to be constituted "as soon as possible after registration of a request", and Article 38 assumes that, in principle, the parties will succeed in their task within 90 days "after notice of registration of the request has been dispatched by the Secretary-General". After this period, each party may request the Chairman of the Administrative Council to intervene and see to it that the Tribunal is constituted. Since this basic safeguard against the frustration of the proceeding is provided by the Convention in the interest of the parties, they may, by agreement, extend or reduce the 90-day period.

B. The request to the Chairman to intervene must be made through the Secretary-General (cf. Administrative and Financial Regulation 24(1)). Either party may make such a request, or both may do so jointly. It goes without saying that any request to the Chairman to act under Article 38 of the Convention will have to be accompanied by precise information on the appointments already made and the agreement, if any, between the parties regarding the constitution of the Tribunal (see also Rules 1(2), 2(2) and 5(1)).

C. From that information the Chairman should be able to determine the number of arbitrators to be appointed by him. Thus, the parties may have agreed on a sole arbitrator but have failed in their endeavor to appoint him; or, in accordance with the procedure provided for in Rule 3(1), each may have appointed an arbitrator, but both could not agree on the third arbitrator; or, in pursuing the procedure under that Rule the initiating party may have appointed one arbitrator but have failed to elicit any response by the other party; etc. Thus, the Chairman may have to appoint one, two or more arbitrators.

D. If the parties have not agreed on any other formula for the constitution of the Tribunal, then pursuant to Article 37(2)(b) of the Convention, the Chairman must apply the formula in that Article.

E. The principal object of a request pursuant to Article 38 of the Convention is that the Chairman should "appoint the arbitrator or arbitrators not yet appointed". But, if the Tribunal is to consist of more than one arbitrator, the Chairman may also have to specify ("designate") which arbitrator is to be the President of the Tribunal, unless the President has already been designated. This could occur for example, if the parties have agreed that the President shall be elected by the arbitrators themselves and they fail to do so.

F. Under paragraph (2) the Chairman must make his appointments within 30 days after the receipt of the request. Again, this period—introduced in the interest of the parties—may be extended by agreement between them. Where in the light of the information at his disposal the Chairman is hopeful, provided his time is extended, of being able to make appointments agreeable to the parties, he might himself make a suggestion to them to this effect.

G. The Chairman should be aided in his task by the consultations which he must hold with "both parties as far as possible"—bearing in mind the 30-day time limit. In the process of such consultations he may ascertain their views and desires. Consultations may be held jointly, or separately with each party; they may be oral, or the parties may state their positions and views in writing. It is the duty of the Chairman to press for these consultations, but whether they take place or not, this obligation does not fetter his power to make such appointments as he deems proper.

H. When acting under Article 38 of the Convention and in accordance with this Rule, the Chairman must make all appointments from the Panel of Arbitrators and no national of the Contracting State party to the dispute or of the Contracting State whose national is party thereto may be appointed by him (see Articles 38 and 40(1) of the Convention).

I. Once an appointment has been made by the Chairman pursuant to paragraph (2), the Secretary-General must promptly notify the parties thereof. At the same time he must, pursuant to Rule 5(2), seek confirmation that the person concerned accepts his appointment.

Rule 5

Acceptance of Appointments

(1) The party or parties concerned shall notify the Secretary-General of the appointment of each arbitrator and indicate the method of his appointment.

(2) As soon as the Secretary-General has been informed by a party or the Chairman of the Administrative Council of the appointment of an arbitrator, he shall seek an acceptance from the appointee.

(3) If an arbitrator fails to accept his appointment within 15 days, the Secretary-General shall promptly notify the parties, and if appropriate the Chairman, and invite them to proceed to the appointment of another arbitrator in accordance with the method followed for the previous appointment.

NOTES

A. The purpose of paragraph (1) is to ensure that the Centre is kept informed of appointments for which the parties are, directly or indirectly, responsible. Yet it is not easy to define the duty of each party with precision, for an arbitrator may be appointed by:

- (a) a party by itself;
- (b) both parties jointly—for instance, as a sole arbitrator or as the third arbitrator provided for in Article 37(2)(b) of the Convention;
- (c) a person or body outside the dispute—e.g., by the Chairman of the Administrative Council.

B. The expression "appointment" contains an element of ambiguity. Nobody is under an obligation to serve as arbitrator solely because he has been "appointed"—not even a person included in the Panel of Arbitrators, as he has only agreed that he is "willing to serve thereon" (see Article 12 of the Convention). He may well refuse to accept an appointment in a specific case. While it may be presumed that in practice a party, or both parties, or the Chairman of the Administrative Council or any other outside body responsible for the appointment will first informally inquire whether a person under consideration is willing to serve as arbitrator in the specific dispute (in this connection, attention is called to Article 60(2) of the Convention concerning the possibility of an agreement on the fees of the arbitrators) before they appoint him, it is necessary to obtain from each arbitrator formal confirmation that he accepts his appointment. Only after the arbitrator has thus signified his acceptance can he be considered as effectively appointed. Because of this, paragraph (2) requires the Secretary-General to seek an "acceptance" from each appointee.

C. If a person appointed fails to accept, the authority that made the original appointment should be given the opportunity of selecting another arbitrator. Accordingly, under paragraph (3) the Secretary-General must promptly notify the parties (and possibly the Chairman) of such an event; in addition, in view of the short time limit specified in Article 38 of the Convention, this paragraph establishes a presumption that a person who does not respond at all within 15 days (a time limit which the parties can of course agree to extend) to the Secretary-General's inquiry, is unwilling to accept the appointment. In order to assure speed, no particular form is specified for the acceptance. It thus may be given orally, by telephone or cable—in any way satisfactory to the Secretary-General; Rule 6(2) provides for the later signature of a formal declaration.

D. While in general the party or other authority that made the original appointment is given an opportunity of making a new one if the first appointee fails to accept, if in the meantime the time limit established in accordance with Article 38 of the Convention has elapsed, either party can instead require the Chairman to make the new appointment in order to complete the constitution of the Tribunal.

Rule 6
Constitution of the Tribunal

(1) The Tribunal shall be deemed to be constituted and the proceeding to have begun on the date the Secretary-General notifies the parties that all the arbitrators have accepted their appointment.

(2) Before or at the first session of the Tribunal, each arbitrator shall sign a declaration in the following form:

"To the best of my knowledge there is no reason why I should not serve on the Arbitral Tribunal constituted by the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes with respect to a dispute between
and

"I shall judge fairly as between the parties, according to the applicable law, and shall not accept any instruction or compensation with regard to the proceeding from any source except as provided in the Convention on the Settlement of Investment Disputes and in the Regulations and Rules made pursuant thereto."

Any arbitrator failing to sign such a declaration by the end of the first session of the Tribunal shall be deemed to have resigned.

NOTES

A. It is useful to specify unambiguously the time when a Tribunal is deemed to be constituted, and this is accomplished by paragraph (1). Since the date is one on which the Secretary-General dispatches a notification to the parties (a date which he must mark on the notification—see Administrative and Financial Regulation 29(1)), there can be no doubt about it.

B. It is also useful to specify unambiguously when the proceeding is deemed to have begun. Since Article 56(1) of the Convention appears to relate that date closely with that of the constitution of the Tribunal, paragraph (1) combines these two dates. Thus it is clear that it is from that time on that the composition of a Tribunal must remain unchanged (see Rule 7).

C. Since each arbitrator is given only 15 days to accept his appointment (Rule 5(3)), he may not be able to do so in a formal writing. However, paragraph (2) of this Rule requires each arbitrator to file, early in the proceeding, a declaration attesting his impartiality and his willingness to be bound by certain basic and essential obligations.

D. If an arbitrator fails to file the requested declaration in due time, he shall be deemed to have resigned within the meaning of Rule 8(2), and he will have to be replaced as provided in Rule 11.

Replacement of Arbitrators

At any time before the Tribunal is constituted, each party may replace any arbitrator appointed by it and the parties may by common consent agree to replace any arbitrator. The procedure of such replacement shall be in accordance with Rules 1, 5 and 6.

NOTES

A. Since Article 56(1) of the Convention provides that after "a Tribunal has been constituted and proceedings have begun, its composition shall remain unchanged", the present Rule applies only before these specified events. No "replacement" can be permitted afterwards, though the composition of the Tribunal might be changed due to the death, disability, resignation or disqualification of an arbitrator (see Rules 6(2) and 8-11).

B. Rule 6(1) specifies that the Tribunal shall be deemed to be constituted and proceedings to have begun at the time when the Secretary-General notifies the parties of the acceptance by all arbitrators of their appointments. This, then, is the date up to which the parties are free to replace an arbitrator.

C. Since the parties are, except as otherwise specifically provided in the Convention, in complete control of the proceeding, they can by their joint consent replace any arbitrator—whether he was appointed by one of the parties, by both parties, by an outside authority at the request of the parties, or by the Chairman of the Administrative Council acting pursuant to Article 38 of the Convention or otherwise.

Incapacity or Resignation of Arbitrators

(1) An arbitrator who becomes incapacitated shall, as soon as possible, notify thereof the other members of the Tribunal and the Secretary-General.

(2) An arbitrator may resign by submitting his resignation to the other members of the Tribunal and the Secretary-General. If the arbitrator was appointed by one of the parties, the Tribunal shall promptly consider the reasons for his resignation and decide whether it consents thereto. The Tribunal shall promptly notify the Secretary-General of its decision.

NOTES

A. Article 56(1) of the Convention provides that, after the Tribunal has been constituted and proceedings have begun (see Rule 6(1)), the composition of the Tribunal shall remain unchanged. The only exceptions allowed are the filling of vacancies created by death, incapacity, resignation or disqualification.

B. In view of the fact that the work of a Tribunal may be carried out in many different ways—through frequent or infrequent, long or short sessions, or even largely through correspondence—it is not feasible to give a general definition of incapacity. If an arbitrator finds that over an extended period (measured relative to the speed of work of the Tribunal) he is unable to participate, he should either, pursuant to paragraph (1) of this Rule, declare himself incapacitated or, pursuant to paragraph (2), resign.

C. Resignation presupposes, as a rule, an explanation by the resigning arbitrator. While paragraph (2) does not specify any “permissible” grounds for resignation, an arbitrator is expected to do so if, for instance, he may have an interest in the result of the dispute. In fact, in view of the qualities he is required to possess, a candidate is unlikely to accept an appointment as arbitrator where his personal interest is involved and, if he realizes such involvement after the appointment, he may be trusted to resign. The experience of other international arbitral bodies has, in this respect, apparently been reassuring; it therefore seems unnecessary to particularize grounds for resignation.

D. While no person can be prevented from resigning as arbitrator, the Convention in Article 56(3) (and this Rule in paragraph (2)) requires that if such an arbitrator was appointed by one of the parties the Tribunal must decide whether it “consents” to the resignation. If the Tribunal fails to do so, the consequence is not that the arbitrator must continue to serve, but rather that his replacement will be appointed by the Chairman of the Administrative Council and not by the party that had made the original appointment (Rule 11(2)(a)). The intention of this provision is to lessen the possibility of a party inducing an arbitrator appointed by it to resign, so as either to enable his replacement by a more tractable person or merely to delay the proceeding.

E. Notification of an incapacity or the submission of a resignation creates a vacancy on the Tribunal, whose consequences are dealt with in Rules 10-12. It should also be noted that Rule 6(2) provides that the failure of an arbitrator to submit the written declaration provided for therein shall be deemed to constitute a resignation; paragraph (2) of this Rule, as well as Rules 10-12 therefore apply to such a resignation and the consequent vacancy.

Disqualification of Arbitrators

(1) A party proposing the disqualification of an arbitrator pursuant to Article 57 of the Convention shall promptly, and in any event before the proceeding is declared closed, file its proposal with the Secretary-General, stating its reasons therefor.

(2) The Secretary-General shall forthwith:

(a) transmit the proposal to the members of the Tribunal and, if it relates to a sole arbitrator or to a majority of the members of the Tribunal, to the Chairman of the Administrative Council; and

(b) notify the other party of the proposal.

(3) The arbitrator to whom the proposal relates may, without delay, furnish explanations to the Tribunal or the Chairman, as the case may be.

(4) Unless the proposal relates to a majority of the members of the Tribunal, the other members shall promptly consider and vote on the proposal in the absence of the arbitrator concerned. If those members are equally divided, they shall, through the Secretary-General, promptly notify the Chairman of the proposal, of any explanation furnished by the arbitrator concerned and of their failure to reach a decision.

(5) Whenever the Chairman has to decide on a proposal to disqualify an arbitrator, he shall take that decision within 30 days after he has received the proposal.

(6) The proceeding shall be suspended until a decision has been taken on the proposal.

NOTES

A. Under Article 57 of the Convention, a party may propose the disqualification of an arbitrator on account of any fact indicating a manifest lack of the qualities required by Article 14(1) or on the ground that he was ineligible for appointment under Section 2 of Chapter IV (see the restrictions relating to nationality in Articles 38 and 39, and the requirement of listing on the Panel of Arbitrators in Article 40(1)).

B. A proposal to disqualify an arbitrator must be filed promptly, and in any event before the proceeding is declared closed (see Rule 38). Promptness must be measured relative to the time when the proposing party first learns of the grounds for possible disqualification. If it receives this information so late that it can no longer make a proposal before the proceeding is declared closed, its remedy is to request an annulment of the award pursuant to Article 52 of the Convention (Rule 50).

C. In accordance with Article 58 of the Convention, a decision on disqualification is normally taken "by the other members of the Tribunal", and never by the Tribunal itself. Consequently, paragraph (4) of this Rule provides that the decision shall be taken in the absence of the arbitrator concerned (but cf. Rule 8(2)). Article 58 also provides that a decision on disqualification must be made by a simple majority vote of the other members—in case of equal division the decision being referred to the Chairman of the Administrative Council.

D. The Chairman may be called upon to decide whether a proposal for a disqualification is well-founded, if it concerns a sole arbitrator or a majority of the arbitrators, or when the votes of the other arbitrators are equally divided (see Note C). In all these cases he must take his decision within 30 days after he receives the proposal.

E. Paragraph (6) provides that as long as the constitution of the Tribunal is in doubt because of a disqualification proposal, the proceeding must be suspended. If the proposal is rejected, the proceeding can then continue; if it is accepted, a vacancy is automatically created and Rule 10 applies.

Rule 10

Procedure during a Vacancy on the Tribunal

(1) The Secretary-General shall forthwith notify the parties and, if necessary, the Chairman of the Administrative Council of the disqualification, death, incapacity or resignation of an arbitrator and of the consent, if any, of the Tribunal to a resignation.

(2) Upon the notification by the Secretary-General of a vacancy on the Tribunal, the proceeding shall be or remain suspended until the vacancy has been filled.

NOTES

A. A vacancy may be created on the Tribunal by:

- (a) the death of an arbitrator;
- (b) the incapacity of an arbitrator, which he must notify to the other members of the Tribunal and to the Secretary-General (Rule 8(1));
- (c) the resignation of an arbitrator in accordance with Rule 8(2);
- (d) the failure of an arbitrator to sign the required declaration in due time (Rule 6(2));

(e) a positive decision on a proposal to disqualify an arbitrator (Rule 9).

B. The Secretary-General's notification of a vacancy, required by paragraph (1) of this Rule, has a dual effect:

(a) it requires the suspension of the proceeding (paragraph (2) of this Rule)—which can later only be resumed in accordance with Rule 12;

(b) it sets in motion the machinery for filling the vacancy (Rule 11).

C. Even though the normal quorum requirement for sittings of the Tribunal is a mere majority (Rule 14(2)), and decisions are taken by a mere majority of the votes of all the members (Article 48(1) of the Convention and Rule 16(1)), it would be improper to proceed with the arbitration while the membership of the Tribunal is incomplete.

Rule 11

Filling Vacancies on the Tribunal

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2), a vacancy resulting from the disqualification, death, incapacity or resignation of an arbitrator shall be promptly filled by the same method by which his appointment had been made.

(2) In addition to filling vacancies relating to arbitrators appointed by him, the Chairman of the Administrative Council shall appoint a person from the Panel of Arbitrators:

(a) to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation, without the consent of the Tribunal, of an arbitrator appointed by a party; or

(b) at the request of either party, to fill any other vacancy, if no new appointment is made and accepted within 30 days of the notification of the vacancy by the Secretary-General.

(3) The procedure for filling a vacancy shall be in accordance with Rules 1, 4(2), 4(3), 5 and, mutatis mutandis, 6(2)

NOTES

A. This Rule applies whenever there is a vacancy on the Tribunal, for any of the reasons listed in Note A to Rule 10.

B. The general rule is that the new appointment shall be made in the same way as the original one (i.e., the one by which the arbitrator was appointed whose removal from the Tribunal created the vacancy). Thus if the original appointment had been made by one of the parties, that party should (subject to paragraph (2)(a) of this Rule) make the new appointment; if the arbitrator had been appointed jointly, there should be a new joint appointment; if the arbitrator had been appointed by a third party, or by the Chairman pursuant to Article 38 of the Convention, the new appointment should be made in the same way.

C. To guard against undue delay, a 30-day limit is stated in paragraph (2)(b) which operates in a similar manner as the 90-day limit in Article 38 of the Convention. Of course the parties are free to shorten or lengthen this period by their joint agreement. The Chairman himself, if he must make an appointment, has 30 days to do so pursuant to Rule 4(2), which is incorporated into this Rule by paragraph (3) hereto.

D. Paragraph (3) provides that, except as specifically stated otherwise in this Rule, appointments to fill a vacancy must conform in substance and procedure to the Rules relating to original appointments.

Rule 12

Resumption of Proceeding after Filling a Vacancy

As soon as a vacancy on the Tribunal has been filled, the proceeding shall continue from the point it had reached at the time the vacancy occurred. The newly appointed arbitrator may, however, require that the oral procedure be recommenced, if this had already been started.

NOTES

A. This Rule applies whenever a vacancy on the Tribunal has occurred for any of the reasons listed in Note A to Rule 10, and has been filled in accordance with Rule 11.

B. This Rule specifies how the proceeding shall continue once an arbitrator has been replaced. It is obviously undesirable and unnecessary that the entire proceeding start afresh, since the new arbitrator is able to read the written procedure (Rules 29 and 30). On the other hand, he ought to be in the position to require that the oral procedure (Rules 31-34, and perhaps 36) be started again.

CHAPTER II WORKING OF THE TRIBUNAL

Rule 13

Sessions of the Tribunal

(1) The Tribunal shall meet for its first session within 60 days after its constitution or such other period as the parties may agree. The dates of that session shall be fixed by the President of the Tribunal after consultation with its members and the Secretary-General, and with the parties as far as possible. If, upon its constitution, the Tribunal has no President, such dates shall be fixed by the Secretary-General after consultation with the members of the Tribunal, and with the parties as far as possible.

(2) Subsequent sessions shall be convened by the President within time limits determined by the Tribunal. The dates of such sessions shall be fixed by the President of the Tribunal after consultation with its members and the Secretary-General, and with the parties as far as possible.

(3) The Tribunal shall meet at the seat of the Centre or at such other place as may have been agreed by the parties in accordance with Article 63 of the Convention. If the parties agree that the proceeding shall be held at a place other than the Centre or an institution with which the Centre has made the necessary arrangements, they shall consult with the Secretary-General and request the approval of the Tribunal. Failing such approval, the Tribunal shall meet at the seat of the Centre.

(4) The Secretary-General shall notify the members of the Tribunal and the parties of the dates and place of the sessions of the Tribunal in good time.

NOTES

A. As used in these Rules, a "session" of the Tribunal refers to one or more "sittings" (see Rule 14) which are held without any extensive pauses and usually in the same place.

B. Paragraph (1) provides that the first session should, in principle, commence within 60 days after the constitution of the Tribunal (Rule 6(1)). This limit is provided in conformity with the general principle of non-frustration of proceedings underlying the Convention (see Report, paragraph 35) and of the avoidance of undue delays. As a rule, it should enable the President of the Tribunal to undertake meanwhile the preliminary consultation regarding the procedural framework for the proceeding (see Rule 20). However, should the preparation of the case require extension of the 60-day period or the parties wish to reduce it, this limit may be altered by agreement between them. Such a different period may indeed be already stated in the request, in accordance with Institution Rule 3.

C. Time limits for subsequent sessions are determined by the Tribunal which, once the proceeding has begun, is the best judge of the prospects for its progress. Of course, where appropriate, the Tribunal may dispose of the case in a single session, continuing de die in diem until concluded.

D. Within these time limits the power to fix the actual dates of each session rests with the President of the Tribunal (see paragraphs (1) and (2)), as does the power to fix the date and hour of sittings (Rule 14(3)). He should, however, consult its other members and—in view of the physical arrangements involved—the Secretary-General. He should also, in order to suit the convenience of the parties, consult them “as far as possible” before fixing the dates. If one of the parties fails to cooperate and does not appear or present its case, Article 45 of the Convention and Rule 42 apply.

E. If the parties agreed that the President of the Tribunal be elected by its members, the Tribunal will have no President upon its constitution. In such cases the dates of the first session must be fixed by the Secretary-General.

F Paragraph (3) concerns the place at which the Tribunal shall meet. This place may be, under Articles 62 and 63 of the Convention:

- (a) the seat of the Centre (defined in Article 2 of the Convention);
- (b) the seat of any institution with which the Centre has made the necessary arrangements (Article 63(a) of the Convention singles out the Permanent Court of Arbitration as an example of such an institution); or
- (c) any other place agreed by the parties (in which case Article 63(b) of the Convention requires them to obtain the approval of the Tribunal, and also to consult with the Secretary-General—who is charged by Administrative and Financial Regulation 26(1) with making or supervising the necessary arrangements).

In addition, Rule 36 provides for special visits and local inquiries by the Tribunal, pursuant to Article 43(b) of the Convention.

G. The phrase “in good time” in paragraph (4) must be construed in relation to the geographical location of the parties and their means of communication, and also to the time limits provided for the session. In the course of the preliminary consultation (see Rule 20) the parties may agree what the period of notice should be.

Rule 14

Sittings of the Tribunal

- (1) The President of the Tribunal shall conduct its hearings and preside at its deliberations.
- (2) Except as the parties otherwise agree, the presence of a majority of the members of the Tribunal shall be required at its sittings.
- (3) The President of the Tribunal shall fix the date and hour of its sittings.

NOTES

A. This Rule deals with the powers of the President of the Tribunal in relation to its “sittings” and the quorum required for their validity. The “sittings”, which are part of a “session” (see Rule 13 and Note A thereto), consist either of “hearings” (see Rule 31) or of “deliberations” (see Rule 15).

B. If a Tribunal is constituted in accordance with Article 37(2)(b) of the Convention, the “third” arbitrator acts as its President. If formed otherwise, the presidency is determined by the terms agreed by the parties for its constitution (see also Note E to Rule 4). They themselves may decide who shall be President, or they may leave the decision to the members of the Tribunal after it has been constituted. Thus it may happen that the Tribunal will have no President upon its constitution and this possibility is foreseen in Rule 13(1); in addition Rule 17 makes provision for the contingency that the President may be unable to act.

C. Paragraph (2) provides that ordinarily only a simple majority of the Tribunal is required at its sittings. This Rule is designed to avoid the rigid requirement of the unremitting attendance of all members of the Tribunal on all occasions, and also makes it more difficult for a minority of the arbitrators to delay or frustrate the proceeding through their deliberate absence. However, the parties may agree to change this Rule if they so desire—but keeping in mind that Article 48(1) of the Convention provides that the decisions of the Tribunal shall be taken by a majority of the votes of all its members (see also Rule 16(1) and Notes A and B thereto).

Rule 15
Deliberations of the Tribunal

(1) The deliberations of the Tribunal shall take place in private and remain secret.

(2) Only members of the Tribunal shall take part in its deliberations. No other person shall be admitted unless the Tribunal decides otherwise.

NOTES

A. Paragraph (1) is designed to assure the independence of the arbitrators, by allowing them not to make public—directly or indirectly—what their individual arguments in the course of the deliberations were, and how they voted. This strengthens the collective character of the Tribunal.

B. Paragraph (2) restricts attendance at the deliberations of the Tribunal. The Rule is flexible: it permits but does not require the Tribunal to request the attendance at its deliberations of the Secretary-General (or of the Secretary appointed by him for the proceeding pursuant to Administrative and Financial Regulation 25). The Secretary-General may assist in the efficient development of the proceeding but, of course, will not take part in the deliberations.

C. In addition, the Tribunal may decide to admit other persons—which it might do if it requires interpreters, translators or secretarial staff.

Rule 16
Decisions of the Tribunal

(1) Decisions of the Tribunal shall be taken by a majority of the votes of all its members. Abstention shall count as a negative vote.

(2) Except as otherwise provided by these Rules or decided by the Tribunal, it may take any decision by correspondence among its members, provided that all of them are consulted. Decisions so taken shall be certified by the President of the Tribunal.

NOTES

A. The first sentence of paragraph (1) paraphrases Article 48(1) of the Convention, which is evidently intended to apply to all decisions of the Tribunal—whether they relate to the adoption of the award or to procedural orders. (The French version of Article 48(1) speaks of “toute question”, the Spanish version of “todas las cuestiones” )

B. The second sentence of paragraph (1) merely elucidates the phrase “majority of the votes of all its members”, by providing that abstention shall be deemed a negative vote. This Rule does not require that all the arbitrators be present when each decision is taken; this depends on the quorum requirements agreed by the parties (see Rule 14(2) and Note C thereto); however, by the same reasoning on which the first sentence is based, absentees and other non-participants are counted as casting, in effect, negative votes. It should also be recalled that the award need only be signed by those members of the Tribunal "who voted for it" (Article 48(2) of the Convention and Rule 47(2)).

C. Paragraph (2) provides a convenient mechanism for the Tribunal to make decisions, without the expense and loss of time of a meeting. The Rule is not restricted to particular types of decisions, though it is expected that it will probably be used more frequently for procedural than for substantive matters. Of course, this Rule, too, can be altered by agreement of the parties or by a majority of the Tribunal. It should also be noted that this paragraph does not change the voting rule stated in paragraph (1), which (as indicated in Note B), is in any case independent of the number of members of the Tribunal actually participating in a decision.

Rule 17

Incapacity of the President

If at any time the President of the Tribunal should be unable to act, his functions shall be performed by one of the other members of the Tribunal, acting in the order in which the Secretary-General had received the notice of their acceptance of their appointment to the Tribunal.

NOTES

A. These Rules assign a number of functions to the President of the Tribunal, some of which he is to perform at sittings of that body (see, e.g., Rules 14(1) and 34(1)), while others will usually be performed outside of a meeting (see, e.g., Rules 13(1) and (2), 20(1), 25(1) and (2) and 49(4)). Since the Rules do not require all members of the Tribunal to be present to constitute a quorum (Rule 14(2)), it is in the former situation desirable to provide for the possibility of some other member of the Tribunal substituting for the President; this may also be necessary whenever the resignation or disqualification of the President is being considered pursuant to Rules 8(2) or 9(4). The same is also true with respect to the actions to be taken outside of a meeting, in which connection it will be recalled (see Rule 16(1)) that decisions can be taken by a mere majority and thus do not require the participation of the President. In the absence of a provision providing for such substitution, a proceeding might have to be halted completely during a disability of the President.

B. This Rule generally applies only to the incapacity of an existing President, and not in the event of a vacancy in that office. If the vacancy exists because no President has yet been elected, the final sentence of Rule 13(1) covers the principal lacuna (but see Note C to Rule 20), except that this Rule should be applied at the initial sitting(s) until the election is accomplished. Since under other circumstances a vacancy in this office can only arise if the arbitrator who served as President is somehow removed from the Tribunal (by any of the methods listed in Note A to Rule 10), no provision for a substitution of functions need be made since in that event the proceeding must be suspended pursuant to Rule 10(2).

C. The parties may of course agree to a different order of succession than that provided for in this Rule.

Rule 18

Representation of the Parties

(1) Each party may be represented or assisted by agents, counsel or advocates whose names and authority shall be notified by that party to the Secretary-General, who shall promptly inform the Tribunal and the other party.

(2) For the purposes of these Rules, the expression "party" includes, where the context so admits, an agent, counsel or advocate authorized to represent that party.

NOTES

A. In disputes between States, the parties are represented before international tribunals by "agents", usually "assisted" by "counsel". The general management and control of the case is in the hands of the agent who acts as intermediary between the party and the Tribunal and is the official and full representative of the government. In some standing intergovernmental tribunals open to individuals, the latter must be represented by "counsel" and States by "agents". On the other hand, some international arbitral or administrative tribunals permit individuals and, in certain cases, even States or intergovernmental organizations to appear "in person". Accordingly, Rule 18 permits, but does not require, representation by "agents" or "counsel" or "advocates" (cf. Article 22 of the Convention). This will probably result in States being represented by agents, though it is not unthinkable that an "agency" of a Contracting State (cf. Article 25(1) of the Convention) might appear "in person" through one of its officers rather than through an outside "agent" (e.g., a diplomatic or economic representative of the government).

B. It is not mandatory that a party select a lawyer to act on its behalf, though self-interest should ensure that the parties will select representatives of acknowledged competence in the law. The terms "agent", "counsel" and "advocate" do not imply any specific legal or other qualifications and cover attorneys, avocats, barristers, solicitors, teachers of law, and other persons with appropriate legal or administrative training and experience. Hence, no party can object to a lack of professional qualifications of the opponent's representative.

C. It is not intended—as in disputes between States—to draw a distinction between the authority of an "agent" on the one hand and that of a "counsel" or "advocate" on the other. The party concerned must render it clear by the terms of its designation whether it is "represented" or solely "assisted" by an agent, counsel or advocate and what the scope of the authority of each such person is. Similarly, if a party desires that all communications and notices in connection with the proceeding be sent to a particular person, it must so inform the Secretary-General (see Institution Rule 7(b) and Note C thereto).

GENERAL PROCEDURAL PROVISIONS

Procedural Orders

The Tribunal shall make the orders required for the conduct of the proceeding.

NOTES

A. While the parties, acting in concert, may exercise a large measure of control over the conduct of the proceeding (see Introductory Note D), it is still necessary that the Tribunal itself make the specific orders for the conduct of the proceeding, whether these be based on the Convention, on the agreement of the parties, on these Rules, or, failing any of these sources, on a decision of the Tribunal itself (see Article 44 of the Convention and Introductory Note E).

B. Rule 20 indicates the method by which the agreement and the individual views of the parties with respect to procedural points are to be ascertained by the Tribunal. Of course, the parties can communicate any agreement they may have reached on procedural points at the very earliest stage of the proceeding (see Institution Rule 3).

C. The Tribunal's procedural orders are made by a majority of the votes of all its members (cf. Articles 44 and 48(1) of the Convention, and see Rule 16(1) and Note A thereto).

Rule 20

Preliminary Procedural Consultation

(1) As early as possible after the constitution of a Tribunal, its President shall endeavor to ascertain the views of the parties regarding questions of procedure. For this purpose he may request the parties to meet him. He shall, in particular, seek their views on the following matters:

- (a) the number of members of the Tribunal required to constitute a quorum at its sittings;
- (b) the language or languages to be used in the proceeding;
- (c) the number and sequence of the pleadings and the time limits within which they are to be filed;
- (d) the number of copies desired by each party of instruments filed by the other;
- (e) dispensing with the written or the oral procedure; and
- (f) the manner in which the cost of the proceeding is to be apportioned.

(2) In the conduct of the proceeding the Tribunal shall apply any agreement between the parties on procedural matters, except as otherwise provided in the Convention or the Administrative and Financial Regulations.

NOTES

A. This Rule is designed to enable the Tribunal—particularly by means of preliminary consultations by its President—to create, in cooperation with the parties, a concrete procedural framework within which it can issue the requisite orders under Rule 19. Since the Convention allows the parties extensive powers to settle procedural questions by agreement (see especially Article 44 and Introductory Note D), the Tribunal should spare no effort to seek cooperation with the parties, as well as between the parties, lest the arbitration be hindered by extensive procedural arguments. It may, for example, adopt the practice of the President of the International Court of Justice in discussing procedural points with the parties from time to time, in a kind of informal pre-trial conference.

B. In making its orders, the Tribunal should be guided, in the first place, by information furnished by the parties from the beginning (see Institution Rule 3) or as a result of the preliminary inquiry by its President (paragraph (1) of this Rule). However, in addition, the Tribunal must throughout the proceeding, as and when procedural issues arise, explore the views of the parties and—subject to the provisions of the Convention—seek to give effect to any agreement between the parties. Thus, this principle—an emanation of the consensual character of all proceedings under the Convention (cf. Report, paragraph 39)—applies not only to the matters listed in paragraph (1), but also to the arrangements for the taking of evidence, to the admissibility of counterclaims, to any provisional measures, and to the place of the proceeding (see Articles 43, 46, 47 and 63 of the Convention), etc. Indeed it is of wider application and may also cover such substantive issues as the determination of the law that the Tribunal is to apply and its power to decide the dispute ex aequo et bono (see Article 42 of the Convention).

C. The preliminary inquiry by the President should be carried out as early as possible after the constitution of the Tribunal (see Rule 6(1)). If, upon its constitution, the Tribunal has no President, he must undertake it upon his designation or election (see Note B to Rule 17). The President determines the mode of the inquiry. He may call on the parties to express their views in writing and/or ask them or their representatives to meet him for this purpose.

D. The items listed in paragraph (1) are covered more specifically by the following Rules:

- (a) Quorum requirement—Rule 14(2);
- (b) Procedural languages—Rule 21,
- (c) Pleadings—Rule 30;

- (d) Numbers of copies of instruments to be filed—Rule 22;
- (e) Written and oral procedure—Rule 28;
- (f) Apportionment of costs—Rule 27 (see Article 61(2) of the Convention).

Procedural Languages

(1) The parties may agree on the use of one or two languages to be used in the proceeding, provided that, if they agree on any language that is not an official language of the Centre, the Tribunal, after consultation with the Secretary-General, gives its approval. If the parties do not agree on any such procedural language, each of them may select one of the official languages for this purpose.

(2) If the parties agree on one procedural language, or both parties select the same, that language shall be used for all instruments, at the hearings and for the minutes, as well as for the orders and the award of the Tribunal.

(3) If the parties agree on two procedural languages, or each party selects a different one, any instrument may be filed in either such language. Statements made before the Tribunal or by one of its members in one procedural language shall, unless the Tribunal decides to dispense therewith, be interpreted into the other procedural language. The orders and the award of the Tribunal shall be rendered and the minutes kept in both procedural languages, both versions being equally authentic.

(4) Notwithstanding paragraphs (2) and (3), the Tribunal may authorize the use of a language other than a procedural language for a specified part of the proceeding. In such event it shall determine to what extent translation and interpretation into and from the procedural languages is required.

(5) If a party uses a language other than an official language of the Centre, it shall be wholly responsible for the arrangements for and the special expenses incurred by any translation and interpretation into and from that language.

NOTES

A. This Rule deals with the language regime for the settlement of a specific dispute (as to the language of the request for arbitration, see, however, Institution Rule 1(1)). The official languages of the Centre are specified in Administrative and Financial Regulation 34(1), and the availability of its translation and interpretation facilities is dealt with in Regulation 27.

B. In conformity with the consensual character of all proceedings under the Convention, paragraph (1) leaves the linguistic regime of the proceeding to the determination of the parties. It may be expected that they will be guided by considerations of expediency and economy of time and cost, taking into account the linguistic attainments of all participants in the proceeding (including the members of the Tribunal), the documentary material, the facilities of the Centre as well as their own resources. The President of the Tribunal will explore the extent of their agreement in the course of the preliminary consultation undertaken in accordance with Rule 20(1)(b).

C. Whether one or two procedural languages are agreed to by the parties or selected by them separately, paragraphs (2)-(4) generally allow the Tribunal considerable discretion. Thus, even where there are two procedural languages, the Tribunal may, under paragraph (3), dispense with interpretation at hearings. And, more importantly, it may authorize, under paragraph (4), the use of any language for a specified part of the proceeding; the Tribunal might find this power useful where one language can be adequately used as the procedural language provided the use of another language is admitted for a limited part of the proceeding. The Tribunal can also avail itself of this power if any party, witness or expert declares that he is unable to depose in any of the procedural languages.

D. By Administrative and Financial Regulation 27(1) the Centre undertakes to furnish any necessary interpretation and translation from one official language of the Centre into another. While under Regulation 27(2) the Centre may also provide, if feasible, such services in relation to other languages, the Centre is not bound to do so. It is for this reason that paragraph (5) of the present Rule emphasizes the primary responsibility of the party using a nonofficial language both to make the arrangements for and to cover the expenses incurred in using such a language—whether it does so pursuant to paragraph (1) (in which case presumably both parties would share the burden of these arrangements), or with the ad hoc approval of the Tribunal pursuant to paragraph (4).

E. The language requirements relating to “supporting documentation” (Rule 23) are set forth in Administrative and Financial Regulation 30(3).

Rule 22

Copies of Instruments

Except as otherwise provided by the Tribunal after consultation with the parties and the Secretary-General, every request, pleading, application, written observation or other instrument shall be filed in the form of a signed original accompanied by the following number of additional copies:

- (a) before the number of members of the Tribunal has been determined: five;
- (b) after the number of members of the Tribunal has been determined: two more than the number of its members.

NOTES

A. While this Rule does not apply to the original request for arbitration (which, however, is governed to the same effect by Institution Rule 4(1)), it applies to every other instrument filed in the proceeding, including those introduced in applying for a supplementary decision on or for the rectification, interpretation, revision or annulment of an award (see Rules 49-51). The number of copies of supporting documents is regulated by Rule 23 and through it by Administrative and Financial Regulation 30(2), so as to be generally equal to the number of required copies of the instrument to which the documentation relates.

B. Pursuant to Administrative and Financial Regulation 28(1)(a), the original of every instrument filed in a proceeding is to be deposited in the archives of the Centre for permanent retention.

C. The consultations on the basis of which the Tribunal may make decisions under this Rule should be started by the President pursuant to Rule 20(1)(d).

Supporting Documentation

(1) Every request, pleading, application, written observation or other instrument filed by a party may be accompanied by supporting documentation, in such form and number of copies as required by Administrative and Financial Regulation 30.

(2) Supporting documentation shall ordinarily be filed together with the instrument to which it relates, and in any case within the time limit fixed for the filing of such instrument.

NOTES

A. These Rules distinguish between “instruments” (e.g., requests, pleadings, applications, written observations, etc.) by which a party expresses or argues its various claims, motions and positions, and “supporting documentation” which consists of written (including pictorial) evidentiary material introduced in support of an instrument. In principle, therefore, documentation should never be introduced without relating it to a particular instrument (and consequently paragraph (2) of this Rule indicates that preferably it should be filed together with such instrument).

B. Administrative and Financial Regulation 30, to which reference is made in this Rule, establishes requirements for the form of original documentation (including the possibility of substituting certified copies or extracts), for the number of copies to be filed, and for the languages to be used.

C. If any document is filed after the expiration of the time limit indicated in paragraph (2), it will ordinarily be disregarded unless the Tribunal, pursuant to Rule 25(3), decides otherwise.

Rule 24

Correction of Errors

An accidental error in any instrument or supporting document may, with the consent of the other party or by leave of the Tribunal, be corrected at any time before the award is rendered.

NOTE

This Rule relates only to “accidental” errors (“erreurs materielles”), i.e., to slips, misprints, misnomers, wrong dates or amounts resulting from a clerical error or obvious miscalculation. In a sense, it is complemented by the rule under which it is the Secretary-General’s duty to bring to the notice of the party filing an instrument or document, any failure to conform to the applicable requirements (Administrative and Financial Regulation 24(2)).

Rule 25

Time Limits

(1) Where required, time limits shall be fixed by the Tribunal by assigning dates for the completion of the various steps in the proceeding. The Tribunal may delegate this power to its President.

(2) The Tribunal may extend any time limit that it has fixed. If the Tribunal is not in session, this power shall be exercised by its President.

(3) Any step taken after expiration of the applicable time limit shall be disregarded unless the Tribunal, in special circumstances and after giving the other party an opportunity of stating its views, decides otherwise.

NOTES

A. Paragraph (1) confers on the Tribunal the power to fix time limits “where required”—that is to say where they are not provided by the Convention or these Rules. Such time limits will be contained in orders made by the Tribunal (Rule 19), which will primarily be guided by any agreement between the parties (see Rule 20(2)).

B. Though delay is a risk of international proceedings, it seems advisable to provide the Tribunal with the power to extend time limits fixed by it. Extension may be applied for ex parte. It can be assumed that it will certainly be granted if both parties concur. See also Rule 42(2)(a) for the requirement to grant a period of grace in case of a default.

C. Since decisions relating to time limits must frequently be made while a Tribunal is not in session, paragraph (1) provides that the Tribunal may delegate to its President the power to fix such limits, and paragraph (2) provides, in effect, for an automatic delegation of the power to extend such time limits. In either case, if the President is unwilling to act without the consent of his colleagues (or if these or the parties do not wish to entrust him with this authority), a decision by correspondence (Rule 16(2)) can be taken.

D. Paragraph (3) provides the sanction for failure by a party to comply with a time limit. However, to prevent injustices the rule is not inflexible and the Tribunal is given power to make exceptions. If it does so, it must, however, make certain that the other party is not injured thereby—i.e., if it permits one party to introduce an instrument or document at a late stage in the proceeding, it must permit the other party to file its observations thereon within reasonable time limits.

E. The calculation of time limits is specified in Administrative and Financial Regulation 29

Waiver

A party which knows or should have known that a provision of the Administrative and Financial Regulations, of these Rules, of any other rules or agreement applicable to the proceeding, or of an order of the Tribunal has not been complied with and which fails to state promptly its objections thereto, shall be deemed—subject to Article 45 of the Convention—to have waived its right to object.

NOTES

A. This Rule expresses a principle applied in the civil procedure of many countries, and should prove useful in arbitration proceedings instituted under the Convention. Its application is, of course, limited by restrictions contained in the latter, such as by the provision relating to default (Article 45 of the Convention; see Rule 42).

B. It is not practicable to state a time limit within which objections must be filed, for this depends both on the nature of the procedural violation and on the pace of the proceeding. Thus, while a Tribunal is meeting in daily sittings, an objection to the delayed introduction of a document might have to be taken immediately if it is to be effective, but between sessions an objection might reasonably be filed with a certain delay.

Cost of Proceeding

(1) Without prejudice to the final decision on the payment of the cost of the proceeding, the Tribunal may, unless otherwise agreed by the parties, decide:

- (a) at any stage of the proceeding, the portion which each party shall pay, pursuant to Administrative and Financial Regulation 13, of the fees and expenses of the Tribunal and the charges for the use of the facilities of the Centre;
- (b) with respect to any part of the proceeding, that the related costs (as determined by the Secretary-General) shall be borne entirely or in a particular share by one of the parties.

(2) Promptly after the closure of the proceeding, each party shall submit to the Tribunal a statement of costs reasonably incurred or borne by it in the proceeding and the Secretary-General shall submit to the Tribunal an account of all amounts paid by each party to the Centre and of all costs incurred by the Centre for the proceeding. The Tribunal may, before the award has been rendered, request the parties and the Secretary-General to provide additional information concerning the cost of the proceeding.

NOTES

A. Administrative and Financial Regulations 13(3)(d) provides that in the absence of a decision by the parties or the Tribunal, the current payments to be made to the Centre (to enable it to make certain payments pursuant to Regulation 13(2) and for the use of its services and facilities in connection with the proceeding) are to be divided equally between the parties. Paragraph (1) of this Rule is designed to authorize the Tribunal to provide for some other division, if it considers it appropriate and unless the parties have agreed otherwise.

B. In particular, under paragraph (1)(b), the Tribunal may decide to charge one party (always without prejudice to the ultimate disposition, pursuant to Article 61(2) of the Convention, of the cost of the proceeding) with all or a major share of the cost of a particular part of the proceeding. For example, if one party, pursuant to Article 43(b) of the Convention, desires to have the Tribunal visit a place connected with the dispute, the Tribunal may decide to do so at the cost of that party.

C. Paragraph (2) is designed to assist the Tribunal in securing the information which it needs in order to formulate (pursuant to Article 61(2) of the Convention), that part of its award which specifies the definitive division of the cost of the proceeding between the parties. Part of the costs referred to in that paragraph are the expenses referred to in Rule 33(4).

D. If the proceeding is discontinued at the request of or due to the neglect of the parties (see Rule 43(1), 44 or 45), no award is made and the parties must settle between themselves the division of the costs previously incurred or paid by them. If the proceeding is terminated by a decision of the Tribunal that it lacks jurisdiction, such a decision must be embodied in an award (see Rule 41(5)) to which Article 61(2) of the Convention and paragraph (2) of this Rule apply; the same is true if an agreed settlement is embodied in an award (Rule 43(2)).

CHAPTER IV WRITTEN AND ORAL PROCEDURES

Rule 28 Normal Procedures

Except if the parties otherwise agree, the proceeding shall comprise two distinct phases: a written procedure followed by an oral one.

NOTES

A. In conformity with the rules of most international tribunals, Rules 28 et seq. divide the principal part of the proceeding into two distinct phases: the written procedure (i.e., the request for arbitration and the pleadings) and the oral procedure (i.e., the hearings). On the other hand, in keeping with the general flexibility of the arbitral process under the Convention and its consensual character (cf. Report, paragraph 39), the parties are free to determine what use they will make of those two phases and in what order they should follow each other. Thus, for instance, if a joint request concerns merely the interpretation of a legal provision, they might agree to dispense with the pleadings. This is less likely to happen when the request is unilateral. However, the parties may agree—at the outset of the proceeding or subsequently after the pleadings have clarified the issues—to dispense with the hearings, with the ensuing economy of time and cost.

B. This Rule, though primarily relevant to the principal proceeding on the dispute itself, in effect also applies appropriately to subsidiary parts of the proceeding, such as to a re-opened proceeding (see Rule 38(2) and Note A thereto), to several of the “particular procedures” (e.g., Objections to Jurisdiction—Article 41 of the Convention and Rule 41, Ancillary Claims—Article 46 and Rule 40; Provisional Measures—Article 47 and Rule 39) and to the post-award remedies (Articles 49(2) and 50-52, and Rules 49-55).

---

Rule 29

Transmission of the Request

As soon as the Tribunal is constituted, the Secretary-General shall transmit to each member a copy of the request by which the proceeding was initiated, of the supporting documentation, of the notice of registration and of any communication received from either party in response thereto.

NOTES

A. The request by which the arbitration was instituted also forms part of the written procedure in the dispute and consequently should be transmitted to the Tribunal as soon as the latter is constituted (as to that time, see Rule 6(1)).

B. The request and the supporting documentation may be needed by the Tribunal if it must make any decision on the Centre’s jurisdiction or its own competence, pursuant to Article 41 of the Convention (Rule 41). In addition, the request may contain other procedural or substantive provisions agreed by the parties concerning the settlement of their dispute (see Institution Rule 3). It may therefore be of importance to the Tribunal in formulating its orders for the conduct of the proceeding (see Rules 19 and 20(2)).

Rule 30

The Written Procedure

(1) In addition to the request for arbitration, the written procedure shall consist of the following pleadings, filed within time limits set by the Tribunal:

- (a) a memorial by the requesting party;
- (b) a counter-memorial by the other party;

and, if the parties so agree or the Tribunal deems it necessary:

- (c) a reply by the requesting party; and
- (d) a rejoinder by the other party

(2) If the request was made jointly, each party shall, within the same time limit determined by the Tribunal, file its memorial and, if the parties so agree or the Tribunal deems it necessary, its reply; however, the parties may instead agree that one of them shall, for the purposes of paragraph (1), be considered as the requesting party.

(3) A memorial shall contain: a statement of the relevant facts; a statement of law; and the submissions. A counter-memorial, reply or rejoinder shall contain an admission or denial of the facts stated in the last previous pleading; any additional facts, if necessary; observations concerning the statement of law in the last previous pleading; a statement of law in answer thereto; and the submissions.

NOTES

A. The written procedure consists of the request for arbitration and the pleadings (though Rule 28 foresees the possibility of dispensing with the latter—see Note A thereto). The requirements relating to the request are set forth in Institution Rules 1-4 and in Rule 29 above. The views of the parties concerning the number and sequence of the pleadings, the number of copies to be filed and the time limits for filing are to be ascertained during the preliminary consultation required by Rule 20(1); in its light, the Tribunal makes the requisite orders pursuant to Rule 19. The formal requirements as to the pleadings are covered by Rules 21(2) and (3), 22 and 23, and the Tribunal's authority to fix time limits by Rule 25.

B. Paragraph (1) normally limits the parties to one "round" of pleadings—i.e., to a memorial and a counter-memorial. Further pleadings are admissible only if, during the preliminary consultation or subsequently, the parties agree or the Tribunal determines that they are necessary.

C. As regards the order of pleadings, paragraph (2) distinguishes between proceedings pursuant to a unilateral request and those where a request is made jointly by the parties (see Institution Rule 1(2)). In the former case, the filing is normally consecutive; in the case of a joint request, it may be simultaneous. Procedurally, consecutive pleading has the advantage that the responding party has an opportunity of meeting the case—and only the case—of its opponent, with the ensuing economy in the presentation of its own case; that party need not grope in the dark. Simultaneous pleading involves the risk of needless effort in pleading facts and law—possibly supported by voluminous documentary evidence—that in the event are not contested; moreover, a party may be disinclined to reveal the whole of its case or evidence until it files its second pleading, leading to procrastination. Because of this, consecutive pleading is preferred by the writers, has become the usual method of filing before the International Court of Justice, and is normally adopted in commercial arbitration; however, simultaneous filing is the classical procedure still used before ad hoc tribunals in intergovernmental arbitration. In view of the doubts concerning the efficacy of simultaneous filing, paragraph (2) envisages that the parties to a joint request may agree that one of them should be considered as the "requesting party" and that, consequently, the pleadings should be filed consecutively; if they cannot so agree, the pleadings will have to be filed simultaneously.

D. The time limits for the filing of pleadings are determined by the Tribunal (paragraph (1) and Rule 25 (1)). Normally, the parties will be granted equal time, but if consecutive filing is used the requesting party may be granted less time for its memorial than the other party for its counter-memorial as the former can be presumed to have carefully considered its case before it decided to initiate the proceeding and formulated its request. The pleadings are to be filed with the Secretary-General (see Administrative and Financial Regulation 24(2)).

E. Paragraph (3) lists the elements of the several pleadings. Their scope represents an adaptation of common law practice to the procedure of the civil law. These provisions, tested by international arbitration practice, are designed to prevent procedural arguments concerning the scope of pleadings, even if the parties have differing legal backgrounds. Where, however, the parties share a common experience with an identical or similar system of procedure, they may agree on different contents and functions for the pleadings.

F The parties are not prohibited from publishing their pleadings. They may, however, come to an understanding to refrain from doing so, particularly if they feel that publication may exacerbate the dispute (in this connection, see Article 48(5) of the Convention and Rules 37(2) and 48(4)).

The Oral Procedure

(1) The oral procedure shall consist of the hearing by the Tribunal of the parties, their agents, counsel and advocates, and of witnesses and experts.

(2) The Tribunal shall decide, with the consent of the parties, which other persons besides the parties, their agents, counsel and advocates, witnesses and experts during their testimony, and officers of the Tribunal may attend the hearings.

(3) The members of the Tribunal may, during the hearings, put questions to the parties, their agents, counsel and advocates, and ask them for explanations.

NOTES

A. "Hearings" take place at "sittings" of the Tribunal, which constitute part of a "session" (see Note A to Rule 13 and Note A to Rule 14); they are conducted under the control of the President of the Tribunal (see Rule 14(1)). The parties may appear "in person" or through representatives (see Rule 18). The provisions relating to witnesses and experts are set forth in Rules 34 and 35. The language regime of the hearings is governed by Rule 21. Finally, the oral procedure may be dispensed with entirely (see Rule 28).

B. The hearings permit the oral development of the arguments of the parties. Normally an opening statement by or on behalf of the requesting party is followed by a statement by or on behalf of the other party, followed, again, by a reply and a rejoinder. Just as the pleadings (see Rule 30(3)), these statements may be concluded by submissions (which should afterwards be deposited in writing). If oral evidence is submitted by a party, this may follow its first statement and be followed by an examination of its witnesses. The Tribunal may, however, decide on a different sequence—particularly if it has itself called for certain evidence (see Article 43 of the Convention or Rule 33(2)). It will be guided by the principle that full and equal opportunity should be afforded to both parties and by any agreement between them (see Rule 20(2)). To preserve flexibility and adequate discretion for the Tribunal, these Rules contain no specific guidance on this point. Should the arrangement of the hearings present complex or controversial problems, these may be discussed by the President of the Tribunal with the parties in the preliminary consultation (Rule 20(1)).

C. It seems to follow from Article 48(5) of the Convention that, as a matter of principle, arbitration proceedings should not be public and paragraph (2) of this Rule is formulated accordingly. As to the right of the Secretary appointed for the proceeding to be present, see Administrative and Financial Regulation 25(c). The Tribunal may require any expert or witness to absent himself from the hearing when not giving testimony.

D. Under paragraph (3) each member of the Tribunal has the right to put questions. He need not make his intention known to the President beforehand. On the other hand, since the hearings are under the control of the President (Rule 14(1)), the latter will, when several questions are put, determine the order in which these should be answered. He will also rule whether, at the request of a party, it may answer a question at a later date. As to the examination of witnesses and experts, see Rule 34(1).

Marshalling of Evidence

Without prejudice to the rules concerning the production of documents, each party shall, within time limits fixed by the Tribunal, communicate to the Secretary-General, for transmission to the Tribunal and the other party, precise information regarding the evidence which it intends to produce and that which it intends to request the Tribunal to call for, together with an indication of the points to which such evidence will be directed.

NOTE

The purpose of this Rule is principally to prevent surprise to the opposing party, but also to facilitate the task of the Tribunal in arranging the proper conduct of the hearings. The Rule relates both to the evidence of witnesses and experts (see Rules 34 and 35) and also to any visits and local inquiries (see Rules 33(2)(b) and 36). "Precise" information on the evidence should include the names, addresses, etc. of witnesses and experts. The "indication of the points to which such evidence will be directed" should assist the Tribunal and the other party in forming a preliminary view as to its admissibility and relevance (see Rule 33(1)); these issues may, of course, be argued at the hearings.

Evidence: General Principles

- (1) The Tribunal shall be the judge of the admissibility of any evidence adduced and of its probative value.
- (2) The Tribunal may, if it deems it necessary at any stage of the proceeding:
  - (a) call upon the parties to produce documents, witnesses and experts; and
  - (b) visit any place connected with the dispute or conduct inquiries there.
- (3) The parties shall cooperate with the Tribunal in the production of the evidence and in the other measures provided for in paragraph (2) The Tribunal shall take formal note of the failure of a party to comply with its obligations under this paragraph and of any reasons given for such failure.
- (4) Expenses incurred in producing evidence and in taking other measures in accordance with paragraph (2) shall be deemed to constitute part of the expenses incurred by the parties within the meaning of Article 61(2) of the Convention.

NOTES

A. Paragraph (1) of this Rule reflects long-standing international practice. It confers on the Tribunal the power to determine the admissibility, relevance and materiality of evidence. Hence the Tribunal has full power to decide whether particular evidence (e.g., documents, interrogatories, written depositions, oral evidence by witnesses and experts given before the Tribunal or before a commissioner) should be admitted. It is also unfettered, subject to the principle of the equality of the parties, in its discretion in determining the relevance and in evaluating the materiality of any such evidence, i.e., in assessing its "probative value" Thus it can appraise its "weight" according to the balance of probabilities. Moreover, the Tribunal is not bound to base its findings on evidence alone: It may take judicial notice of certain facts.

B. Paragraph (2) paraphrases Article 43 of the Convention. It applies, as do most other provisions of these Rules (see Introductory Note D), "except as the parties otherwise agree" (see Article 43 of the Convention). The general power of an international tribunal to call on the parties to produce documents, supply explanations, call upon experts, and require the appearance of witnesses is found in many international instruments. Therefore the expression "other evidence" in the Convention can be interpreted to include not only witnesses but also independent experts, including experts on national law who (in view of Article 42(1) of the Convention) may be of special importance.

C. In accordance with paragraph (2), the Tribunal may call for specific evidence or order the measures envisaged in sub-paragraph (b) "at any stage of the proceeding" Thus it can order the production of a document even after it has closed the written procedure. It may be presumed that, in general, it will determine what additional documentary evidence it requires and make an order accordingly even before the oral procedure begins. This may be discussed by the President with the parties during the preliminary consultation (Rule 20(1)), or in connection with the communications anticipating the evidence (Rule 32).

D. The first sentence of paragraph (3) embodies a principle which has received general recognition. This duty to cooperate with the Tribunal can be deduced from the mutual consent of the parties to submit their dispute to arbitration. Indeed, the Tribunal, which has no powers to compel the production of evidence, may find it difficult to discharge its task without the full cooperation of the parties in this matter. The second sentence of the paragraph requires the Tribunal to take "formal note" of any failure by a party to comply with its obligations. But since a party may not be in a position to produce the evidence required (for want of powers of compulsion or because the evidence may be located outside its jurisdiction), the Tribunal must also note any reasons given for such failure.

E. For the sake of clarity, paragraph (4) confirms that the expenditures incurred by the parties in connection with any evidence produced and measures taken are governed by Article 61(2) of the Convention. Accordingly, they must be assessed and attributed by the Tribunal in its award (in this connection, see also Rules 27 and 47(1)(j)).

Rule 34

Examination of Witnesses and Experts

(1) Witnesses and experts shall be examined before the Tribunal by the parties under the control of its President. Questions may also be put to them by any member of the Tribunal.

(2) Each witness shall make the following declaration before giving his evidence: “I solemnly declare upon my honour and conscience that I shall speak the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.”

(3) Each expert shall make the following declaration before making his statement:

“I solemnly declare upon my honour and conscience that my statement will be in accordance with my sincere belief.”

NOTE

Under this Rule, witnesses and experts in general depose “before the Tribunal”—the exceptions being covered by Rule 35. They are examined by the “parties” (cf. Rule 18(2)). The examination is under the control of the President of the Tribunal (see Rule 14(1)) and he as well as all other members may put questions.

Witnesses and Experts: Special Rules

Notwithstanding Rule 34, the Tribunal may:

- (a) admit evidence given by a witness or expert in a written deposition; and
- (b) with the consent of both parties, arrange for the examination of a witness or expert otherwise than before the Tribunal itself. The Tribunal shall define the subject of the examination, the time limit, the procedure to be followed and other particulars. The parties may participate in the examination. Minutes shall be kept in accordance with Rule 37, mutatis mutandis.

NOTES

A. Rule 34 provides that, in principle, evidence by witnesses and experts shall be given “before the Tribunal” However, since the Tribunal may encounter certain difficulties in obtaining such evidence (because it has no power of compulsion) and since international tribunals are not fettered by the technical evidentiary rules of national law, the present Rule admits, for practical reasons, two exceptions to the general principle.

B. Under subparagraph (a) the Tribunal may receive, and indeed call for, evidence in the form of a written deposition by a witness or expert. The probative value of such evidence may, however, be the subject of objections by the parties at the hearings, on which the Tribunal must then make a decision pursuant to Rule 33(1). It may require that such depositions be “notarized” or attested in any appropriate manner.

C. Subparagraph (b) is formulated sufficiently broadly to enable the Tribunal to appoint either one of its members or some other person or body as a “commissioner” before whom the examination shall take place, and also to enable it to appoint an examiner. As a safeguard, both parties must consent to this procedure, and both may participate in the examination.

Rule 36
Visits and Inquiries

If the Tribunal considers it necessary to visit any place connected with the dispute or to conduct an inquiry there, it shall make an order to this effect. The order shall define the scope of the visit or the subject of the inquiry, the time limit, the procedure to be followed and other particulars. The parties may participate in any visit or inquiry. Minutes shall be kept in accordance with Rule 37, mutatis mutandis.

NOTE

This Rule specifies the procedure for implementing Article 43(b) of the Convention and Rule 33(2)(b). Its language is sufficiently broad to enable the Tribunal to conduct an inquiry at "any place connected with the dispute", or to entrust it to a commissioner or some body or organization (cf. also Rule 35(b)).

---

Minutes

- (1) The Secretary-General shall keep minutes of all hearings; these shall include:
  - (a) the place, date and time of the hearing;
  - (b) the names of the members of the Tribunal present;
  - (c) the designation of each party present;
  - (d) the names of the agents, counsel and advocates present;
  - (e) the names, descriptions and addresses of the witnesses and experts heard;
  - (f) a summary record of the evidence produced;
  - (g) a summary record of the statements made by the parties;
  - (h) a summary record of questions put to the parties by the members of the Tribunal, as well as of the replies thereto; and
  - (i) any order made or announced by the Tribunal.

(2) The minutes of the hearing shall be signed by the President of the Tribunal and the Secretary-General. These minutes alone shall be authentic. They shall not be published without the consent of the parties.

(3) The Tribunal may, and at the request of a party shall, order that the hearings be more fully recorded.

NOTES

A. The functions of the Secretary-General under paragraphs (1) and (2) of this Rule will ordinarily be performed by the Secretary he is to appoint for the proceeding pursuant to Administrative and Financial Regulation 25.

B. For reasons of economy, but also in order to attain a measure of informality, this Rule does not require either a shorthand record or the electronic recording of a hearing. On the other hand, it does not exclude the possibility of including in the minutes, at the request of the party concerned, a verbatim record of any statement. Paragraph (3), moreover, permits a party or the Tribunal to require that a verbatim or other complete record of the hearing be made by any appropriate means. If done so at the request of a party, the Tribunal may require it, at least provisionally, to bear the resulting costs in accordance with Rule 27(1)(b).

C. The provisions of this Rule also apply, mutatis mutandis, to the special examination of witnesses and experts pursuant to Rule 35(b), and to visits and inquiries by the Tribunal pursuant to Rule 36.

Rule 38

Closure of the Proceeding

(1) When the presentation of the case by the parties is completed, the proceeding shall be declared closed.

(2) Exceptionally, the Tribunal may, before the award has been rendered, re-open the proceeding on the ground that new evidence is forthcoming of such a nature as to constitute a decisive factor, or that there is a vital need for clarification on certain specific points.

NOTES

A. Closure of the proceeding is considered to be without prejudice to the discretionary power of the Tribunal to re-open it on its own initiative or on motion of either party. However, paragraph (2) emphasizes the exceptional character of a re-opening. Since the new evidence, or the need for clarification, may require both further written and further oral procedures, it is the "proceeding" that may be re-opened.

B. The closure of the proceeding marks the time limit before which any proposal to disqualify an arbitrator, pursuant to Article 57 of the Convention, must be filed (see Rule 9(1)). On the other hand, the requirement in Rule 27(2) to file statements of costs incurred should be complied with "promptly after the closure of the proceeding"

C. After the award has been rendered (see Article 49(1) of the Convention and Rule 48(2)), the case is closed, but the provisions of the Convention on the supplementation, rectification, interpretation, revision or annulment of the award (Articles 49(2) and 50-52 of the Convention and Rules 49-55) may apply.

CHAPTER V

PARTICULAR PROCEDURES

Rule 39

Provisional Measures

(1) At any time during the proceeding a party may request that provisional measures for the preservation of its rights be recommended by the Tribunal. The request shall specify the rights to be preserved, the measures the recommendation of which is requested, and the circumstances that require such measures.

(2) The Tribunal shall give priority to the consideration of a request made pursuant to paragraph (1).

(3) The Tribunal may also recommend provisional measures on its own initiative or recommend measures other than those specified in a request. It may at any time modify or revoke its recommendations.

(4) The Tribunal shall only recommend provisional measures, or modify or revoke its recommendations, after giving each party an opportunity of presenting its observations.

NOTES

A. This Rule provides the procedural framework for implementing Article 47 of the Convention, which is based on the principle that once a dispute is submitted to arbitration the parties should not take steps that might aggravate or extend their dispute or prejudice the execution of the award. Because of the generality of this principle, not only can a party request the Tribunal to recommend provisional measures at any time during the proceeding, i.e., in principle from its institution (Institution Rule 6(2)), but in practice only from the constitution of the Tribunal (Arbitration Rule 6(1)) since it is the Tribunal that must make the recommendation—until the award is rendered (Rule 48(2)), but the Tribunal may also make recommendations on its own initiative (see paragraph (3) of the present Rule).

B. However, this power of the Tribunal exists (pursuant to Article 47 of the Convention) only "except as the parties otherwise agree"; moreover, unless the parties otherwise agree, the Tribunal only has the power to "recommend" This restriction is not as serious as it appears, for not only is the authority of a recommendation emanating from an international tribunal very considerable but the Tribunal can normally take into account in its award the effects of any non-compliance with its recommendations.

C. Paragraph (2) is based on the assumption that to preserve the rights of a party speedy action may be required. Accordingly the President of the Tribunal may, if he considers the request as urgent, propose a decision to be taken by correspondence (Rule 16(2)), or even convene the Tribunal for a special session.

D. The measures recommended must be "provisional" in character and be appropriate in nature, extent and duration to the risk existing for the rights to be preserved. Paragraph (3) therefore allows the Tribunal to recommend measures other than those proposed by the moving party, and to modify or revoke its recommendations as circumstances may require.

E. In order to avoid surprises or unintentionally unfair dispositions, paragraph (4) requires that both parties be given an opportunity to present their observations before the Tribunal makes its recommendations or modifies or revokes them. The Tribunal must decide how this opportunity will be given.

Ancillary Claims

(1) Except as the parties otherwise agree, a party may present an incidental or additional claim or counter-claim arising directly out of the subject-matter of the dispute, provided that such ancillary claim is within the scope of the consent of the parties and is otherwise within the jurisdiction of the Centre.

(2) An incidental or additional claim shall be presented not later than in the reply and a counter-claim no later than in the counter-memorial, unless the Tribunal, upon justification by the party presenting the ancillary claim and upon considering any objection of the other party, authorizes the presentation of the claim at a later stage in the proceeding.

(3) The Tribunal shall fix a time limit within which the party against which an ancillary claim is presented may file its observations thereon.

NOTES

A. Article 46 of the Convention deals with two types of ancillary claims: (i) "incidental or additional claims"; and (ii) "counter-claims" The former are presented, as a rule, by the party that originally requested the institution of the proceeding, the latter—which may be a form of defense—by the other party. (A claim ancillary to a counter-claim is conceivable.) Both types of claims require safeguards ensuring that the party against whom they are directed should not be taken by surprise.

B. Consequently, ancillary claims are subject to three preliminary conditions (the first two of which appear in Article 46 of the Convention)

- (a) To be admissible such claims must arise "directly" out of the "subject-matter of the dispute" (French version: "l'objet du différend"; Spanish version: "la diferencia"). The test to satisfy this condition is whether the factual connection between the original and the ancillary claim is so close as to require the adjudication of the latter in order to achieve the final settlement of the dispute, the object being to dispose of all the grounds of dispute arising out of the same subject matter.

(b) Such claims must also be “within the jurisdiction of the Centre” (as to the meaning of this phrase, see Report, paragraph 22) and, in particular, “within the scope of the consent of the parties” (cf. Institution Rule 2(1)(c)). The Tribunal must, if need be, examine proprio motu whether this condition is satisfied (see Rule 41(2)).

(c) Finally, as regards form, an ancillary claim must be filed within certain time limits (see paragraph (2) of the present Rule and Note C, below).

C. Unless there is a special justification by the moving party, an ancillary claim must be presented in the course of the written procedure. Thus, an incidental or additional claim is to be presented by the requesting party “not later than” in its reply (i.e., its second pleading—see Rule 30(1)); it may of course present that claim already in its memorial (the first pleading). A counter-claim must be presented not later than the counter-memorial (i.e., the first pleading filed by the responding party). A party may present an ancillary claim at a later date only if there is justification considered adequate by the Tribunal.

D. Normally the written procedure on an ancillary claim is restricted to one “round” However, the Tribunal may decide otherwise.

Objections to Jurisdiction

(1) Any objection that the dispute or any ancillary claim is not within the jurisdiction of the Centre or, for other reasons, is not within the competence of the Tribunal shall be made as early as possible. A party shall file the objection with the Secretary-General no later than the expiration of the time limit fixed for the filing of the counter-memorial, or, if the objection relates to an ancillary claim, for the filing of the rejoinder—unless the facts on which the objection is based are unknown to the party at that time.

(2) The Tribunal may on its own initiative consider, at any stage of the proceeding, whether the dispute or any ancillary claim before it is within the jurisdiction of the Centre and within its own competence.

(3) Upon the formal raising of an objection relating to the dispute, the proceeding on the merits shall be suspended. The President of the Tribunal, after consultation with its other members, shall fix a time limit within which the parties may file observations on the objection.

(4) The Tribunal shall decide whether or not the further procedures relating to the objection shall be oral. It may deal with the objection as a preliminary question or join it to the merits of the dispute. If the Tribunal overrules the objection or joins it to the merits, it shall once more fix time limits for the further procedures.

(5) If the Tribunal decides that the dispute is not within the jurisdiction of the Centre or not within its own competence, it shall render an award to that effect.

NOTES

A. Under the Convention, the Tribunal is “the judge of its own competence” (Article 41(1)) and must also decide objections to the jurisdiction of the Centre (Article 41(2)) (as to the meaning of the phrase “jurisdiction of the Centre”, see Report, paragraph 22). The Tribunal is not bound to assume jurisdiction merely because the Secretary-General, by registering a request for arbitration, has implicitly acknowledged that, in his view, the dispute in question is not “manifestly outside the jurisdiction of the Centre” (see Article 36(3) of the Convention and Institution Rule 6(1)). Therefore, in spite of the registration the Tribunal may decide that the dispute is not within the jurisdiction of the Centre, or for other reasons is not within its own competence.

B. An objection to the jurisdiction of the Centre or to the competence of the Tribunal (for the sake of brevity, in these Notes referred to as "objections to jurisdiction") will usually be raised by one of the parties (as foreseen in paragraph (1) of this Rule). However, it may also be raised by the Tribunal on its own initiative (paragraph (2)), and indeed the Tribunal has special responsibility to do so if one of the parties has defaulted (see Rule 42(4)). In either case, the procedure followed is similar, and both parties must have an opportunity to present their observations (see paragraph (3) of this Rule).

C. Paragraph (1) requires that any objection to jurisdiction be made "as early as possible" The earliest that this can be done is of course immediately after the institution of the proceeding (i.e., after registration of the request—see Institution Rule 6) since the Secretary-General himself is not authorized under Article 36(3) of the Convention to take account of any material not contained in the request itself. In any case, an objection to jurisdiction cannot be considered by the Secretary-General even after registration, but will be taken up as the first order of business of the Tribunal upon its constitution. On the other hand, the facts on which an objection may be based might not be known to the party concerned at the time the proceeding is instituted or an ancillary claim is introduced. A State may, for instance, not know that, at the time of registration, the other party had been its national (cf. Article 25(2)(a) of the Convention). Hence, while an objection to jurisdiction should be made "as early as possible", the specific limits laid down in paragraph (1) do not apply if "the facts on which the objection is based are unknown to the party at that time"

D. Whenever an objection to jurisdiction is raised, either by one of the parties or by the Tribunal itself, the proceeding on the merits must be suspended and both parties must be given an opportunity to file observations. However, such suspension is only necessary if the objection relates to the dispute itself and not merely to an ancillary claim; in the latter case the Tribunal need not suspend consideration of the merits of the principal claim, but it might do so with respect to the merits of the ancillary claim in question until the parties have filed their observations on that challenge.

E. Thereafter, the Tribunal has, under paragraph (4), three possibilities: It may deal with the objection as a preliminary question and, if it deems it well-founded, end the proceeding without adjudicating on the merits. It may overrule the objection and resume the proceeding on the merits. Finally it may join the objection to the merits—a course it is likely to adopt where the facts on which the objection is based are closely connected with the merits and a decision on the objection might prejudice the decision on the latter.

F. If the Tribunal finds an objection to jurisdiction, relating to the dispute itself, to be well founded, paragraph (5) requires it to express this decision in an award. Such an award should conform to the provisions of Articles 48 and 49 of the Convention (see also Rules 46-48), and the appropriate post-award remedies specified in Articles 49(2) and 50-52 of the Convention (see also Rules 49-55) apply; such an award should also include a decision on the cost of the proceeding in accordance with Article 61(2) of the Convention (see also Rule 27(2) and Note D thereto). If the Tribunal's decision that it lacks jurisdiction relates only to an ancillary claim, or if it decides against an objection relating either to the dispute itself or to an ancillary claim, such a decision should be reflected in the principal award, in accordance with Article 48(3) of the Convention (see also Rule 47(1)(i)).

G. Objections to jurisdiction, as well as any observation filed by the parties, should conform to the requirements established for all instruments filed in the proceeding, in particular those specified in Rules 21-25 and in Administrative and Financial Regulations 24 and 30.

Default

(1) If a party (in this Rule called the "defaulting party") fails to appear or to present its case at any stage of the proceeding, the other party may, at any time prior to the discontinuance of the proceeding, request the Tribunal to deal with the questions submitted to it and to render an award.

(2) The Tribunal shall promptly notify the defaulting party of such a request. Unless it is satisfied that that party does not intend to appear or to present its case in the proceeding, it shall, at the same time, grant a period of grace and to this end:

- (a) if that party had failed to file a pleading or any other instrument within the time limit fixed therefor, fix a new time limit for its filing; or
- (b) if that party had failed to appear or present its case at a hearing, fix a new date for the hearing.

The period of grace shall not, without the consent of the other party, exceed 60 days.

(3) After the expiration of the period of grace or when, in accordance with paragraph (2), no such period is granted, the Tribunal shall resume the consideration of the dispute. Failure of the defaulting party to appear or to present its case shall not be deemed an admission of the assertions made by the other party

(4) The Tribunal shall examine the jurisdiction of the Centre and its own competence in the dispute and, if it is satisfied, decide whether the submissions made are well-founded in fact and in law. To this end, it may, at any stage of the proceeding, call on the party appearing to file observations, produce evidence or submit oral explanations.

NOTES

A. Failure of a party to appear or to take part in a conciliation proceeding under the Convention entails closure of the proceeding (see Article 34(2) of the Convention); in arbitration proceedings, on the other hand, default need not have this consequence. The Tribunal must continue to discharge its task if it is requested to do so (see Article 45(2) of the Convention). And if it does so and renders its award, the latter is binding on both parties—as a consequence of the mutual consent on which the jurisdiction of the Tribunal is based.

B. A request pursuant to paragraph (1) may emanate from either party to the dispute, not only from the party that made the original request for the institution of the proceeding. It can be made “at any stage” but must be made “prior to the discontinuance of the proceeding”. Since neither the Tribunal nor the defaulting party should be exposed indefinitely to a re-opening of the proceeding, if neither party takes any step in the proceeding during six consecutive months (i.e., if one party defaults and the other fails to make a request pursuant to Rule 42(1) within six months), the Tribunal must take action to discontinue the proceeding pursuant to Rule 45.

C. An immediate consequence of the request is that the defaulting party must be placed on notice and granted a “period of grace” (as required by Article 45(2) of the Convention), which under paragraph (2) of this Rule may not, without the consent of the other party, exceed 60 days (since presumably the defaulting party already had adequate time to prepare its case before the default). However, such a period need not be granted where the Tribunal is satisfied that the defaulting party does not intend to participate in the proceeding—e.g., because it has made a formal declaration to that effect. Otherwise the granting of the period is obligatory.

D. In conformity with Article 45(2) of the Convention, the Tribunal is “to deal with the questions submitted to it and render an award”. The Tribunal is therefore not confined to making an award in favor of the party appearing; it may instead decline its jurisdiction or render an award in favor of the defaulting party (see Note E, below).

E. In accordance with Article 45(1) of the Convention, paragraph (3) of this Rule provides that neither the default nor the request should prejudice the substance of the decision of the Tribunal. Neither affects the substantive rights of the parties or any earlier submission; they only alter their procedural position: After the Tribunal has, on the expiration of the period of grace, resumed consideration of the request, the proceeding is no longer fully “contentious” in the sense that expression is used in national civil procedures; the initiative is shifted to the Tribunal as far as the substantiation of the submissions is concerned. The Tribunal must now proprio motu examine:

- (a) whether the dispute comes within the jurisdiction of the Centre and otherwise within

- its own competence (as to its inherent powers in this respect, see also Rule 41(2)); the Tribunal must, even if its jurisdiction has not been contested by the parties, end the proceeding unless it is satisfied that it is competent (Rule 41(5)); and
- (b) the substantive merit of the “assertions” made by both parties in order to satisfy itself whether their submissions are well-founded in fact and law. To this end, it may call on the active party for observations, evidence or explanations.

Rule 43

Settlement and Discontinuance

(1) If, before the award is rendered, the parties agree on a settlement of the dispute or otherwise to discontinue the proceeding, the Tribunal, or the Secretary-General if the Tribunal has not yet been constituted, shall, at their written request, in an order take note of the discontinuance of the proceeding.

(2) If the parties file with the Secretary-General the full and signed text of their settlement and in writing request the Tribunal to embody such settlement in an award, the Tribunal may record the settlement in the form of its award.

NOTES

A. This Rule deals with the contingency of the parties agreeing to settle their dispute or to discontinue the proceeding on some other basis (e.g., in order to substitute a conciliation proceeding). Rule 44, on the other hand, provides for discontinuance at the unilateral request of a party; finally, Rule 45 provides for discontinuance at the initiative of the Tribunal if both parties are inactive for a long period of time. (See also Administrative and Financial Regulation 13(3)(d) (final sentence) concerning the Secretary-General's power to move a discontinuance for long continued non-payment of charges, and Institution Rule 8 concerning the right of unilateral withdrawal before registration of the request.)

B. Paragraph (1) of the Rule will be invoked by the parties if they both merely wish to discontinue the proceeding, for any reason, without any award being rendered. If the Tribunal has already been constituted, it is required to issue an order noting the discontinuance. In view of the consensual character of this procedure, the Secretary-General is given the same duty and authority as the Tribunal, to be exercised if the joint request is submitted before the Tribunal is constituted (see Rule 6(1)); this obviates the necessity of constituting the Tribunal merely for this purpose. Such an order, whether issued by the Tribunal or the Secretary-General, is not an award, and therefore would not normally contain any provision regarding the division of expenses in accordance with Article 61(2) of the Convention (see also Rule 27(2)).

C. In addition, if the parties have reached a settlement, they may under paragraph (2) request the Tribunal to embody the terms agreed between them in an award. The Tribunal is given discretion on whether to comply with such a request, since it may instead decide that it lacks jurisdiction (see Rule 41(2) and (5)), or that it considers it improper for the Tribunal to become a party to a particular settlement. If the Tribunal complies, the settlement acquires, as far as possible, the force of an award rendered pursuant to the Convention. In this form, it benefits from the provisions of Articles 53 and 54 (and therefore also of Article 27) of the Convention: thus each Contracting State must recognize such an award as binding and enforce the pecuniary obligations thereunder. On the other hand, Articles 50 to 52 of the Convention (interpretation, revision and annulment) cannot have full application with regard to such an award. It should be noted that an award can only be rendered by a Tribunal, and not by the Secretary-General.

Rule 44

Discontinuance at Request of a Party

If a party requests the discontinuance of the proceeding, the Tribunal, or the Secretary-General if the Tribunal has not yet been constituted, shall in an order fix a time limit within which the other party may state whether it opposes the discontinuance. If no objection is made in writing within the time limit, the other party shall be deemed to have acquiesced in the discontinuance and the Tribunal, or if appropriate the Secretary-General, shall in an order take note of the discontinuance of the proceeding. If objection is made, the proceeding shall continue.

NOTES

A. The several Rules relating to discontinuance of proceedings are cited in Note A to Rule 43.

B. Before the proceeding has been instituted (i.e., before the request for arbitration has been registered) unilateral discontinuance can be effected by withdrawal of the request for arbitration pursuant to Institution Rule 8. However, it is generally considered that once an arbitration proceeding has been instituted, each party acquires by a litis contestatio an interest in endeavoring to secure from the Tribunal a positive pronouncement in its favor. Consequently, this Rule provides that if either party wishes to discontinue the proceeding unilaterally, the acquiescence of the other party must be obtained; but, so as not to permit such party to block a discontinuance by inaction, intentional or unintentional, a time limit is to be set for its response.

C. It should be noted that, practically, under this Rule the agreement (express or implied) of both parties must be secured for discontinuance. Thus the effect of this Rule is not greatly different from that of Rule 43(1). Consequently, here too the Secretary-General is given the same authority as the Tribunal to arrange for the discontinuance of the proceeding if the request is made before the Tribunal is constituted (see Rule 6(1))—thus obviating the necessity of constituting the Tribunal merely for this purpose.

D. An order discontinuing a proceeding under this Rule, whether issued by the Tribunal or the Secretary-General, is not an award, and therefore would not normally contain any provision regarding the division of expenses in accordance with Article 61(2) of the Convention (see also Rule 27(2)).

Discontinuance for Failure of Parties to Act

If the parties fail to take any steps in the proceeding during six consecutive months or such period as they may agree with the approval of the Tribunal, or of the Secretary-General if the Tribunal has not yet been constituted, they shall be deemed to have discontinued the proceeding and the Tribunal, or if appropriate the Secretary-General, shall, after notice to the parties, in an order take note of the discontinuance.

NOTES

A. If for six months no action is taken by the parties, it can be presumed that they have abandoned the proceeding and are no longer interested in a decision of their dispute. This Rule provides that in that contingency, the Tribunal must order the discontinuance of the proceeding. It must, however, first give them notice, and they may thereupon agree to extend the six-month period, if, for instance, they are in the course of negotiating a settlement.

B. The failure of the parties to act may date from before the constitution of the Tribunal (see Rule 6(1))—e.g., if after the registration of the request for arbitration (see Institution Rule 6(1)), neither party takes any step to constitute the Tribunal. Since any time after 90 days have passed either party can, under Article 38 of the Convention, unilaterally require the Chairman of the Administrative Council to constitute the Tribunal, and under Article 45(2) a party may unilaterally request the Tribunal to render an award, it is undesirable for a proceeding to stay in limbo indefinitely. Consequently, by analogy to Rules 43 and 44, the Secretary-General is given the same authority as the Tribunal to cause the discontinuance of the proceeding if neither party has taken action to have the Tribunal constituted within six months.

C. An order discontinuing a proceeding under this Rule, whether issued by the Tribunal or the Secretary-General, is not an award, and therefore would not normally contain any provision regarding the division of expenses in accordance with Article 61(2) of the Convention (see also Rule 27(2)).

D. If the inaction of the parties takes the form of non-payment of the advances and supplemental charges due from them to the Centre pursuant to Administrative and Financial Regulation 13(3)(a), then the Secretary-General is empowered to move the Tribunal to stay the proceeding before the funds he has previously received have been entirely exhausted. If a proceeding is stayed on this basis for a period in excess of six months, then the Secretary-General may, pursuant to the final sentence of Regulation 13(3)(d), move that the Tribunal discontinue the proceeding. That Regulation is thus closely coordinated with the present Rule.

E. It should also be noted that the power of the parties to extend indefinitely, by their agreement, the six-month period provided for in this Rule, makes it unnecessary to include in these Rules any explicit provision for the consensual stay of the proceeding.

CHAPTER VI THE AWARD

Rule 46

Preparation of the Award

The award shall be drawn up and signed within 60 days after the closure of the proceeding. The Tribunal may, however, extend this period by a further 30 days if it would otherwise be unable to draw up the award.

NOTE

The closure of the proceeding is provided for in Rule 38. Signature of the award means signature by each member of the Tribunal that voted for it (see Article 48(2) of the Convention); since it is not required that all arbitrators sign at the same time (see Rule 47(2) and Note C thereto), the 60- or 90-day limit is intended to refer to the last signature to be affixed (see also Rule 48(1), first sentence). The date the award is "rendered" is determined in accordance with Article 49(1) of the Convention and Rule 48(2), subject to the final sentence of Article 49(2) of the Convention.

The Award

- (1) The award shall be in writing and shall contain:
- (a) a precise designation of each party;
  - (b) a statement that the Tribunal was established under the Convention, and a description of the method of its constitution;
  - (c) the name of each member of the Tribunal, and an identification of the appointing authority of each;
  - (d) the names of the agents, counsel and advocates of the parties;
  - (e) the dates and place of the sittings of the Tribunal;
  - (f) a summary of the proceeding;
  - (g) a statement of the facts as found by the Tribunal;
  - (h) the submissions of the parties;
  - (i) the decision of the Tribunal on every question submitted to it, together with the reasons upon which the decision is based; and
  - (j) any decision of the Tribunal regarding the cost of the proceeding.

(2) The award shall be signed by the members of the Tribunal who voted for it; the date of each signature shall be indicated.

(3) Any member of the Tribunal may attach his individual opinion to the award, whether he dissents from the majority or not, or a statement of his dissent.

NOTES

A. Subparagraph (1)(i) of this Rule is based on Article 48(3) of the Convention; subparagraph (1)(j) on Article 61(2); paragraph (2) on Article 48(2); and paragraph (3) on Article 48(4).

B. In accordance with Article 48 (1) of the Convention (and Rule 16(1)), the decision of the Tribunal on every question must be taken "by a majority of the votes of all its members" This formula holds regardless of any quorum requirement set pursuant to Rule 14(2) and whether the decision is one taken at a sitting or is taken by correspondence (see Rule 16(2) and Note C thereto).

C. The award need not necessarily be "drawn up and signed" (see Rule 46) at a sitting of the Tribunal. Whether or not the decisions were taken by correspondence, or in the absence of one or more members of the Tribunal, it is only necessary that each member who voted for the award should sign it (Article 48(2) of the Convention and paragraph (2) of this Rule) within the time limit established in accordance with Rule 46. Since the signatures need not be affixed simultaneously, it is provided that each signature should be dated. After every favorable arbitrator has signed, Rule 48(1) applies.

D. Consideration has been given to the formulation of a provision to cover the contingency that a Tribunal might be unable to reach a majority decision on an issue, in particular on the amount of damages to be awarded. It was, however, concluded that with respect to most questions, which admit of only a positive or a negative answer, no problem can arise under Article 48(1) of the Convention, since if a proposition (such as a submission) fails to achieve a majority it is automatically decided negatively. (In this connection it should be recalled that Rule 16(1) provides explicitly, as Article 48(1) of the Convention requires implicitly, that abstentions shall be counted as negative votes, and that Article 37(2) of the Convention requires the Tribunal to consist of an uneven number of arbitrators.) If the question is not one susceptible of merely two possible answers (such as the determination of an amount), a decision can normally be reached by a proper sequence of votes by which alternatives are successively eliminated. Since this aspect of the proceeding will be controlled by the President of the Tribunal (Rule 14(1)) it was considered unnecessary and presumptuous to attempt to specify a precise voting procedure for this purpose, which in any case could not cover every situation.

Rule 48

Rendering of the Award

(1) Upon signature by the last arbitrator to sign, the Secretary-General shall promptly:

- (a) authenticate the original text of the award and deposit it in the archives of the Centre, together with any individual opinions and statements of dissent; and
- (b) dispatch a certified copy of the award (including individual opinions and statements of dissent) to each party, indicating the date of dispatch on the original text and on all copies.

(2) The award shall be deemed to have been rendered on the date on which the certified copies were dispatched.

(3) The Secretary-General shall, upon request, make available to a party additional certified copies of the award.

(4) The Centre shall not publish the award without the consent of the parties.

NOTES

A. Subparagraph (1)(b) and paragraph (2) of this Rule are based on Article 49(1) of the Convention. Paragraph (4) reproduces Article 48(5)—in this connection, see also Administrative and Financial Regulation 21(2). The Secretary-General's functions pursuant to paragraphs (1) and (3) are in consonance with Regulation 28.

B. In order to avoid the inconvenience and additional expense that might be caused if the Tribunal were required to reconvene merely to read the award, these Rules do not require that the award be delivered at a sitting of the Tribunal. Nor need it be signed on the same date by all members of the Tribunal who voted for it. If, because of their locations, members sign on different dates, the Secretary-General's responsibility for prompt action under paragraph (1) must be measured relative to the date on which the last required signature is added. Though not stated explicitly, that date should also mark the time limit within which individual opinions and statements of dissent should be filed with the Secretary-General in order to be "attached" to the award (see Article 48(4) of the Convention and Rule 47(3)) so as to permit him to comply fully with paragraph (1) of this Rule.

Supplementary Decisions and Rectification

(1) A request for a supplementary decision on or the rectification of an award pursuant to Article 49(2) of the Convention shall be addressed in writing to the Secretary-General and shall:

- (a) identify the award to which it relates;
- (b) indicate the date of the request;
- (c) state in detail.
  - (i) any question which, in the opinion of the requesting party, the Tribunal omitted to decide in the award; and
  - (ii) any error in the award which the requesting party seeks to have rectified; and
- (d) be accompanied by the fee for lodging the request, as required by Administrative and Financial Regulation 15(2).

(2) Upon receiving the request, the Secretary-General shall forthwith register it in the Arbitration Register, except that he shall instead inform the requesting party of his refusal to register it if he received the request more than 45 days after the award was rendered.

(3) After registering the request, the Secretary-General shall forthwith:

- (a) notify both parties of the registration;
- (b) transmit to the other party a copy of the request and of any accompanying documentation; and
- (c) transmit to each member of the Tribunal a copy of the notice of registration, together with a copy of the request and of any accompanying documentation.

(4) The President of the Tribunal shall consult its other members on whether it is necessary for the Tribunal to meet in order to consider the request. The Tribunal shall fix a time limit for the parties to file their observations on the request and shall determine the further procedure for the consideration of the request.

(5) Rules 46-48 shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to any decision of the Tribunal pursuant to this Rule.

NOTES

A. This Rule implements the procedure provided for in Article 49(2) of the Convention.

B. The procedure pertaining to the filing and registration of a request in accordance with this Rule is roughly analogous to that for the filing and registration of an original request for arbitration in accordance with the Institution Rules. It is, however, especially important that the request adequately identify the award to which it relates, and state in detail the defects sought to be corrected. In this connection it should be noted that a single application may relate to both types of remedies (supplementary decision and rectification) (but cf. Note B to Rule 50).

C. The Secretary-General's authority to refuse to register a request made pursuant to Article 49(2) of the Convention is restricted to the contingency that the request is not made within the time limit prescribed by the Convention: taking into account Administrative and Financial Regulation 29, a request must be "delivered at the seat of the Centre" no later than the 45th day after the certified copies of the award were dispatched to the parties.

D. Unlike an interpretation, revision or annulment of an award (see Chapter VII of these Rules), a supplementary decision on or the rectification of an award can only be made by the Tribunal that rendered the award. If, for any reason, that Tribunal cannot be reconvened, the only remedy would be a proceeding under Chapter VII of these Rules.

E. In conformity with Article 49(2) of the Convention, paragraph (5) provides that decisions made under the present Rule should in general conform to the requirements established for an award. Administrative and Financial Regulation 28(2) requires that any "supplementary decision" and "rectification" be reflected on all certified copies of an award issued by the Secretary-General. Article 49(2) of the Convention and Rule 50(2)(a)-(c) provide that for the purposes of a proceeding to interpret, revise or annul an award, the relevant time limits shall be measured from the date on which a decision under the present Rule was rendered.

CHAPTER VII

INTERPRETATION, REVISION AND ANNULMENT OF THE AWARD

Rule 50

The Application

(1) An application for the interpretation, revision or annulment of an award shall be addressed in writing to the Secretary-General and shall:

- (a) identify the award to which it relates;
- (b) indicate the date of the application;
- (c) state in detail, in an application for:
  - (i) interpretation, the precise points in dispute;
  - (ii) revision, the change sought in the award as well as the full particulars necessary to show that the conditions laid down by Article 51(1) and (2) of the Convention are fulfilled;
  - (iii) annulment, the grounds on which the application is founded pursuant to Article 52(1) of the Convention as well as the full particulars necessary to show that the conditions laid down by Article 52(2) of the Convention are fulfilled; and
- (d) be accompanied by the fee for lodging the application, as required by Administrative and Financial Regulation 15(2).

(2) Upon receiving the application, the Secretary-General shall forthwith register it in the Arbitration Register, except that he shall instead inform the requesting party of his refusal to register it if:

- (a) it is an application for revision which he received more than three years after the award or any subsequent decision pursuant to Rule 49(5) was rendered;
  - (b) it is an application for annulment based on Article 52(1)(a), (b), (d) or (e) of the Convention which he received more than 120 days after the award or any subsequent decision pursuant to Rule 49(5) was rendered;
  - (c) it is an application based on Article 52(1)(c) of the Convention which he received more than three years after the award or any subsequent decision pursuant to Rule 49(5) was rendered.
- (3) After registering the application, the Secretary-General shall forthwith:
- (a) notify both parties of the registration; and
  - (b) transmit to the other party a copy of the application and of any accompanying documentation.

NOTES

A. This Rule and the subsequent ones in this Chapter are designed to implement the several procedures provided for in Articles 50-52 of the Convention.

B. The procedure pertaining to the filing and registration of an application in accordance with this Rule is roughly analogous to that for the filing and registration of an original request for arbitration in accordance with the Institution Rules. It is, however, especially important that the application adequately identify the award to which it relates and state in detail the grounds on which the particular remedy is sought. A single application may relate to only one of the three types of remedies (interpretation, revision, annulment); if a party seeks more than one type of remedy, it must file separate applications. This is necessary, both because of the separate time limits provided for in the Convention, and also because of the different procedures: interpretation or revision are considered by a Tribunal, annulment by an ad hoc Committee. Similarly, an application under this Rule must be made separately from a request under Rule 49.

C. The Secretary-General's authority to refuse to register an application made pursuant to Article 51 or 52 of the Convention is restricted to the contingency that it is made outside the absolute time limits prescribed by the Convention (i.e., three years after the date on which the award—or any supplement or rectification—was rendered in the case of a revision, and either 120 days or three years after such date in the case of an annulment). The Convention also specifies certain variable time limits. Article 51(2) imposes a 90-day limit "after the discovery of [the] fact" on which the request for revision is based and Article 52(2) imposes a similar 120-day limit "after discovery of the corruption"; but the Secretary-General might not be in a position to evaluate compliance with these limits. Therefore the Secretary-General's authority to refuse registration has been restricted to the unambiguous situations (in this connection attention is called to Administrative and Financial Regulation 29), but he is of course not precluded from calling the other applicable time limits to the attention of a party wishing to file an application and to remind it that the registration of an application does not preclude the competent Tribunal or Committee from deciding that an application is not receivable, as having been filed after the expiration of either the applicable absolute or the variable time limit established by the Convention.

Rule 51

Interpretation or Revision: Further Procedures

- (1) Upon registration of an application for the interpretation or revision of an award, the Secretary-General shall forthwith:
- (a) transmit to each member of the original Tribunal a copy of the notice of registration, together with a copy of the application and of any accompanying documentation; and

(b) request each member of the Tribunal to inform him within a specified time limit whether that member is willing to take part in the consideration of the application.

(2) If all members of the Tribunal express their willingness to take part in the consideration of the application, the Secretary-General shall so notify the members of the Tribunal and the parties. Upon dispatch of these notices the Tribunal shall be deemed to be reconstituted.

(3) If the Tribunal cannot be reconstituted in accordance with paragraph (2), the Secretary-General shall so notify the parties and invite them to proceed, as soon as possible, to constitute a new Tribunal by the same method as the original one, in accordance with Chapter I of these Rules (excepting Rule 2).

NOTES

A. Articles 50(2) and 51(3) of the Convention provide that a request for interpretation or revision shall "if possible, be submitted to the Tribunal which rendered the award"; only if this is not possible should a new Tribunal be constituted. This Rule is designed to implement these provisions.

B. Paragraphs (1) and (2) of this Rule prescribe how the Secretary-General is to attempt to reconstitute the Tribunal that rendered the original award. In particular, paragraph (2) is analogous to Rule 6(1), which relates to the original constitution of a Tribunal. However, there is no provision corresponding to Rule 6(2), since each member of the original Tribunal must already have signed a declaration relating to the dispute. The date of the reconstitution of the Tribunal may be of particular significance in connection with the stay of enforcement of an award pursuant to Rule 54(2).

C. Paragraph (3) prescribes how a new Tribunal is to be constituted, if the original one cannot be reconstituted. The procedure prescribed is precisely that applicable to the original constitution of a Tribunal, except that it is specified that the method of constituting the new Tribunal (i.e., the number of arbitrators and the method of their appointment) should be the same as in the case of the original Tribunal. It is hoped that thereby the speed of constituting the new Tribunal can be advanced. For this reason Rule 2, prescribing the procedure to be used for agreeing on the method of constituting a Tribunal, is inapplicable here; Rule 1(2), requiring the parties to inform the Secretary-General of any agreement reached by them relating to the constitution of the Tribunal, is also normally inapplicable, except if the parties agree to override this provision of the present Rule and agree on a different (probably simpler) type of Tribunal.

Annulment: Further Procédures

(1) Upon registration of an application for the annulment of an award, the Secretary-General shall forthwith request the Chairman of the Administrative Council to appoint an ad hoc Committee in accordance with Article 52(3) of the Convention.

(2) The Committee shall be deemed to be constituted on the date the Secretary-General notifies the parties that all members have accepted their appointment. Rule 6(2) shall apply, mutatis mutandis.

NOTES

A. Unlike a request for the interpretation or revision of an award (see Rule 51), a request for an annulment should, by its nature, not be considered by the original Tribunal but must be submitted to an ad hoc Committee of three persons appointed by the Chairman of the Administrative Council from the Panel of Arbitrators. This procedure is fully prescribed by Article 52(3) of the Convention, and consequently Chapter I of these Rules is inapplicable to the constitution of such a Committee, except that a declaration in a form analogous to that specified in Rule 6(2) must be signed by each member of the Committee.

B. Paragraph (2) prescribes the date of the constitution of the Committee in the same way as Rule 6(1) specifies the date of the constitution of a Tribunal. This date may be of particular significance in connection with the stay of enforcement of an award pursuant to Rule 54(2).

Rules of Procedure

Chapters II to V (excepting Rules 39 and 40) of these Rules shall apply mutatis mutandis to any procedure relating to the interpretation, revision or annulment of an award, and Chapter VI shall similarly apply to the decision by the Tribunal or Committee.

NOTES

A. The consideration of an application for the interpretation, revision or annulment of an award, whether conducted before the reconstituted original Tribunal or before a new one, or before an ad hoc Committee, may involve all the same elements as the original proceeding—though generally both the legal and the factual issues will be fewer and more specific. Thus legal points may have to be argued by instruments similar to pleadings, and it may be necessary to conduct hearings both to enable the parties to present their views orally and perhaps even to receive evidence (e.g., relating to the fact on the basis on which a revision is claimed or to the alleged corruption on which an application for annulment is grounded)—see also Note B to Rule 28.

B. The Tribunal or Committee will have authority, under Rule 19, to make any necessary orders for the revived proceeding. For the sake of simplicity, such a body will be entitled to assume that any procedural dispositions agreed to by the parties with respect to the original proceeding (e.g., the procedural languages (see Rule 21), the number of copies of instruments to be filed (Rule 22)) will remain unchanged. Similarly, unless a party indicates otherwise, it may be assumed that its representatives appointed pursuant to Rule 18(1) will continue with unchanged authority.

C. Rules 39 and 40, relating respectively to provisional measures and to ancillary claims, are not applicable to the procedures here specified. However, instead of provisional measures, a Tribunal or Committee is empowered, by Rule 54, to stay or refuse to stay the enforcement of part or all of the award it is reviewing.

Rule 54
Stay of Enforcement of the Award

(1) The party applying for the interpretation, revision or annulment of an award may in its application, and either party may at any time before the final disposition of the application, request a stay in the enforcement of part or all of the award to which the application relates. The Tribunal or Committee shall give priority to the consideration of such a request.

(2) If an application for the revision or annulment of an award contains a request for a stay of its enforcement, the Secretary-General shall, together with the notice of registration, inform both parties of the provisional stay of the award. As soon as the Tribunal or Committee is constituted it shall, if either party requests, rule within 30 days on whether such stay should be continued; unless it decides to continue the stay, it shall automatically be terminated.

(3) If a stay of enforcement has been granted pursuant to paragraph (1) or continued pursuant to paragraph (2), the Tribunal or Committee may at any time modify or terminate the stay at the request of either party. All stays shall automatically terminate on the date on which a final decision is rendered on the application, except that a Committee granting the partial annulment of an award may order the temporary stay of enforcement of the unannulled portion in order to give either party an opportunity to request any new Tribunal constituted pursuant to Article 52(6) of the Convention to grant a stay pursuant to Rule 55(3)

(4) A request pursuant to paragraph (1), (2) (second sentence) or (3) shall specify the circumstances that require the stay or its modification or termination. A request shall only be granted after the Tribunal or Committee has given each party an opportunity of presenting its observations.

(5) The Secretary-General shall promptly notify both parties of the stay of enforcement of any award and of the modification or termination of such a stay, which shall become effective on the date on which he dispatches such notification.

NOTES

A. This Rule is designed to implement Articles 50(2) (final sentence), 51(4) and 52(5) of the Convention.

B. Stays of enforcement of an award may be granted under three circumstances:

- (a) automatically but only provisionally, if a party applying for a revision or annulment of the award requests such a stay in its application (paragraph (2) of the present Rule);
- (b) as a matter of discretion, by a Tribunal or Committee, but only during the period it has the award under consideration and until it has issued its decision (paragraph (1) of the present Rule);
- (c) as a matter of discretion, by a Committee that has decided to annul part of an award and considers that enforcement of the unannulled portion might give one party an unfair advantage in light of the fact that the annulled portion might be reconsidered and reinstated by a new Tribunal pursuant to Article 52(6) of the Convention and Rule 55(3) (paragraph (3) (final sentence) of the present Rule).

C. A Tribunal or Committee, acting pursuant to paragraph (1) of this Rule, may decide to stay the enforcement of "part or all" of the award, as the circumstances appear to justify. However, a stay granted automatically at the request of a party in accordance with paragraph (2) can only relate to the entire award, for otherwise the moving party would be able to select the stay of only those portions of the award as are contrary to its interests; the Secretary-General thus has no discretion as to the granting or the refusal of the stay of enforcement of an award, except that if he refuses to register an application for lack of timeliness (see Rule 50(2)) then no stay of enforcement can be based on that application.

D. Paragraph (4) is formulated analogously to Rule 39(1) and (4), relating to the recommendation of provisional measures by a Tribunal.

E. Administrative and Financial Regulation 28(2) requires that the Secretary-General indicate any stay of enforcement which has been granted with respect to an award, on each certified copy of such award issued by him while the stay is in effect.

Rule 55

Resubmission of Dispute after an Annulment

(1) If a Committee annuls part or all of an award, either party may request the resubmission of the dispute to a new Tribunal. Such a request shall be addressed in writing to the Secretary-General and shall:

- (a) identify the award to which it relates;
- (b) indicate the date of the request;
- (c) explain in detail what aspect of the dispute is to be submitted to the Tribunal; and
- (d) be accompanied by the fee for lodging the request as required by Administrative and Financial Regulation 15(3)

(2) Upon receipt of the request, the Secretary-General shall forthwith:

- (a) register it in the Arbitration Register;
- (b) notify both parties of the registration;
- (c) transmit to the other party a copy of the request and of any accompanying documentation;
- (d) invite the parties to proceed, as soon as possible, to constitute a new Tribunal by the same method as the original one, in accordance with Chapter I of these Rules (excepting Rule 2)

(3) If the original award had only been annulled in part, the new Tribunal shall not reconsider any portion of the award not so annulled. It may, however, in accordance with the procedures set forth in Rule 54, stay or continue to stay the enforcement of the unannulled portion of the award until the date its own award is rendered.

(4) Except as otherwise provided in paragraphs (1)-(3), these Rules shall apply to a proceeding on a resubmitted dispute in the same manner as if such dispute had been submitted pursuant to the Institution Rules.

NOTES

A. This Rule is designed to implement Article 52(6) of the Convention.

B. The procedure pertaining to the filing and registration of a request pursuant to this Rule is roughly analogous to that relating to the filing and registration of an original request for arbitration in accordance with the Institution Rules. It is, however, especially important that the request adequately identify the award to which it relates, and state in detail what aspects of the former dispute (the one to which the annulled award related) are to be considered by the new Tribunal. Since the Convention establishes no time limit for the filing of a request under Article 52(6), nor indicates any other clear prohibition, the Secretary-General is not given any authority to refuse registration; of course, if he receives a request which relates to an award that has not been annulled in whole or in part, he would presumably have to treat it as a nullity.

C. Paragraph (2)(d) provides that the new Tribunal is to be constituted "by the same method as the original one", and for this reason Rule 2 is made inapplicable. This provision is designed to simplify the procedure for constituting the Tribunal, and may of course be overridden by agreement of the parties (in which contingency Rule 1(2) would apply).

D. Paragraph (3) provides that if the original award had only been annulled in part, then the new Tribunal shall not reconsider any portion of the award not so annulled. This is in accordance with the first sentence of Article 53(1) of the Convention, which indicates that awards shall not be subject to appeal except as provided in the Convention. If an ad hoc Committee empowered to annul all of an award has decided to annul only a part thereof (as it is entitled to do under Article 52(3) of the Convention), then the only possible remedy with respect to the unannulled portion is a request for revision made pursuant to Article 51 of the Convention.

CHAPTER VIII
GENERAL PROVISIONS

Rule 56

Final Provisions

- (1) The texts of these Rules in each official language of the Centre shall be equally authentic.
- (2) These Rules may be cited as the “Arbitration Rules” of the Centre.
- (3) The headings of the Chapters and Rules are for convenience of reference only and are not part of these Rules.

NOTES

A. The official languages of the Centre are specified in Administrative and Financial Regulation 34(1). At present these are English and French, but Spanish will be added automatically as soon as a Spanish-speaking State becomes a party to the Convention.

B. Whenever a new official language is added the Secretary-General will prepare a text of these Rules in that language for the approval of the Administrative Council.

CROSS-REFERENCE TABLES

The Cross-reference Tables below relate each paragraph of the Regulations and Rules of the Centre and of the Convention to other relevant paragraphs in these instruments and to any explanatory passages in the report of the Executive Directors of the World Bank accompanying the Convention.

The following abbreviations and symbols are used:

CR.—Conciliation Rule (Part C of this volume)

ED.—Paragraph of the Report of the Executive Directors of IBRD accompanying the Convention (ICSID/2)

FR.—Administrative and Financial Regulation (Part A of this volume)

IR.—Institution Rule (Part B of this document)

A bracketed entry means that the relationship of the indicated provision to that cited in the first column is an indirect one, or one differing from the pattern indicated by the column heading.
